The Village Harmonica

Dear Folks: You say your work is hard to do, this much we'll not deny. But how about your plans and hopes for someday by and by?

It's up to you to drive your work, to be its master too, instead of letting all your work keep on driving you.

Don't let your desk get piled with work but clean it up each night, don't let a lot of odds and ends keep bobbing in sight.

Cordially yours—T. V. R.

REUNION OF THE THIRTIETH.

Editorial Correspondence. Greenville, S. C., July 12.—Men who served in the 30th Division both at home and overseas will be interested in knowing that final plans for the Old Hickory Reunion are being made now and these plans indicate the reunion this year will compare favorably with the other successful ones held in the past.

Major G. Heyward Mahon, Jr. of this city, is President, and H. B. McManaway, also of this city, is secretary and treasurer of the association and they are enthusiastic over the plans that have been made so far.

"The people of Charleston have left nothing undone to make the reunion a success," Mr. McManaway stated this morning. "Committees have been appointed to look after every detail and the committee members declare they are ready. On one committee alone 1,500 persons were appointed and they have provided meals and lodging for everyone who will attend."

Mr. McManaway explained further that all entertainment will be provided free of charge. Included in the free staff will be board, lodging, swimming parties, dances and other forms of amusement.

The railroad companies are co-operating with the officials and the rate will be fare and a half. Certificates are being mailed out to all members and these certificates when presented to local ticket agents will be all that is necessary to get the reduced rates. Members who do not get a letter from Secretary McManaway can get a certificate by writing to him. Charleston feels a special interest in the members of the Old Hickory Association.

Davis and Bryan a Ticket to Conjure With

Philadelphia Record. During the prolonged sessions of the Democratic National Convention, and through the thick of the bitter squabbles over issues and candidates, "The Record" never for a moment lost hope that ultimately the delegates would agree upon a ticket satisfactory to the rank and file of the party. It did not dare to expect, however, that rare manifestation of sound judgment and political acumen which marked the proceedings of the closing day of the convention.

To the nomination of John W. Davis for the Presidency we have already referred with feeling of gratification and enthusiasm which we are confident must be shared by good Democrats in the country over. The selection of Governor Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, as his running mate will serve to strengthen and confirm the belief that the New York convention has paved the way to victory in November.

AN UNBOSSSED PARTY.

The fact that Smith and McAdoo could not be nominated places the Democratic convention in the class of the unbossed. John W. Davis has no elaborate organization. He was not making an active campaign. It was known that he would accept the nomination but it was certainly known that he did not seek pledged delegates and did not want any unit rule to hold followers. The convention allowed bosses of Smith and McAdoo to lead into a slough of partisan strife and then it repudiated boss rule and named the man it really wanted from the beginning.

This action proves that real Democracy is not dead. It is true that the bosses sought by every means at their disposal to dominate delegates and influence their decision, but in the last analysis freedom of it is true that the bosses sought by every means at their disposal to dominate the delegates and influence their decision, but in the last analysis freedom of thought won. The bosses tied things up, to be sure, but they could not force the issue. Real Democracy prevailed in the end.

TWO KINDS OF LOSERS.

Governor Smith seems to have taken his defeat in a fine spirit. He sent Mr. Davis a message promising his hearty support and accepted an invitation to address the convention and reiterate his pledges. "I'll take off my coat and vest and so will everyone else who follows me in this State and do whatever we can to improve conditions in the United States by the election of this ticket," he said.

That's the proper spirit. No matter what Mr. McAdoo might have felt he should have been sport enough to take his defeat promptly and with good grace. It is easy to be a good winner. The test comes when defeat has to be met. A smiling loser always arouses the interest and support of everyone. A grouchy loser is apt to lose the interest and sympathy of even his closest friends.

Among the interesting curiosities shown at the Wembley exhibition is a miniature bicycle which measures just six inches over all, and is an exact reproduction of the modern "wheel." Even the cranks are fitted with tiny cotter-pins and nuts, and the hair-like spokes have their own spoke nipples. Perhaps the most delicate item is the chain, the links of which are stamped from steel only four-thousandths of an inch thick.

Mid-Summer Madness

Philadelphia Record. These two midsummer gowns stress lines rather than trimming. Both are of white crepe de chine, and both are as simple in effect as it is possible to make them, but they are subtle, too, in their discrimination. The long-sleeved model is embroidered in black chenille and banded with black velvet. The sleeves model has three unics in different shades of green that form a border about the neckline. It is bound at the neck and armholes with the darkest shade of green and a tassel of just that size falls from the waistline nearly to the hemline.

DINNER STORIES

Here's a Clue.

Father's umbrella was not to be found anywhere. So he asked the members of his family if they had seen it. "I think Mr. Benson took it last night," said Johnny. "What makes you think that my son?" "Cause when I was in the hall last night I heard him say to sister, 'Well, I'll have to steal this one.'"

Taking Dogs to Church.

The custom of taking dogs to church has only recently been discontinued in Europe and in many Welsh and Scotch churches dog tongs, used to eject canines when they disturbed services, are still to be found.

Ten Carat.

Berdio (on his last trip to the states): "Dear, you shall have the finest engagement ring that money can buy. What kind of a stone do you want?" Future Mrs. Berdio: "Oh, one like David of the Bible used."

Berdio: "And what do you mean by that?" Future Mrs. Berdio: "One that will knock 'em dead."

Diorez: Why so sad? Pencerzo: I just happened to think, dear, this is the last evening we can be together until tomorrow.

Breakers there a man with soul so dead Who never to a top has said, When past the limit he has sped, "Why doncha pinch that guy ahead?"

No Easy Marquee.

A dentist aboard a large barque Essayed to pull teeth for Miss Clarque. But when he asked: "Gas?" She promptly said: "Yes. But don't try to get gay in the darque."

Even Saux.

The fairest young maiden of Vaux, Had a corn on each delicate taux. When a shameless young flirt Inquired if they hurt, She shyly responded: "Yea, haux!"

A Silly Move.

The effort to set up J. P. Morgan as a bugaboo to frighten voters away from the support of John W. Davis is one of the silliest and most demagogic moves ever made. The present head of the house of Morgan is a quiet, unobtrusive gentleman utterly lacking in that dominating personality and tremendous driving aggressiveness that made his father such a power in the world of finance. It was the elder Morgan's activity as a trust promoter and his control of great corporations, such as United States Steel and many railroads, that made him so extensively disliked and feared as the very personification of money power. His son seems to be content to do business as a conservative banker, carrying on the traditions of a firm founded by his grandfather. It is as ridiculous to criticize Mr. Davis for giving advice as a lawyer to such a person as it would be to find fault with an English solicitor for acting in a similar capacity to the Rothschilds.

We Pasteurize

We pasteurize our milk because the most prominent health and dairy authorities say even the best milk should be pasteurized.

Our milk is pure; pure at the farms when it comes from the healthy cows, kept and milked under sanitary conditions.

Pasteurization is the final step—the safeguard that eliminates the slightest chance of contamination of any kind.
