MEANS NOT SO STRONG.

Reports That He Was Hand in Glove With High Officials Are Disproved. Special to Greensboro News. Washington, Oct. 26.—Detectives here not affiliated directly with the federal service claim to have in their possession a great deal of correspondence bearing upon the transactions which led to the recent arrest in New York of Gaston B. Means.

There are a number of letters, it is alleged, which disclose the methods employed by Means and his associates in "shaking down" men who desired the removal of whisky from bonded warehouses. The federal indictments charge illegal conduct in this respect, and of making use of the mails to defraud. The letters are said to disprove the reports that a number of officials here were in league with Means, and to cast doubt upon the theory that he stood very high in the estimation of men holding very responsible positions. One report had it that W. J. Burns, head of the intelligence department of the department of justice, and Means were on more or less intimate terms, but it was asserted today that the correspondence in question indicates that the department took prompt action when men complained that they had paid considerable sums to Means for his supposed great influence, in the departments here, but that they had failed to get "service." It is clearly shown, it is said, that Burns has made little or no attempt to defend Means, or to suppress the facts concerning his activities. It was said today that some of the government people had erred, tactically, in declaring that they stood ready to push the cases not only against Means and his associates, but against those who had paid him money in the liquor transactions. This has driven into the background a number of prospective witnesses, it is feared.

NEVER TOOK BATH, SO MAN GETS DIVORCE

Eleven-Year Battle to Make Wife Wash Ends in Court. Chicago, Oct. 27.—After trying for 11 years to induce his wife to take a bath, George A. Arnold, No. 1012 Lawrence avenue, advertising salesman, gave up and sought a divorce, he told Superior Judge Sabbath today. He was granted a decree from Mrs. Nellie Arnold. "We were married Christmas day, 1908," said Arnold. "We lived together until 1909. During her entire life she never took a bath, and I couldn't make her." "That's plenty testimony," said Judge Sabbath. "You get a divorce."

Burlington Pastor Wants to Advertise. Burlington, Oct. 27.—Rev. W. B. North, pastor of Front Street Methodist Church, is asking the chamber of commerce and the board of aldermen to consider a rather novel idea, one that would mean much to the town. He wants the large electric sign, reading "Bigger, Better Burlington," now standing on the top of one of the highest buildings in town, and which may be read miles away, to be added to by placing two lines above these three, the new sign to read "Go to Church and Make a Bigger, Better Burlington." The matter is but another step in the "Go to Church" movement which was started here the first of October and which has already assumed large proportions. Dr. North's suggestion is meeting with approval and will be taken up soon.

"Blossom Time" to Be in Charlotte Again Next March. Charlotte Observer. "Blossom Time," the Schubert musical comedy that so pleased Charlotte theatergoers here October 11th, will return to this city for an engagement at the auditorium on March 20th, it was announced last night by Grover F. Daniels, manager of the theater.

Numerous requests from the two big audiences that were so delighted with "Blossom Time" have caused Mr. Daniels to request a return engagement of the piece. The same company, headed by Greek Evans, that played here October 11th will compose the personnel of the show when it is presented here March 20th, Mr. Daniels stated.

Changing the Calendar

By REV. JOHN C. PAGE
Teacher of Bible Doctrine, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—This month shall be unto you the beginning of months. It shall be the first month of the year to you.—Exod. 12:1.

It is no easy matter to change the customs and habits of a nation of an individual. Humanly speaking, such changes are not only difficult, but practically impossible. So many readjustments are involved, and so great is the danger of confusion and chaos, that they are never seriously contemplated. But Jehovah is the God of the impossible. In creation "He spake and it was done."

In redemption "He brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep." He changed the calendar of Israel, bringing the old order to an end and introducing a new.

With redemption by blood, everything begins anew. "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."—II Cor. 5:7. When a sinner puts his faith where God put his sins, then our text finds a spiritual and personal application, and to that one it may be said: "This shall be unto you the beginning of months." "With men, this is impossible; but with God, all things are possible." Tens of thousands can even now from experience testify concerning a translation from darkness to light, from the old to the new, brought about by the power of God in response to faith. To such witnesses this event is the beginning of months, the introduction of a new calendar, the beginning of a new life.

The outstanding features in the new calendar may be considered in these three words—deliverance, departure and direction. Deliverance is first and fundamental. It is accepted by faith in the Word of God and obedience to the prescribed conditions. Faith accepts the blood of the Lamb as the divine judgment upon sin, and in that blood shelter and safety is found. When the destroying angel passed through the land of Egypt that eventful night, every house on which the blood of the Lamb was sprinkled was passed over. No angel of judgment could enter it, for judgment had already taken place, and it is impossible for sin to be judged twice. Hence the word of the Lord: "When I see the blood, I will pass over you, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your house to smite you." The most serious question for any and every soul of man is this: "Have you sprinkled the blood? God has passed judgment on all human sin at Calvary. "Christ died for our sins." Through faith in His blood all the value and virtue of the atoning work of the Son of God comes to us. The blood avails; nothing else does. "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy, he saved us." "When I see the blood, I will pass over you."

After deliverance comes departure. There must be separation from that which has been judged and condemned, separation from sin and the world which is typified of Egypt. In the ordinance of the first born, which follows that of the passover, God asserts His right to possess that which has been purchased. The New Testament presents the same truth in the words: "Ye are not your own; ye are bought with a price." That which has been delivered by divine power is to be devoted to the divine service and glory. Herein the redeemed find their greatest happiness and development. "Yield yourselves to God as those that are alive from the dead."

After deliverance from judgment and departure from Egypt, directions were given concerning the pilgrimage upon which the people had entered. It is not enough to be delivered; it is not enough to be devoted. There is still further need to be directed: "Speak to the children of Israel, that they encamp . . . by the sea." This was God's choice, not theirs. To be in His way is to be where He is. Obedience brought them into a severe trial, but the trial of faith is precious and necessary. Out of that trial came an experimental knowledge of God's power over the enemy, which strengthened faith, developed courage, and caused them to rejoice in God their Savior. During the crisis, they were reduced to helplessness and despair. Like the wretched man in the seventh chapter of Romans, they cried out, saying: "Who shall deliver?" Then it was that the Lord fought for His people and they witnessed and experienced His saving power, so that nothing was changed to nothing.

Deliverance, devotion, direction—these are the great outstanding things in the new calendar and the new life. Superior to Every Fate. A life well lived and rightly adjusted to both the transient and the eternal rises superior to every possible fate. We need optimism for health, for courage, for happiness; we get it by harmony with God and with His laws. Achieving this, nothing can finally go wrong.
