HIGHWAY TO UNIO OFF TO FINE START

Work On Road That Will Connect Concord and Monroe by Modern High-way Is Being Pushed.

BOST MILL ROAD IS BEING USED

Old Road Will Be Followed for Some Distance—Strike Union Line Near Two Trading Centers.

The county highway department is all set for the drive to the Union county line and at the present rate of progress an unreasonable length of time will not be required to build the road that is to connect Concord with the Union metropolis and at the same time open up one of the richest sections in the country one of the richest sections in the county.

The members of the county oemmission several weeks ago decided to make the building of this road the most important work of the year and with the decision came prompt action. Modern road building machinery was placed on the road, surveyors were dispatched along the proposed route to locate the most feasible road, and everything was set in motion to get the highway completed as soon as possible.

Members of the commission are confident now that the road can be completed within a time limit that wil Isurprise the average citizen. "We are working with modern machinery, and in one hour we can move as much dirt with two machines and six men as 48 men and 35 mules could move. This machinery, which is the best made, revolutionizes, road building, and I am confident we will have the road completed within a very reasynable time."

with inverties time."

The road is being graded now at a point about two miles from George E. Faggart's, near the intersection of the Bost Mill and Flowe's store roads. From the intersection of the roads to the point where the work is being done now the road has been excellently graded and built up and the rest of the road to the Union line will be similar in make sup. The road is wide enough for three vehicles to pass and as so graded so far that no real hull have to be climbed.

The road is wide cooling for three vehicles to pas and is graded so far has no real mills.

Members of the road commission declare this route is the most practical one to the Union line. The road is known as the Boat Mill road and while it will not be followed all the way to Union county it will furnish the direction to be used for several miles. None of the old road is to be used, for that matter except in spots, where the mer road will be built on the old base. The road will touch the farm of R. L. Hartsell and then will be directed so as to reach the Union line at a point between Midland and Cabarrus.

"We feel that this route will serve it has been repeatedly asserted by the comment of mercal and the repeated of the greatest numbers of nersons and at the spot of the comment of the repeated of the repe

"We feel that this route will serve the greatest number of persons and at the same time will be the most practical way to go," a member of the commission states. "The road by Flowe's store and Thunderstruck bridge was one suggested but it is not as practical for rebuilding as the road we are following."

Persons who are interested in road building will find much to attract them if they will drive to the point where the two tractor engines, four scoops and several plows are being used. One tractor is breaking up the land with plows and the other is carting off the dirt to a fill. Every time the four scoops, pulled by one engine, are loaded a yard and a half of dirt is moved. The fill represents a big task, but it is being rapidly filled up and and shaped up and it will not be long, at the present rate of progress, before it will be completed.

Members of the chain gang are to be moved out on this road at a later date.

They will be used for construction work on the new road and also to shape up a number of older roads.

One Cabinet Officer Says Europe Now Has Constructive Plan For Work. Washington, April 9.—Official Washington basing its impressions on still incomplete information regarding the reports of the two expert reparations committees in Paris, was inclined to day to be optimistic regarding the reception which the reports will be accorded by the powers.

The belief was privately expressed by one cabinet officer that Europe finally had been given a constructive plan on which might agree and work out a peaceful adjustment of its most difficult problem—that of producing refusations from Germany.

State department spokesmen emphasized again that the plans of the expert committees were not a governmental archingement of the capital committees were not a governmental archingement of the capital capit phasized again that the plans of the expert committees were not a governmental arrhugement and reiterated their inability to express any governmental approval of the committees work. Beyond saying it was earnestly hoped that, the reports would lead to a solution of the reparations tangle, no comment of any kind was available at the department.

Hoover's Formal Statement.

The only formal statement was issued by Secretary Hoover, He pointed out some of the advantages to American trade and farm production which would follow if the plans led to a settlement of European economic problems. In addition to these advantages, it was pointed out in other quarters that a solution would aid this country by making it easier for 'he allied governments to repay the wartime loans made them by the United States.
