

ANNUAL FATHER AND SON BANQUET SETS ATTENDANCE RECORD

Largest Crowd in History of Y for Such an Occasion Present When Festivities Began Thursday Night.

MUSIC AND TALKS PROVED FEATURES

Rev. C. C. Myers Was Toastmaster.—Several Fathers and Sons Unable to Get Tickets for the Banquet. Reports of Severe Fighting.

Delighting anything of a similar nature ever undertaken by the local Young Men's Christian Association, the annual Father and Son banquet was held at the Y Thursday night and the crowd present and interest manifested on every hand is proof positive that the fathers of Concord are keenly alive to their duties to their sons, the sons of their neighbors and the Y.

Every available inch of space in the Y gym, where the banquet was held, was occupied by some father and son. The sale of tickets was halted several hours before banquet time, but many men, accompanied by boys, came to the banquet hall at the appointed hour, hoping against hope that by some means they could be admitted to the good things that were offered in abundance. The crowd was probably the largest that has ever gathered at the Y for any occasion and more than 275 tickets were sold. In addition to this number there were others who did gain an eleventh hour admittance to the gym.

The details of the banquet had been nicely worked out and everything moved off smoothly. There were a number of talks, but they were all short and snappy, in keeping with the actions of most boys, and there was no tired expressions to be seen on the faces of the youngsters who were feted for two hours.

Rev. C. C. Myers, pastor of McKinnon Presbyterian Church, and one of the leaders of the boys work at the Y, was toastmaster and he served in a most pleasing manner. He kept things moving in a most pleasing way.

In welcoming the guests on behalf of the Y Toastmaster Myers expressed the belief that such occasions bring father and son close together and the occasions are fruitful for that reason if for no other. When father and son are thrown together in associations more their friendship ripens faster. Mr. Myers added, and he expressed delight that the Y should have a part in this work.

Mr. C. F. Ritchie brought a timely message from the fathers to the sons, declaring it is important that fathers and sons should walk arm in arm for the boys of today are the world leaders of tomorrow and their lives are influenced more by their fathers than any else.

Honesty as the basis of their lives was the keynote of Mr. Ritchie's talk to the boys. There are level places, rocky places and mountainous places in the road of life, he stated, but the road will be easier to travel if the boy will make honesty his watchword and constant companion.

Walter Sullivan, idol of many youngsters here because of his athletic ability and clean living, made an inspiring talk on "The Kind of a Father a Boy Likes to Have." Sullivan, known to his "Bub" associates and to most of Concord's "Bub" boys, told his hearers that a father should share his worries as well as his pleasures; a father who will be a real companion and who will take time enough from daily tasks to show an interest in the problems of the boy.

Davidson College played an important part in the program aside from the excellent musicians it furnished. Mr. Mac Beall, who hails from the Presbyterian institution, was one of the speakers and his talk was of unusual interest. In his talk Mr. Beall pictured two fathers. One had two sons who are growing up to be known as "sissies" because their father has been too busy with business to assume any responsibility for their upbringing. The other father has six sons who are growing into manly youths because the father never lets anything interfere with his relations with them. He is giving them the personal touch. Mr. Beall pointed out, declaring this close association is a father's duty as well as privilege.

Mr. H. Wayne Blanks, Mr. M. B. Fuller and Mr. A. S. Webb brought timely messages from the medium of boyhood stories. Mr. Blanks told of an experience when he was blown up with a ship. Many persons were killed but he was spared and he declared that he felt that he had been spared for a purpose. That purpose, he could readily see, he said, in the Y field in Concord, and he asked that he be given an opportunity to become the factor he hopes to become in the moral, physical and civic life of Concord. Misunderstood boys are tragedies. Mr. Fuller declared, yet they are to be found everywhere. He told the story of a boy

THE COTTON MARKET

Opening Was 7 to 32 Points Lower Under Scattered Selling Orders. (By the Associated Press.) New York, Dec. 14.—The cotton market showed renewed nervousness early today. The opening was 7 to 32 points lower under scattered selling inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables, with January oil to 34.20 and March to 34.68 on the call. There were rumors that private returns indicated a gaining of 9,473,000 bales to December 13th, but the figures were not confirmed.

Cotton futures opened steady: December 34.45 to 34.75; January 34.20; March 34.70; May 34.90; July 34.12.

MILLIONS IN GERMANY ARE CONFRONTED WITH STARVATION

Unless Aid Is Given by the United States, Says Dr. Calvert. (By the Associated Press.) Columbus, Dec. 14.—"Millions in Germany will be confronted with starvation this winter unless aid is given by the United States," declared Dr. Samuel McCrea Calvert, one of the two general secretaries of the Federal Council of Churches, at this morning's session of the annual meeting of the executive committee of that body. "Reports not only from German sources but from American observers and churchmen indicate suffering beyond anything yet imagined in this country," he said.

At the same time announcement was made that the Federal Council of Churches, in co-operation with the American Friends Service Committee and the various denominational agencies, will carry on a campaign in the churches to raise money for relief purposes in central Europe.

