THE WAY OF ESCAPE.—It shall come to pass in the day that the Lord shall give the rest from thy sorrow, and from this yag, and from thy hard bondage wherewith thou wast made to serve.—Isaiah 14:3.

COTTON MILLS CURTAILING.
The price of cotton continues to go up and the general public continues to buy goods manufactured in the cotton mills, but the cotton mills are unable to sell their goods. That's the proposition that is worrying the cotton mill men today, and that the situation in Gaston County is very similar to the one here is indicated by the statement from The Gastonia Gazette that "what worries everybody connected with the cotton mill business is why the price of yarns and other manufactured products does not follow cotton in its upward swing."

A CHANCE FOR BETTER SCHOOLS.

The special school tax election which will be held on November 20th is the most important school question put before the people of the county during the past decade and longer. It is simply the question of whether or not the people of the rural sections of Cabarrus County want their children to have better school advantages. And the question has to be answered by the people themselves. The matter rests with them now, and whether or not they vote for the tax will determine whether the schools are to be organized.

This proposition is the first ever offered by which rural high schools can be erected in all parts of the county. That is the most important phase of the question and the phase that should be stressed more than any other. The plan as outlined by county school authorities embraces the following points:

Eight and probably nine high schools located at points where they can be easily reached by the greater number of children. Continuation of the present grammar schools. Under the new plan there will be just as many teachers for the grammar schools as there are now, with not so many students. This means the teachers will be able to give more time to each student.

Free transportation to students who live too far from the new schools to walk. The money for the purchase, upkeep, and operation of the trucks is provided in the tax to be voted on.

High School studies for the pupils of the new schools. In these schools accredited High School teachers will be employed. Eight months school terms for every school. This applies to the old as well as the proposed schools. Selection of sites for schools so that the greater number of students will be in walking distance. This will mean less transportation expense.

ty a system of modern high schools. The plan calls for a complete system of schools throughout the county at the least possible expense, it is pointed out, and without the county going in debt to get the work started. In other words if the election carries, and certainly it should, the money for the schools will be assured even before the work starts, and the schools will be made possible without great expense to any one.

The present school buildings are not to be done away with because the school board finds that they can still be used for efficient grammar school work. In some counties where consolidated schools are used both grammar and high school departments are combined in one building. That usually means congestion and more efficient school work can be done when the teacher has fewer pupils. In one consolidated school in an adjoining county, it was brought to the attention of the school board, there are 90 pupils in the first grade. No teacher can properly train such a large number of pupils.

Under the plan proposed by the local board the grammar grades, or at least the first, second, third, fourth and probably the fifth grades, will be taught in the present schoolhouses and the higher grades in the new houses. That will mean less congestion.

Under the terms of the call for the election as issued by the commissioners, a rate not exceeding 35 cents on the $100 can be levied to take care of the proposed school system. Members of the school board feel that the program can be carried out with the rate of 25 cents on the $100, and it is almost certain that the rate will not exceed 30 cents. The board estimates that nine schoolhouses can be erected and furnished with money raised by the 30 cent rate, and it is hoped it can be accomplished with a 25 cent rate.

Every child in the county will be benefited by the proposed system, we feel. Even the little tots will get an eight months school term and should, they be forced to drop-out later and help with the farm work they will have secured a better education by the longer term which they will have secured a better education by the longer term while they were in school. The taxes will not bankrupt any man in the county and we need the new schools. Our children whether they live in the city or on the farm, deserve the best we can give them.

DINNER STORIES

Mistress (to cook)—Mary, I saw the milkman kiss you this morning. From now on I will get the milk myself. Mary—It won't do you no good, mum. He's promised to me and he says that he won't kiss no one else.

Mr. Fussy—Here waiter, bring me a spoon for my coffee. Waiter—Sorry, sir, but we don't serve them—the music here is so stirring. "Ah, madam," said the pious visitor. "I am going about giving advice and consolation to unhappy wives. Do you know where your husband is every night?" "Indeed, I do."

Impertinence. He (to lady in ultra gown)—"Do you like wearing evening dress?" She—"I feel that nothing is more becoming to me." He—"I have no doubt of it, but wouldn't that be going to extremes?" Beggar—"I've had nothing to eat for the last three days but snowballs."

An Excuse That Failed. "Father," said the student, "I want to talk to you about changing my course of study." "Talk to your mother, son," directed the father, who was reading the sporting page. "Mother," said the son, "I made a mistake when I selected chemistry. But it is not too late to change it even yet. I want to take astronomy instead."

Lawyer McQuiz—Are we to understand, Rastus, that your wife is a good housekeeper, or on the contrary? Rastus—Dat's jes' it, boss; she's so much on de contrary dat she ain't no good housekeeper nor nuthin' else. Man (to taxicab driver)—"Mister, please drive fast or my mother-in-law will miss her train." Driver—"Yes, sir, I'll drive just as fast as if she were my own."—Augusta Chronicle.
