BIBLE THOUGHT
—FOR TODAY—
Bible Thoughts memorized, will prove a priceless heritage in after years.

A WISE THOUGHT.—Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord.—Lamentations 3:40.

A BRIGHT FUTURE.

In presenting this fair and industrial edition of The Tribune and Times, the management believes that the people of Concord, Kannapolis and Cabarrus, although having a good general idea of the many practical achievements of the last few years, will obtain a fuller comprehension of what a magnificent record of accomplishment is to the credit of this fine section of the Piedmont district.

We wish to thank the many public spirited citizens who have co-operated with us and whose support in the form of advertising, and of many special articles have made the edition possible. From cover to cover these pages show what Concord and Cabarrus have accomplished in a material way in the last few years. Our agricultural resources; our manufacturing and our wholesale and retail trade, have been developed and extended in a way which has put Cabarrus in the very forefront of the prosperous counties of North Carolina. A fine record of worthwhile achievement has resulted. The biographical sketches of our business men, show what industry and determination will accomplish under proper conditions. In scores of cases the record reveals how men starting with no capital but with the ambition to succeed in their chosen lines of endeavor, have succeeded in a substantial way. It does them credit, all the more so, because as they prospered themselves they felt properly appreciative towards Cabarrus and Concord, the field of their success, and dealt liberally and generously towards their home city and county.

No better example of the fine spirit of co-operation could be found than the Cabarrus County Fair Association, where almost over night a sum of $40,000 was raised to provide an up-to-date fair grounds. Every dollar came from the people of Concord with the exception of one share subscribed by a business man in a neighboring city. The money was raised because the people of Concord believed that a county fair would be beneficial in cementing the good relations which exist between the farmer and the business interests. The people of Concord appreciate that the farmers have given loyal support to our business interests, and in their turn they wish to show in a practical, broad way, that they are here to serve. Hence the fair. It is the first step in a policy of encouraging diversification in farming, particularly with regard to increasing the number of livestock in the county and improving its quality. Many special articles in this edition deal with the benefits of more livestock and less cotton. They are worthy of the consideration of every resident of the county. Great as Cabarrus is, we are but on the threshold of an era of development which will make the accomplishments of the past ten years pale into insignificance. The agricultural resources of Cabarrus have been barely scratched, and as agriculture is the basic foundation of our prosperity, it follows that as our farmers prosper and develop, Concord and the other trading centers of the county will prosper proportionately. Concord owes much of its contentment and success to the realization of its business men that the farmer must prosper first in order that those with whom the farmers deal may prosper also. It is an obvious economic axiom, but many trading centers fail to grasp its truth. Not so in Concord, however. The fair alone would prove that Concord was alive and working in a broad way for the future.

Our textile industry has expanded in a most important way during the last few years, until today the products of the Cabarrus county mills are sold the world over and Cabarrus is now synonymous with high quality in textile production. Here again the reciprocal spirit is reflected. The mill owners have gone to great expense and trouble to provide ideal working conditions. How different is the lot of the textile employee in Cabarrus compared with the same worker in New England. Model homes, modern, sanitary, convenient to work, with gardens, and all the benefits of country life, and at the same time the convenience of an up-to-date city, are at the service of the textile workers of Cabarrus. The mills have prospered in Cabarrus, but they have not forgotten the loyal employees who have contributed to their success. Those who may have doubts on this point are urged to inspect working conditions and the mill villages of Wiscasset and Kannapolis, and become convinced.

Concord people have a high standard of home and public life. Men and women who are broad guaged and liberal in their business relations invariably follow the same policy in their other interests. As a result of this condition Concord is as well and economically governed city well paved and well policed and with unusually good educational and religious facilities. The homes of its people are models in appearance, and happily there has been an entire absence of boom conditions, with the result that rents are moderate in Concord in comparison with most cities where equally prosperous business conditions prevail.

Concord has been well named a "friendly" city, where the newcomer is welcomed and made to feel at home. The future looks bright for Concord and Cabarrus. We have everything in a material way we could desire. Our future depends entirely upon the way in which we set about taking advantage of our opportunities. Judging by past results, our growth will be rapid and substantial, especially if the fine spirit of co-operation and good fellowship now existing is encouraged.

PRESBYTERIANS GATHER IN BURLINGTON FOR CONVENTION

Burlington and Graham Are Joint Hosts to Synod.

Burlington, Oct. 9.—Presbyterian ministers and elders have been pouring in on every train this afternoon to attend the opening session of the synod of North Carolina. It is estimated that at least 300 will be enrolled. The Twin towns of Burlington and Graham have risen with splendid hospitality to the occasion and the comfort of all the guests is amply provided for.

In the new church hut, which is a wonder of architectural beauty and convenience, the delegates were enrolled and assigned to their homes and a sumptuous supper served from 6 to 8 o'clock. Synod was opened with devotional services in the presence of a great congregation conducted by the retiring moderator, Dr. E. D. Brown, of China Grove, assisted by Dr. C. F. Myers, of Greensboro; Dr. W. R. Potter, Burlington, and Rev. E. N. Caldwell, of Graham.

The singing of both choir and congregation was exceptionally inspiring, and the moderator preached a great, soul-moving and timely sermon on the text: "If the foundations be destroyed what can the righteous do? The Lord is in His temple. His throne is in the heaven."

