The sale was made to the Salisbury Bank and Trust Company acting for Caldwell and Company, of Nashville. There were a number of bidders. The money will be used in the erection of a new central school building for the Granite Quarry district.

Fled Ku Klux

Threatening letters signed "Ku Klux Klan" have driven Mrs. John Brooke and her family from their home in Pennsgrove, N. J. One letter said that the Klan, at a meeting, objected to Miss Brooke's daughter Alicia going out riding at night with Richard Kent, 19, son of a prominent merchant. "It was demanded that the young couple be kept apart or action will be taken." Above is shown Alicia and below Mrs. Brooke, who sold her home and left to avoid further complications.

PATT HARRISON CHAIRMAN PROBLEM OF GARDEN GATHERING

Is One of the Most Gifted Speakers in America Today.
(By the Associated Press.)
Washington, June 22.—Six years of active service on the oratorical firing line in the Senate, preceded by four terms of political schooling in the House of Representatives, developed in Pat Harrison a brilliance of forensic expression that led to his selection as temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention.

Next to the youngest member of the Senate, a six-footer with a perpetual twinkle in his eye and a booming voice that carries to the fringes of a crowd, he has a knack of putting into his delivery and choice of words both a sting and a smile.

His name is really Byron Patton Harrison, and so he was referred to in the congressional directory when he was serving his first term as a member of the House from the sixth Mississippi district. But now, as a senator, he is listed as Pat.

The senator is of the same Virginia stock as two former Presidents of the United States, William Henry and Benjamin Harrison. More than 100 years ago his grandfather, migrating from the old dominion, settled near Crystal Springs, Mississippi, where Pat Harrison was born in August, 1881. His father, Robert Harrison, served in the Confederate army, receiving wounds from which he never fully recovered.

The Harrison family suffered reverses as a result of the Civil War, and at nine years of age Pat sold newspapers. But he kept to his school books, and finally worked his way through Louisiana State University by serving as a waiter in a student boarding house.

After graduation, he studied law while teaching in a Mississippi country school. At 23 years of age he was elected district attorney, serving in that capacity until 1910 when he was elected to Congress.

In 1918 Pat Harrison, who was making a name for himself in the House, entered a three-cornered fight for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Mississippi, and received a majority over the combined vote cast for Senator Vardaman, who was a candidate for re-election, and Governor Nol, who also was in the race.

Vardaman had inherited the ill will of President Wilson. Harrison championed the President's cause, and on entering the Senate proved one of Woodrow Wilson's staunchest defenders during the embittered days after the war. Of late, he has assumed the role of one of the most caustic critics of the Republican administration.

Senator Harrison's home is in Gulfport, Mississippi. He is married, has three children, cares for Washington society, plays a fair game of golf, likes to slip away from the Senate once in a while to watch a ball game, and usually relaxes in the evening by going to the movies.

Aviators Plunge to Lake Bottom But Live.

Chicago, June 21.—Two aviators fell from an altitude of 75 feet into Lake Michigan today, plunged to the bottom of the lake with their plane, climbed from the trap in the cockpit, rose to the surface of the water and were rescued.

Henry C. Clark, the pilot, and Ben Timm, mechanic, both of Chicago, were trying a new model hydroplane when Clark's trouser leg caught in the rudder control and threw plane sideways into a wing slip.

The aviators under water climbed through the maze of wires over the cockpit, and the plane, relieved of their weight, rose to the surface a mile out in the lake. The men clung to the side of the plane until a tug came to the rescue.

Rollin Lynde Hart, writing in the World's Work, has this to say on the migration of the Negro north: "His children put on shoes. Instead of going to school three months in the year, they go nine months, and to a much better school. Besides, there is 'freedom'—a wretched enough substitute for racial freedom, but nevertheless exhilarating. Now they think principally of their less fortunate brethren. To bring them north, to teach them, to civilize and uplift them is their ambition."

Wheat is the Fuel of Life

You can get the most food value out of wheat by eating bakings that are made from good plain flour. A dependable baking powder must be employed or you do not get the full nutritious value of the wheat—nor will your bakings be as palatable and easily digested.

The same results cannot be had if you use Self Rising Flours, which are improperly packed in porous sacks or bags, thus allowing absorption of moisture from the air. Food authorities and physicians agree that bakings that do not raise properly are bad for health. Such foods are hard to digest and in time cause stomach trouble.

Mothers who are interested in the proper growth and health of their children (and all mothers are) should never use anything but a good brand of plain flour and a time-tested leavener such as Calumet—the economy Baking Powder.

Calumet has more than the ordinary leavening strength. It raises every baking to its height of nutritious value. It is pure and dependable—do not look for a substitute—there is none.

Use Calumet and be positive of wholesome nutritious and economical foods.

SANDHILLS PEACHES TO THE NORTHERN MARKET

The Sandhills Peach Industry This Year Expected to Bring Over $2,000,000.

Aberdeen, June 22.—The largest and finest crop of peaches ever produced in the sandhills is now beginning to move to northern and eastern markets. Predictions are that approximately 2,500 iced refrigerator cars of 450 crates each will be shipped before the season is concluded next August, and that several hundred additional cars will either be canned or distributed throughout this state in auto trucks direct to consumers. It is estimated that there will be shipped from this section a fraction more than two peaches for each inhabitant of the United States.

Several of the early varieties such as the Mayflower and Alexander have already been picked and shipped, and fair to good prices, depending on the quality, were secured. These inferior varieties outsold fruit being shipped by Georgia on the same market. Every effort is being made this year to grow fruit of the highest quality. The fruit has been heavily thinned by hand so that what remains on the trees will mature to excellent size. The trees have been well fertilized and cultivated. They have been thoroughly sprayed or dusted to control the curculio and thus prevent wormy fruit, under the direction of the state's entomological experts; with the result that it appears that there will be no commercial amount of wormy fruit.
