BILLY SUNDAY'S SAYINGS
There are some things we aren't supposed to know, so don't learn 'em. The Lord's a good scout. Don't worry.

Some people think they're close to Heaven when they're so near Hell they can smell the sulphur fumes.

Listen here, college professors, some of you think that because you are connected with a college you are ahead of the Lord.

I'm like Martin Luther in a way. I can preach and pray better when I'm mad.

Salvation is double barreled. It not only saves but it preserves against sin.

I'd lie any day to keep Mrs. Sunday away from some geezer and I'd explain it to the Lord later.

I'd rather be a knotted, guarded, killed old maid living in a house full of kittens and antiques than to be married to some booze-soaked roughneck I know.

All that some people are good for is to make more in a crowd.

Jesus had 12 disciples and one of them was a devil. You can certainly find just as large a proportion in the church if not more.

Nothing is needed more on earth than a baptism of good horse sense.

Be natural and original. Be yourself, not a patched up imitation.

Between the spot I stand on now and the bed where I'll lie in some graveyard, I'll never compromise with the devil.

You take the blood of Jesus Christ out of the plan, atonement and that book we call the Bible won't be worth the paper it is printed on.

Salvation to anyone who rejects Jesus Christ is impossible.

I want to get something in your head besides bulk oysters and sawdust. A man can run away with another man's wife and still be a consistent infidel.

ANOTHER DEAF MUTE GLADLY "LISTENS IN" OVER RADIO

Miss Lillian Mae Poplin, of New London, Hears Much to Her Delight.

Abermarle News-Herald.
New London, Jan. 21.—Trudell Ritchie, the deaf son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Ritchie, of Richfield, has nothing to say about his deafness, who is also deaf, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brack Poplin, of New London. She is about eighteen years of age, and a graduate of the school for the deaf at Morganton, class of 1923. When it became known through the News-Herald report that the young man could hear by radio, Miss Poplin was informed and she made it known to her mother that she wanted to go across the street to the home of a neighbor who had a radio. The apparatus was tuned to advantage, she was given the head-gear and, to the amazement of those present, it could be easily seen that she heard something. The changed expression on her face became one of smiles and eager listening. By writing she told her mother she heard music but could not understand just what kind the first time. A little later she made motions with her hands as if playing a piano and made it known that she heard something like drums. Miss Poplin is quite an intelligent, amiable girl, and is certain she heard something. She has been deaf from birth, but can speak a few words so as to be understood. She has seen band instruments, piano and other musical instruments but has never heard before. It is hoped that radio experts will give attention, space, and devote time to the deaf.

The late President Harding said, "I believe in advertising. It has done more to bring humanity to right understanding than almost anything else in the world."

We, too, believe in advertising and its value as a moulder of public opinion. And we have a splendid message to tell—a message of uninterrupted service, made possible because of the loyal and unselfish work of our employees.

We have but one thing to sell—service. Everything else is incidental to service. But he who serves cannot serve successfully unless he receives his rightful measure of appreciation. Appreciation! That's the greatest reward for service occasioned by those who are being served.

So when we advertise, we advertise service. And the purpose behind the advertising is to secure what our late President defined as "right understanding."

Around the world in two tense hours of love and adventure

WILLIAM RUSSELL

When Odds Are Even

For love of adventure, he left his fair home. In hope of crass treasure another did roam. Life's storm overtook them, racked them with pain. On which do you think life's treasures did rain?

The quickest way to find love is to stop looking for it.

If you want to stop drinking—fall in love—it is intoxicating enough.
