

A Case of Then and Now.
Charlotte Observer.

General education progress in North Carolina has pretty good illustration in the case of Staly County. Last week contract was let for a High School building at Albemarle, the county seat, at a cost of $177,140. Perhaps this incident turned the Staly News-Herald's mind in the direction of education years ago and now. It was back in 1892 that the county was spending what was then considered the enormous sum of $4,054.87 for school purposes. This year its school budget is $251,731.45. Then the school term was eight weeks, or two months; the superintendent was paid $45.50 for the year's work, and the teachers got $50 for the "year" of two months. The total pay of teachers and superintendent, we imagine, was just about enough to pay the gasoline bill for the motor buses which now carry the children to the various public schools scattered over Staly County.

GRAND ARMY'S CHIEF ATTACKS THE U. D. C.

General Arenberg Says the Daughters Aren't Preaching Patriotism.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Addressing representatives of patriotic societies assembled in Continental Memorial hall today to plan for national defense day, General L. E. Arenberg, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, launched a violent attack on the Daughters of the Confederacy, charging that they were not preaching patriotism, were not forgetting the woes of the 60's, but were doing any manner of things to keep them open.

Other speakers, including army officers, and E. F. Colladay, president of the Washington board of trade, who outlined the purposes of the defense day test, told of plans made and working in certain communities. General Arenberg was not on the program, but was called upon by the chairman of the meeting, Brigadier General Henry J. Reilly, officers' reserve corps.

After reading resolutions passed at the recent encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, placing the G. A. R. wholeheartedly behind such a defense test, he went directly to the attack on the Daughters of the Confederacy, and confined the remainder of his brief remarks to it.

While the defense test plans were going on, he said, there is a force in the country which is not patriotic and is doing things to prevent the spread of patriotism. This organization, he said, is the Daughters of the Confederacy, and he said that he had examined the list of patriotic organizations which were to participate in the meeting and he failed to find the name of this organization.

"The Daughters of the Confederacy does not preach patriotism," he charged. "It is even engaged in defacing the face of nature by placing on the face of Stone Mountain statues of men who ought to trend the nation in twain. If defense means anything, it is time to forget the misdeeds of years ago."

"I honor the men of the Confederate army. It is all right for them to get together in their meetings and preserve the comradeships of the days of the Civil War. I believe they are right in holding such meetings."

"But I do not believe that the Daughters of the Confederacy has any right to attempt to get the offices of its commanders on the coins of the United States, for those who fought against the nation have no right to have their faces on any coins of the country. We are doing our level best to defeat such a thing as this."

"Some people are not able to forget and forgive for the things that happened years ago. But it is high time now for them not to forget that there is but one flag and that is the flag of the United States. Are we going to permit these people to carry on as they have, or to forget on national defense test day?"

Charleston Host to Masons.

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 30.—This historic city, which boasts that it is the birthplace of modern Scottish Rite Masonry, is preparing for the annual session of the Supreme Council, 33rd degree, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry for the southern jurisdiction, which will be held here September 23-28. Masons of the Rite from all states in the southern jurisdiction, which includes Alaska, are expected to attend the sessions.

HIGH POINT FARE 50 CENTS, SAY BUS MEN

Agreement Reached at Conference With Attorney General Manning.

Raleigh, Aug. 27.—Following a conference here today between Attorney General J. S. Manning and attorneys representing bus owners operating between Greensboro and High Point an agreement was reached upon a uniform fare of 50 cents for the 18 mile run between the two Guilford county cities. The conference followed a price cutting war among bus owners operating between the two cities.

The agreement on a 50 cents fare was reached under Judge Manning's supervision after he had pointed out to the bus owners the insecurity of their position operating at a rate of less than a cent and a half a passenger per mile. He said he did not think a fair profit could be made with a rate much lower than three cent a mile. Finally, the agreement on the 50 cent fare was reached, placing the mileage charge slightly under three cents.

SHATTERED NERVES

Lady Says She Was In a Desperate Condition, But "Now In Splendid Health" After Taking Cardui.

Dale, Ind.—"About three years ago," says Mrs. Flora Roberts, of this place, "I had the 'flu', which left me in a desperate condition. I had a bad cough. I went down in weight to little over one hundred pounds. I took different medicines—did everything, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I hurt so badly in the chest at times I would have to go to the door to get my breath.

"I would have the headache and . . . was so weak I felt like I would just have to sink down and stay there.

"My nerves were shattered. I looked for something awful to happen—I would tremble and shake at a noise.

"My mother said, 'Do try Cardui,' and my husband insisted till I began its use. I used two bottles of Cardui . . . and noted a big improvement in my condition. I kept up the Cardui and weigh 180 pounds. I am now in splendid health—sure am a firm believer in Cardui, for I'm satisfied it did the work."

After a weakening illness a tonic is needed to help regain lost strength. Many thousands of women have found Cardui exactly what they needed for this purpose. It may be just what you need. Try it. All druggists.