Modernism is rampant, the faith of many unsettled. The modernist is a man who has no settled conviction about anything except that the man who has any convictions is narrow. "He is ever hearing, yet never coming to a knowledge of the truth. Our foundations are being assaulted. There is an insidious campaign against the integrity and authority of the Word of God in pulpits and colleges and theological seminaries. The Christian home is being disrupted. When God is stirred His church, He began it in a home. It has come to such a pass today that when a couple live quietly together, and rear their children piously, they are laughed at as out of date. We have degraded marriage into a mere partnership to be dissolved at the caprice of either party. The Sabbath is desecrated to business and pleasure. Our Christ is attacked in his person and work as merely a 'good man.' Was His mission merely to be a great teacher and beautiful model? Or as he said himself, 'To seek and save the lost.'"

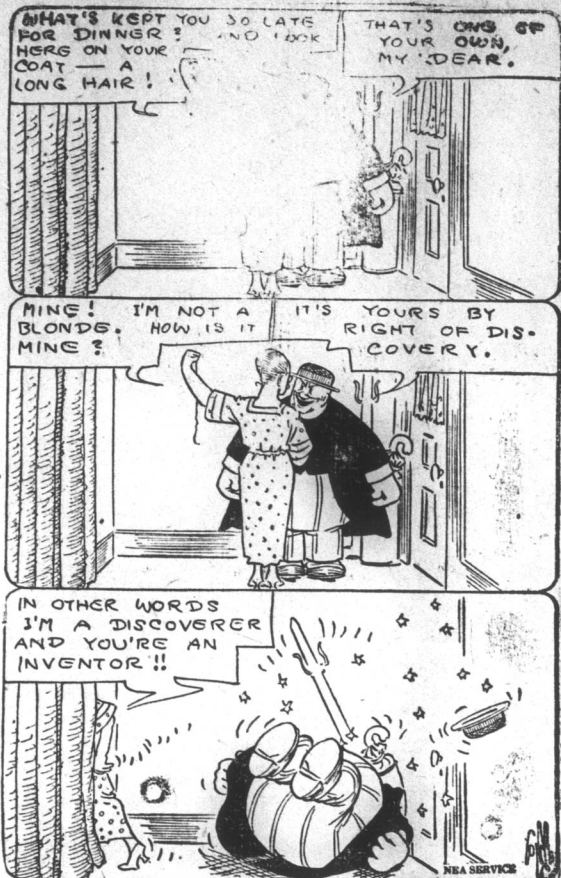

All these foundations are attacked what then? The answer is "Jehovah is in His Temple. His Throne is in the Heaven." Trust in him, and build on his foundations. Hold to your convictions and fight for them against the vacillating, time-serving crowd.

The preacher's stirring appeals made a deep impression.

Dr. J. H. Henderlite, of Gastonia, and Rev. R. Murphy Williams, of Greensboro, were nominated for moderator at this meeting, the former being elected by a close vote.

For the first time in the history of the school of education of Boston College women as well as men have been admitted this year.

SANATORIUM TREATS NEGRO TUBERCULARS

New Building at Sanatorium Will Be Opened Today—Dr. J. W. Walker Will Be in Charge.
Sanatorium, Oct. 9.—A new building under the management of the state sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis will be opened October 10 for the treatment of negroes. The building is similar in construction to the building now occupied by the white patients and equipped with the most modern of sanatorium and hospital facilities and situated on a high sand knoll on the Aberdeen-Fayetteville highway about one mile from the State sanatorium. Dr. J. W. Walker, formerly of Asheville, will be the physician in charge of the negro building but under the direction of the Sanatorium staff. The laboratory and X-ray work will be done in the Sanatorium laboratory. Dr. Walker is firm in his opinion that the negro can be successfully treated for tuberculosis and his convictions are confirmed by his experience. With the provision of a special sanatorium for treating negroes with tuberculosis, North Carolina takes her place along with Virginia, Delaware and South Carolina, all of which have provided special sanatoriums for this purpose.

According to the latest census figures London contains 82 women whose sole duty is to make clogs.

COTTON CO-OPS PAY 24-50-CENTS AVERAGE

Final Checks Are Sent to Members For Last Year's Cotton.

Raleigh, Oct. 9.—After considerable delay, the result of the necessity of a final audit of the accounts of over 31,000 members, the North Carolina Cotton Growers Co-operative association tonight announced its final settlement for the cotton of 1922.

During the season the association handled 122,842 bales of cotton, of which 125,187 bales was short scraps. This final settlement covers the short staple cotton and the average net price secured for the members of the association is 24 1/2 cents a pound, or 2 1/2 cents above the average price at which the cotton crop of 1922 was sold on the open market.

A careful survey of the cotton market at the various centers of the North Carolina cotton belt shows that the average price received for the 1922 crop was 22 cents a pound. The association had already advanced to its members 22 cents a pound and checks are being issued and mailed now the final payment.

Speaking of the year's work, General Manager Blalock said that naturally the expense of operation was heavier for the past season than it would be the coming season, this being the experience of other co-operative organizations. Starting without experience, with untrained employees and the fact that every department had to be built up from the ground, he would necessarily be more expensive than it will be from this time forward.

Horde of Polecats Take Virginia Town.
Winchester, Va., Oct. 9.—Business has almost been blocked at Stephen City, a thriving Frederick county town, eight miles south of here, by the appearance Sunday of a horde of skunks, or polecats. Where they came from in such large numbers no one seems to know. And how to get rid of them is a problem that is harassing the town council, the police force, the county board of health and school trustees. The presence of the pest has disrupted business, and it is feared schools will have to be closed up. Up to noon today no less than 60 of the animals had been killed but they seemed to be so numerous especially in the suburbs, that the attempted extermination has had little effect upon their numbers.
