IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

SNOW DISAPPEARS—ALMOST AS RAPIDLY AS IT CAME

Only at isolated intervals Can Evidence of Yesterday's Downfall Be Found Today

It is almost difficult today to prove that at least three inches of snow fell in Concord yesterday. Most of the desired evidence was melted during yesterday afternoon and today snow can be found only at isolated intervals.

The snow ceased falling here shortly after noon yesterday and half an hour later the sun had made heavy inroads on that portion which had stuck to the earth. All of the time the snow was falling the thermometer hovered above the freezing point so that many of the flakes melted as they fell and others were easy victims to the rays of the sun which made a brilliant appearance during the early afternoon.

There were no sledding or coasting parties here last night. In fact by the time the children left school in the afternoon most of the snow was gone and they had to be content with what riding they were able to snatch before going to school yesterday morning.

The snowfall in Charlotte, Salisbury, Lexington, High Point, Greensboro and Winston-Salem was of about the same depth as in Concord, and reports from those cities today indicate that little is left to mark the heavy downpour. In Asheville and other western cities there is still much snow, more than seven inches having fallen Tuesday night and yesterday, demoralizing wire connections and cutting Asheville completely out of the rest of the world for several hours yesterday. A line leading into the mountain city was repaired late yesterday, however, and that city again "switched on" with the rest of the country.

Generally fair weather is predicted for Concord for the remainder of this week and there are no indications now that another snow is coming. And round, defiant snowmen are practically all that remains of the snow of yesterday.

SCHWAB SAYS GERMANY WILLING TO PAY DEBTS

Big Steel Magnate Back From Europe Says Reparations Must Be Settled at Once

New York, Feb. 27.—Charles M. Schwab, of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, returned from his latest visit to Germany since 1912, is convinced that the German government would do its utmost to pay whatever reparations were fixed by the allied commission.

He expressed astonishment at the extent Germany's biggest industries had deteriorated since before the war and declared that the well being of all central Europe depended upon an "immediate and definite disposition of the reparation question."

Mr. Schwab spent two months in Germany, France and Belgium. "I visited my old friends the Krupp, the munition makers," he said. "What I saw astonished me. Their big plants, which employed 110,000 persons when I last was there, were reduced to a force of 14,000. Other industries were operating in proportion."

"Yet I saw an especial resentment among the big industrialists, although there was general despondency and depression. Whatever the Germans may have felt after the war, they now appreciate that their country suffered defeat. They're anxious to know what the reparations are to be, and the terms, and to get started paying them."

Everywhere, said Mr. Schwab, he heard praise of the work of the allied commission and especial interest voiced in the manner Brigadier General Dawes and Owen D. Young, the American members, were pushing the work of that body.

"If the reparations were to be settled tomorrow," he continued, "it would be many, many years before German manufacturers could enter America in competition with American manufacturers. Settlement of the reparations will be reflected first in a resumption of the movement of raw materials and basic products between the country and Germany. The general situation in America would be little affected."

Southern Railway and Three Unions Reach An Agreement

Atlanta, Feb. 27.—Southern railway today reached a settlement with its conductors, trainmen and yardmen by which the men are to receive a basic wage increase of approximately 5 per cent, local officials of the railroad were notified here today by Vice-President H. W. Miller in charge of operation, who is in Washington.

The settlement is effective March 1 and continues for a period of three years, the telegram received here advised.

In addition to the wage increase, a bonus offered for the second and third years, dependent upon efficiency "such efficiency being gauged by the ratio of expense for such accounts as are immediately connected with the service of the conductors, trainmen and yardmen."

Anna Pavlova Gets Rude Greeting in Nashville

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 27.—Anna Pavlova, noted Russian dancer, who with her ballet russe appeared here in two performances, received a rude greeting upon her arrival here today. The greeting was extended by a deputy sheriff who was awaiting her arrival to serve her notice of a damage suit for $2,800 filed in chancery court by attorneys for Mrs. S. J. Latta, of Memphis, Tenn., who charges the dancer, billed to appear in Memphis, February 16, according to an alleged contract Mrs. Latta claims to have had with her. In addition to the dancer, her manager, S. Hurck, and S. Hurck, Inc., were named in the papers. The suit alleges that the dancer, without notice, changed her itinerary at Birmingham, Ala., going from there to Atlanta, instead of coming to Memphis.

O. P. Munday Paroled. Raleigh, Feb. 28.—Governor Morrison has paroled O. P. Munday, of Wake County, who was sentenced to serve two months on the county roads and began his term on January 1st, last. The petition stated that the prisoner had a very sick child at home. It was for this reason that the Governor said he signed the parole as much as the prisoner had only a few more days more to serve.

C. M. Palmer to Move Stone Works at Albemarle

Stanly News-Herald

Mr. C. M. Palmer, owner of the Palmer Stone Works, closed a deal last week with Mr. S. H. Hearn for ten acres of land just south of the city. This property is in two separate tracts, one of the lots containing six acres, lies just beyond the site recently purchased by Mr. Jap Hatley, being between the Albemarle-Norwood road and the Southern Railway track. On the opposite side of the highway, fronting this property, the other tract of four acres lies. The six-acre tract, it is said, will be used by Mr. Palmer for a site for his stone works. He will build a large concrete building several hundred feet in length which will house his plant and provide warehouse room sufficient for the increasing demands of the business. Mr. Palmer will use the four-acre tract for the purpose of building residences for these holding positions in the stone plant. Indications are that within a short while some real building is going to be underway in South Albemarle.

It will be a source of satisfaction to the people of Albemarle to know that this deal has been closed and that not only is the Palmer Stone Works plant to remain as an Albemarle asset but that it is to be greatly increased. Mr. Palmer's two sons, William and Henry, will be connected with the new plant. Mr. Palmer and his aggressive and hustling young sons expect to make the Palmer Stone Works one of the biggest plants of its kind in the South.
