School Dresses

These are little dresses that a skillful needlewoman can make for her young daughter from the half-yard bits of remnants that accumulate. Wool, plaid and plain serge are used for the straight-line school frock with short sleeves. Figured silk and plain wool crepe are combined in the high-yoked, long-sleeved dress. The third model with the deep yoke is of two shades of wool jersey and has a touch of hand embroidery.

To Entertain Tomorrow.
Mrs. L. D. Coltrane will entertain tomorrow afternoon at her home on South Union street in honor of Mrs. D. A. Garrison, of Gastonia, and Mrs. Frank Dusch, of Norfolk. Mrs. Garrison and Mrs. Dusch will spend Christmas in Concord at the home of their father, Mr. D. B. Coltrane.

Surprise Shower.
The members of the Second Presbyterian Church "surprised" the pastor and his family with a food "shower" on Thursday night. This expression of kindness and good-will was deeply appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Wauchop.

Christmas Cantata at Second Presbyterian Church.
The Sunday school of the Second Presbyterian Church, assisted by the church choir, will present "The Cradle of Bethlehem," a Christmas service at the Second Presbyterian Church on Sunday, December 23rd, at 7 p. m.

At The Theatres.
"The Virginian," the screen version of the book of the same name, is being offered again today at the Star.
"The Steel Trail" and "Salty Sunders," with Neal Hart, are being offered today at the Pastime.
At the Piedmont today Charles Jones plays the leading role in "Cupid's Fireman."

Post and Flag Cotton Letter.
New York, Dec. 20.—The market remains of a holiday character with few features for comment though generally steady, reflecting the bullish spot advice the supply of which continues liberal. The spot position has been relatively firm on demand through trade houses with eastern mill connections supposed to represent belated price fixing though in quarters usually well informed it is said that not much more of the earlier purchases by those mills remain based on December. Buyers of goods are reported still offering strong resistance to advances covering only their immediate requirements and buying from second hands whenever they can get any concessions. Dullness in all markets seems probable now until after the holidays but with apparently several buyers for every bale offered even with the basis growing daily stronger the burden of proof rests chiefly on sellers for short account and the line of least resistance appears still to lead upward.

1000 VOICES TO GREET CHRISTMAS WITH CAROLS

Philadelphia Municipal Government Co-operates to Make Big Christmas Eve Event One of Widespread Joy.

Through the co-operation of Philadelphia municipal government of Philadelphia 1,000 persons will gather in a huge bandstand in City Hall Plaza of the City of Brotherly Love at half-past ten o'clock Christmas Eve to sing carols to the accompaniment of a band. With the first note a searchlight on top of City Hall tower will flash a salutation to the singers and convey to the people in city and suburbs the information that the joyous singing of carols has begun.

This, according to the Philadelphia Music League, under whose auspices the event will be held, will be the big feature of this year's caroling. The bandstand will be erected and the band furnished by the city.

Outdoor caroling by small groups before churches, hospitals and homes will not be neglected, however. Plans already have been completed for caroling choirs to visit all the hospitals where there are patients whom the singing will benefit mentally and physically.

Letters have one out from the executive offices of the Music League to 2,000 ministers and choir masters seeking the co-operation of the regular or volunteer choirs, and 40,000 song sheets have been printed for free distribution.

Many of the carolers, as heretofore, will be clad in black and red hooded capes and they will carry lanterns of unique design.

Arrangements have been made for broadcasting the carols for the benefit of the shut-ins in towns and cities and farm houses far and near who have no singing of their own.

J. Hampton Moore, mayor of Philadelphia, is honorary president of the Philadelphia Music League; Florence J. Heppie, president, and Mrs. Frederick W. Abbott, director. Executive offices of the League are at 1823 Walnut street.

Hundreds of other communities in all parts of the country are preparing for the inauguration or repetition this Christmas of the delightful old caroling custom, according to C. M. Tremaine, director of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music. For instance, Eirley Baum, vice president of the Georgia Children's Home Society of Atlanta, informs him that it is expected that from seventy-five to 100 towns in Georgia will take up the caroling custom this year.

Information on how to inaugurate Christmas caroling on a large or small scale may be obtained without cost from the National Bureau for the advancement of music, 105 West Fortieth Street, New York City.

DESCRIBES FORD AS ARCH REACTIONARY

J. A. H. Hopkins, Chairman of the Committee of 48, Says Coolidge Won't Carry Ford's Followers.

New York, Dec. 20.—Henry Ford was characterized as "a reactionary of the first water" for his assertion that he intends to support President Coolidge, in a statement issued today by J. A. Hopkins, chairman of the committee. "His (Ford's) announcement comes as a boon and will be a boon to the national Farmer-Labor progressive convention," the statement continued. "Mr. Ford has rendered Mr. Coolidge's nomination a certainty, but he will not carry the so-called Ford following into the Republican camp, for he has stamped himself a reactionary of the Coolidge type. . . . The Ford proclamation of Coolidge as safe sounds like political fundamentalism."

Mr. Hopkins declared that a considerable following which stood ready to back Mr. Ford in the event he had "pledged himself to progressive issues" now would be given to "some candidate whose progressivism is a matter of proven record."

Preventing Blindness.

Philadelphia Record.

It was found some years ago that a very great part of the blindness was due to the neglect of the infant's eyes in the first few hours after birth. Chicago has been energetically enforcing protective means, and the health officials are able to report that not a case of blindness occurred in more than 56,000 infants born in 1922. This State has a law requiring the proper authorities to be notified if eye trouble appears in any new-born child, and a few years ago the State health authorities sent out a circular letter directing the attention of parents and family doctors to this and urging immediate compliance with its requirements. We trust that Pennsylvania can make as good a showing relatively as Chicago.

Kentucky will have a woman Secretary of State for the first time in history when Mrs. Emma Guy Crowwell takes office January 1.

The headresses of Tibetan women of the upper class are usually covered with large seed-pearls, and are sometimes worth as much as $2,000.
