GREAT MEETING OF CHEMISTS

Many Important Problems to Be Discussed at Milwaukee. Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10.—Revolutionary processes in the scientific baking of bread, drastic reform in the teaching of chemistry in the nation's high schools, elimination of huge waste in the manufacture of paper, and disposal of the sewage of the cities will be among the important subjects of discussion at the national summer meeting of the American Chemical Society to be held here this week. Problems of American Agriculture and of the leather and rubber industries also will come up. The meeting, which is attended by eminent chemists from all over the United States and from foreign countries, is expected to herald amazing post-war advances in chemical science.

Sessions began today with meetings of the society's council, presided over by the president, E. C. Franklin of Stanford University. A general public meeting is scheduled for tomorrow, when addresses of welcome will be delivered by officials of the State and city and a response will be made for the visiting delegates by Dr. Franklin.

Wednesday has been set apart for divisional and sectional meetings, the culminating event being the president's address at Marquette University. These meetings will be continued Thursday and will be followed by a series of college reunions and dinners to be attended by groups of chemists from various sections of the United States.

Featuring the convention will be two joint forums by the agricultural and food divisions of the society. One, with the industrial division, will be devoted to "Bread," under the chairmanship of Dr. H. E. Barnard of Minneapolis. The other, with the fertilizer division will discuss "Fertilizers and Crops," the chairman being H. A. Noyes of Westfield, N. Y.

Chemistry's influence on the paper industry will be shown at a meeting of the cellulose division, which will discuss "Waste Sulfit Liquors," and at which chemical experts will trace the progress of organized effort for the utilization of sulfite liquors, which at present are being wasted in great quantities in the manufacture of paper. This liquor, it is explained, cannot be emptied into streams, as it pollutes the water. Chemists seek a profitable use of these liquors to cheapen paper manufacture. One theory is to utilize them as road material.

Representatives from leading American colleges and technical schools will assemble at a meeting of the Chemical Education section to discuss methods of teaching chemistry, including classroom and laboratory work. A central event of this gathering will be discussion of a plan to change methods of teaching chemistry in American high schools, it being felt that greater emphasis should be placed on the practical application of chemistry. Joint sessions will be held by this section with the division of engineering chemistry to discuss the industrial education of chemists.

Dr. R. A. Gortner of the University of Minnesota and Dr. W. T. Bovie of Harvard have prepared a symposium of biophysical chemistry to be held under the auspices of the division of biological chemistry. Sessions will also be held by the division of water, sewage and sanitation and the rubber and leather divisions. Prominent teachers and authors will present papers before the section of history of chemistry. Employment and community service will be discussed at a big meeting of the society's local chairmen and secretaries, representing many States.

Interspersing the sessions of the week will be a series of social functions and excursions to points of scientific interest including the University of Wisconsin and the United States forest products laboratory.

Fabrics Made Abroad Have "Edge" on American Product. State College, Raleigh, Sept. 11.—Prof. Thomas Nelson, head of the textile department at State college, who spent the summer as a special expert with the United States tariff commission, with headquarters in Washington and New York, speaks very interestingly of the importation of cotton fabrics. Professor Nelson made a special survey of this phase of the cotton mill industry for the commission.

"The importation of cotton fabrics," says Professor Nelson, "is always an interesting study. Imported fabrics are, as a rule finer in texture and fancier in weave, or more highly finished than those made in the mills of the United States. Cotton fabrics are imported from all parts of the world—the United Kingdom, France, Switzerland, Japan, Czechoslovakia, Germany and other countries. The largest proportion comes from the United Kingdom and consists of a wide range of fabrics, among which may be mentioned the well known Scotch ginghams, broadcloth, skirting, warp sateen, which is famous for its lustrous and silky appearance.

"The fabrics of France and Switzerland are wonderful creations of the designers' and finishers' art, while the crepes of Japan, with their crispness and coloring, always find a ready market in the United States."

RESALE OF VALUABLE CITY LOT.

ANOTHER "NAVY DAY"

On October 27 It Is Hoped to Center Country's Attention on the Defenses by the Sea.

Washington, Sept. 9.—With the approval of the Navy Department, the Navy League of the United States is planning another "Navy Day," when it hopes to center the country's attention on its defenses by sea. The celebration will take place October 27th.

This letter from Acting Secretary Roosevelt to Robert W. Kelley, president of the League, promising the cooperation of the Navy Department in making the day a success, was made public today at the League's headquarters: "My dear Mr. Kelley:

"I am delighted to learn that you are planning to hold Navy Day again this year. What you did last year was a real patriotic service.

"It is the right of our people to be fully informed on the vital problem of national defense. The Navy is our bulwark. Behind its protection our people are able to carry on their lives, develop their ideals, and live in the righteous peace we so earnestly desire.

"It is the right arm of our State Department and translates our national pronouncements from empty words into statements that must be given the most serious consideration by all. Whereas we are all working for every legitimate economy in government, we should never let a penny-wise, pound-foolish policy govern our naval establishment.

"The Department will gladly cooperate with you and help you in any way to make the people realize their vital interest in the Navy.

"Every man and woman of the United States, especially those with children, should make it their business to see that our Treaty Navy is adequately and properly maintained.

"Very truly yours, "THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

In a letter to Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Kelley declared the purpose of the celebration was to clear up "much confusion of thought about the navy."

"Our Army and Navy have been denigrated as symbols of war, their officers and men its advocates," wrote Mr. Kelley. "This is not true. All classes are united in a desire for peace. None desires it more than army and navy men, our own brothers and sons, who realize more keenly than others the horrors of war and seek only the strength that will maintain peace—the peace of honor and justice, which is the only peace America should ever tolerate.

"We believe that the way to maintain that peace is to have sufficient strength to insure respect for our voice in the councils of nations. We believe in limitation of armaments by international agreement, but not in limitation of armaments by solitary example. Knowing that arms have made and kept us a nation, we are unwilling to thrust our liberties to others who remain armed and may seek their own selfish ends.

"The Navy League appeals to no party and to no special interests. It speaks only in the interests of America, a nation whose ultimate existence, as well as the peaceful existence of every citizen, is dependent on the protection of armed force. No generation of Americans since the first colonies touched our shores has escaped war and there is no evidence as yet that human nature has changed to the extent that wars can be no more. In fact the present state of the world would lead to quite the opposite conclusion."

Price of Liquor Goes Up. Kinston, Sept. 11.—Current trade reviews and the Japanese disaster today failed to reveal a reason for the increase in price of corn liquor. Authorities said the former were unreliable in the case of this commodity and that there could be no connection between the Asiatic earthquakes and the local monkey rum market; there is only one Jap here and he is a testator. Anyway, there was an average rise in prices of more than 15 per cent. The best grade of firewater made a new high for the year of $6, as against $5 at the previous session's close.

Life, like a nettle, will always hurt the man who lays hold of it gingerly.
