Bryson City Hog Biggest of Year. Bryson City Times. The biggest hog ever raised in Swain County was raised by D. H. Clark of this place. This hog was bred in Missouri and sold to a man in Tennessee when just a pig. He was a few months later sold to Clark, and Clark kept him for his herd book for about three and one-half years, giving him good attention, and plenty of good feed grew him to be the largest hog ever raised in this country. When the hog fattened and was killed for pork, he was four years and seven months old; three and one-half feet when standing; when killed and hung he measured seven feet four inches from root of tail to end of nose, six feet eight inches behind fore legs; six feet nine inches in front of big legs; five feet three inches around the neck; weighed 1025 pounds gross, 915 pounds net; was sold to a lumber company for $137.25. Mr. Clark has several more nice hogs but none as large as this one.

A "split attendant" in a popular London restaurant has just retired after 46 years' service. For nearly every day during this long period he roasted 35 saddles of mutton, 10 beef steaks, and 16 loins of pork, nearly a million joints in all.

The membership of the Cabarrus Country Club has grown from the original ten, who purchased the property, to a large number, including every profession and business interest of the city of Concord. It is said that the links will be as good or better than any in the state and it is confidently expected by the membership will be increased to the extent that it will be necessary, within a very short while, to make additional improvements and enlargements.

Salisbury Lady Hit by Rooster Seriously. Salisbury Post. Mrs. N. E. Hutchison was still confined to her bed at her residence at 692 West Franklin Street today as the result of a wound inflicted Monday morning when a rooster attacked her as she entered the chicken lot to feed the fowls. Her physician administered tetanus antitoxin late yesterday in the hope of preventing lockjaw.

Mrs. Hutchison had no sooner entered the chicken lot than the rooster struck at her, his spur hitting her right ankle. It began swelling at once and the pain was so great that she was forced to her bed.

Fearing that the poison would cause lockjaw the attending physician administered the tetanus antitoxin. Mr. Hutchison, who is with the R. W. Norman Furniture Company, said today that Mrs. Hutchison was suffering severe pain, but he and the physician were hopeful that her condition would improve in a few days.

Clint Moose Loses $124 at Oakboro. Stanley News-Herald. One hundred and twenty-five dollars in cold cash slipped away from Clint Moose, a local dairymen, at Oakboro Thursday morning. Mr. Moose was in a cafe and had the money out about some change. He hid it on the counter and went away, forgetting to pick it up.

At Big Lick, two miles up the road, he missed his roll. As there was only one man in the cafe as the time he left the money on the counter he felt sure he would be able to recover it. However, the man who was in the room at the time told Mr. Moose that he had not seen the cash. No one else seems to have seen it. However, Mr. Moose thinks he knows the person who got it, and still believes the man will return it to him. Otherwise he will no doubt, start something with the fellow that may make the situation rather embarrassing.

M. P. C. I. Wins From Trinity Freshmen. The M. P. C. I. baseball team played a good game Friday afternoon and defeated the Trinity freshmen team by a score of 5 to 2.

Harward pitched his usual brand of baseball. He was very effective in the locals. The hitting of Watts for the locals was the feature of the game. He hit two home runs out of four times to the bat. One of the balls was the longest ever hit on the local diamond. The Trinity club played a good game. Sparkman made several fine catches in center-field. Green, the Trinity shortstop, hit a home run in the eighth. The locals will play several more games before the season closes.

R H E Score: Trinity Freshmen 5 8 3 Batteries: Harward and Farmer; Tart and Sikes; Umpire: Albergotti.

Try to Raise Cotton in Virginia. Danville, Va., May 9.—An inquiry made in Halifax county reveals that a considerable number of tobacco growers are preparing to attempt cotton this year. Large tracts of land are being prepared for cotton and one hundred cotton planters have been sold to various farmers in the county.

The available supply of cotton seed in Halifax has become exhausted and is now being purchased further south. Several farmers had success last year and this year there appears to be real interest in a secondary money crop.

Post and Flag's Cotton Letter. New York, May 9.—While no improvement has been reported in dry goods markets the bullish tenor of private crop and weather advices and reports as to the extreme difficulty which spot shorts are meeting in finding cotton anywhere at any price to fill their engagements served apparently to disturb the equanimity of shorts in the contract market to some extent and a small flurry of scattered covering quick-brought into sharp relief the fact that except for what sellers for short account have been willing to supply the amount of contracts available is unimportant.

Reliable information indicates that shorts in the contract market can hope for little assistance from a distribution of domestic mill stocks as the spot shorts are bidding for such stocks at prices that absolutely preclude shipping for delivery. I begin to look fairly sure that any surplus in domestic mills will be urgently needed at good premiums to fill engagements with foreign consumers. The gap between the two crops may prevent the trade from making fresh purchases of consequence based on old crop prices but will count for very little with those who are endeavoring to cancel engagements to deliver what is not in their control and in large measure does not exist.

It looks that blind confidence in a total collapse of the textile industry with the result of offerings of goods and raw material on the buyers terms may have been carried rather too far. The supply side of the price equation cannot be permanently ignored with impunity. An immediate period of clear warm weather is imperative if there is not to be distinct anxiety as to the supply next season.

POST AND FLAG.

Bradstreet's Trade Review. New York, May 9.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Evidences of trade and industrial recession seem to have come more clearly to view this week than at any previous time since last summer. Wholesale trade has tended to increase quiet and industry, aside from building and kindred trades has slowed up further. Against this is to be noted a slight gain in some areas where weather conditions have permitted, or where, as in California, the severity of cattle disease quarantines has been relaxed and a measurable return to something like normal trade is reported. The precipitation of farmers in crop work has tended to restrict country buying and unsensationally cool or wet weather has also been a deterrent. In large industrial centers in the leading coal mining regions and in eastern and southern textile manufacturing sections mention is made of reduced industrial employment affecting retail buying. Weekly clearings $8,440,540,000.

Special Meeting. Workers and singers will meet at the McGill Street Baptist Church this evening at 7:30. Prof. and Mrs. Jones will be present to organize the choir and to practice singing.

Prof. T. B. Jones, directing the music. Mrs. T. B. Jones, pianist. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these meetings.
