

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Fringe has been used with unusually good effect on this frock of beige crepe embellished with brown embroidery. The fringe is of alternate stripes of beige and brown. The line of the tunic is very smart and could be used on a less elaborate frock, edged with self material instead of fringe.

Bostian-Miller.
A pretty home wedding was solemnized Tuesday evening, April 29, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colon F. Miller, of Landis, when they gave their eldest daughter, Margaret, in marriage to George M. Bostian.

At 5 o'clock the members of the immediate families assembled in the parlor which was tastefully decorated with cut flowers. Miss Anna Mae Miller, sister of the bride, with Frank Bostian, stood as attendant to the bride and groom. Rev. C. A. Brown, pastor of both bride and groom, rendered very impressively the beautiful ring service of the Lutheran Church.

The bride, an attractive and accomplished young lady, was attired in a pretty gray traveling suit and wore a large bouquet of pink and white orchids. She is a graduate of the Farm Life School of Ghina Grove, and has taught successfully in several schools in Rowan and Cabarrus counties.

The groom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bostian, of Ghina Grove, is a young man of sterling qualities of character and of great promise of much usefulness in his community. He is now located in business in Ghina Grove, and is proprietor and business manager of the Bostian Mercantile Company.

Immediately following the marriage ceremony a bountiful and delicious two course dinner was to all who witnessed the ceremony, after which the young couple motored to Charlotte to spend the night. Thence they will extend their bridal trip to motor to western North Carolina.

The bride and groom are both most excellent young people, and are popular with a very large circle of friends all of whom wish for them much happiness through a long and useful life.

Life without its ideal is nothing but stagnation.

Grand May Day Fete Today.
Today is the day that is observed in Old England with all pomp and splendor. The young folks of Concord are preparing to give a pageant on the Y. M. C. A. lawn at 5 p. m. today that will rival the festivities held in the old country. Mothers and daughters have been busy for the past few weeks on pretty costumes and beautiful creations which will be used in the pageant this afternoon. The big throne which has been erected on the "Y" lawn will be the center of activities during the pageant, and while the major part of the pageant is being staged a moving picture man with his camera will be on the job taking pictures of the event. His camera will not be permitted to take scenes of more beautiful children and young ladies in any other city than it will have the honor of doing this afternoon. The queen will be seated on the throne amid all colors of flowers and beautiful subjects. At a certain time a page bearing a velvet pillow with a beautiful crown will ascend the steps approaching the throne and immediately thereafter the audience will witness the coronation of the May Queen.

BIG OUTING FOR THE "Y" BOY MEMBERS

Sham Battle, Overnight Camp, Campfire Meals Among Features.

During the last week in May the "Y" boy members are going to stage a big mock battle on the outskirts of the city. They will go into camp at 7 o'clock in the evening and remain overnight. During the night each camp will post guards and sentries to prevent scouts from coming into camp and capturing prisoners. One side will be provided with blue badges and the other side with red badges. These emblems will be fastened to the lapel of the coat or to the clothing immediately over the right shoulder. No soldier will be allowed to remove this badge, in order that it may be where the enemy can capture it if they are so bent. The button may either be stolen during the night quietly, or if the spy wants to take the chance he may engage the enemy soldier in a wrestling battle and take the badge by force. This latter means of attack during the night would be very unwise, as the sentries would more than likely take the invaders prisoners and capture their badges. A soldier who has lost his badge will be out of the running as captured unless he has an enemy badge to replace it. At 6 o'clock the next morning or perhaps around 7 o'clock the two sides will engage in a pitched battle using only the rules as laid down in college wrestling for their engagement. As a result of this wrestling battle the boys will be able to capture many of the badges, and after a limited time the side that has succeeded in capturing the most badges, added to the ones captured during the night will have won the mock war.

Death of Joe E. Hartsell.

Stanly News-Herald.
Mr. Joe E. Hartsell, of Oakboro, possibly the last Democratic survivor of the famous Reconstruction Legislature, passed away early this morning at the ripe old age of 85. He had been confined to his bed for the past six months or more, and "old age" is believed to have been the immediate cause of his death, as he gradually wasted away without having seemed to suffer any pain.

The funeral service will be held at Love's Chapel this afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Griffin. The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Hartsell, was a native of this county. He was a well known Confederate veteran, having served in a volunteer company of which his brother, the late Jack Hartsell, was captain. After the War Between the States, he returned home and was elected from Stanly, as a Democrat, to the most noted session of the North Carolina General Assembly in the history of the State, known as the "Reconstruction Legislature." He was one of a half dozen or less Democrats in the House, the other members having been composed of negroes, "scalawags" and "carpet-baggers." For a number of years he served as a member of the board of commissioners of the county, and held other offices of trust. He was a school teacher in his younger days, farming during the summer months. He was a loyal member of the Methodist Church, having united with the old historic church, Love's Chapel, in western Stanly in his early youth. He was known and respected in all sections of the county, and especially in the western section, where he spent most of his life.

He leaves surviving three daughters, Mrs. C. C. Furr, Mrs. D. R. Kennedy and Mrs. Ellis Thomas, all of Oakboro. Two sisters, Miss Mollie Hartsell and Mrs. Hester Hartsell, of this county, also survive.

Success comes to the man who does not fear failure.