In this report Dr. Calvert said: "Herbert Hoover declared that the work of the American relief administration in feeding the children of central Europe in the tragic months following the war had done more to prevent war between these nations and America than could be accomplished by a whole fleet of battleships. From my own observations in Europe last summer, I am persuaded that something of the same nature could truthfully be said about the work of the American friends service committee (Quakers). It is probable not too much to say no influence is counting for in releasing the spirit of good-will and promoting international peace today than the generous contribution of the American people through many agencies to the suffering in all parts of Europe."

The Federal Council of Churches, through its committee on mercy and relief, is acting as a central agency of the churches in relation to the great movements of fastidious by the hungry in the stricken parts of the world. This winter it is to direct its energy into two special channels.

"The first is the continuance of support for Near East Relief. As one who spent part of last summer in the Near East Relief is doing, both in saving the lives of thousands of homeless orphans and in creating a spirit of good-will in the sava, were dealt bitterness so acute. What the Near East Relief has so nobly begun the Christian churches of America must help to complete.

"Another great work of mercy which the Federal Council of Churches is to promote this winter is in behalf of the suffering in Germany. By action of the administrative committee of the Federal Council, an appeal is soon to be issued in the name of the churches for a generous response to the appalling need of the German people, specially of the children and the elderly people of the middle class, whose savings of a life time have been swept away by the collapse of the currency. As a result of firsthand evidence brought from Europe by church leaders of all denominations, confirmed by information received from the most authoritative sources in Europe, it is clear that before the winter is far advanced millions in Germany will be confronted with starvation to a degree quite beyond anything which has yet been imagined in this country."

Thieves at Davidson Enter Jewelry Store.

Davidson, Dec. 13.—Thieves last night entered the jewelry store of W. S. Henderson, on Main Street, one door above the postoffice, and carried off $200 or more worth of stock. There is no clue as yet that would lead to the discovery of the guilty parties, nor any evidence as to what was the hour when the thieves broke in.

It seems that they took a hammer and smashed a hole in the heavy glass of the front door, a hole not large enough to allow one to "squeeze" his body through, but abundantly large enough to permit one to reach his hand and arm through and turn the "catch" on the drop latch.

SECTARIAN ANIMOSITY FAST PASSING AWAY

Protestant Churches Are Co-operating Rather Than Competing. (By the Associated Press.) Columbus, O., Dec. 14.—Much of the sectarian animosity among the churches has passed away; the Protestant churches are co-operating rather than competing," declared Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Chicago, speaking yesterday at the annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches on "What the Denominations Should Expect the Federal Council to Do for Them." At the same time he said he did not advocate the abolition of denominations, but believed in greater co-operation. Bishop Nicholson said in part:

"The denominations expect the Federal Council to promote the spirit of co-operation among them. There is great need for a solidarity of Protestantism which shall be as great as the solidarity of Roman Catholicism, but which shall center around the loyal and carefully thought-out allegiance of the respective bodies to great central ideas and movements. This can only be brought about by mutual intercourse, by discussion and by conference. The Federal Council should be the co-ordinating and informing instrument. Nothing is more significant than the increased co-operation of the Protestant denominations manifested in recent years. They are working together in many admirable ways. They are speaking as one voice on great moral and international issues. They are co-operating rather than competing. They are discovering that the growth and prosperity of each contributes to the growth and prosperity of all.

"The Federal Council should promote the spirit of good will. The great task of the churches in the present generation is to help men and nations to live together as friends and neighbors. Much of the old sectarian animosity has passed away. All that is left of it is rapidly disappearing. The Federal Council has been a great contributing agency to this consummation so devoutly to be wished."

"Under proper restrictions and with due authorization the Federal Council, representing more than 20,000,000 adult church members, may speak with tremendous power and influence on great social, moral and economic questions. These are but a few of the things which the churches, notwithstanding doctrinal differences and many variations of church policy. The Federal Council in the main has been wisely directed, is a growing influence among the churches, and is capable of still greater development for useful ends."

MAY FORM COALITION IN LOWER HOUSE

Democrats and Insurgents May Combine Against the Party Leaders. (By the Associated Press.) Washington, Dec. 14.—Attempts to form a coalition between democrats and republican insurgents to control the powerful House rules committee were renewed today at conferences among the leaders.

Plans were discussed to displace from the committee Burton, of Ohio, and Tilson of Connecticut, two organization republicans, and elect in their places Ayres, of Kansas, and Nelson, of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgents. Today's conference grew out of the refusal of the republican organization leaders to give more than five seats on the rules committee to democrats and to assign any out-and-out insurgent as a member. Some of the democrats joined the insurgents in advocating a fight on the floor of the house against republican committee assignments when they came up for approval.

Negotiations for breaking the Senate deadlock by election of Senator Couzens as the Interstate Commerce Commission chairman appeared today to be in the preliminary stage, although some leaders of the insurgent senate group predicted that the entire insurgent strength would be thrown to the Michigan senator and elect in their places Ayres, of Kansas, and Nelson, of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgents.

It had been the plan of the majority House leaders to present their committee slates for approval today, but, instead, they asked for adjournment till tomorrow, ten minutes after the session began. Immediately after, the democratic leader Garrett announced that the democrats would hold a caucus tomorrow morning before the House convenes.
