IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

SEEN AND HEARD ON TRIP TO BLUEFIELD
Major Foll Had String of Good Jokes
Wytville Typical Virginia Town
By MILES H. WOLFF
Major Foll had a string of good jokes he told at the different towns at which he spoke. His best one was this:
A colored person had started to church one Sunday morning when he observed a young colored woman gaily vending her way toward him. This female was very stylishly garbed in the short frocks which were so much the vogue some years ago and made quite a good appearance.
As she switched by the parsonage, he stopped dead in his tracks and gazed longingly back at her. He meditated for several moments and in deep thought remarked: "Shall it be 'Onward Christian Soldiers' or 'Abide With Thee'?"

ATLANTA HONORS 'SMITH' WHO DIES

Atlanta Honors 'Smith' Who Dies
Charlotte Observer
As Mr. Smith was a native of Charlotte, and had so many friends here, not only for his own sake, but because of his parents, the late Capt. and Mrs. T. T. Smith, will soon see the enclosed from one of the Atlanta papers in reference to Mr. Smith's death, said a friend who enclosed a notice of Mr. Smith's death with the following comment:
The position which he will hold in the business and civic life of the community was reflected in the high regard of those to whom his death is a source of keen regret. In his death, Atlanta loses one of her outstanding citizens and a man who contributed much toward the growth of the city.
In speaking of Mr. Smith, Charles R. Wickensham, president and general manager of the lines with which he was identified, said:
"Mr. Smith had been connected with these lines in an official capacity for 24 years, and was universally beloved and respected by officials and employees alike. His outstanding characteristics were loyalty and integrity, which gained for him the profound respect and confidence of the management, which he never betrayed. He was faithful to the trust imposed in him and his loss will be keenly felt, by not only his associates with these lines, but by all who enjoyed the pleasure of his acquaintance."
As a token of respect to Mr. Smith, the general offices at Atlanta, Montgomery and Augusta will be closed the day of the funeral.
Funeral services will be held at the North avenue Presbyterian church the Rev. Richard Orme Flinn officiating. (Mr. Smith was a brother of T. T. Smith, of Concord.—Editor.)

AT THE THEATRE

At the Theatre
"Fair Week" starring Walter Heirs, Edward Horton, Theodore Roberts, Helen Jerome Eddy, and Louise Dresser, is being shown at the Star today.
William Fox presents the motion picture version of A. S. M. Hutchinson's novel, "This Freedom," with Fay Compton, the most widely discussed novel of the year. Can a wife win freedom and happiness and disregard her home duties? This is the feature at the Piedmont today.
The Pastime today is showing Wesley Barry in "George Washington, Jr.," a well known play by George M. Cohan.
Revival Meeting Grows in Interest
The revival at Forest Hill is attracting good congregations and there is a constantly deepening interest in the services. The worship Tuesday night was very impressive and helpful.
The large choir under the direction of Prof. D. L. Maness, is doing some great singing. Mr. Maness has also organized a junior choir of about 35 voices and these are adding much to these music.
Preaching twice daily 9:00 o'clock in the morning and 7:30 at night. Everybody has a cordial invitation to attend these services.
PASTOR.
Would Change Albemarle-New London Road
Stately News-Herald.
Mr. "Wh" Ivey, a prominent citizen of New London, was in Albemarle today. Mr. Ivey is circulating a petition to the State Highway Commission, asking that the road from Albemarle to New London be relocated and rebuilt. The movement contemplates the location of the road on the East side of the Yadkin railroad so as to cut out the two grade crossings necessary as the road runs at present.
Woman Brings Suit For Attack
Greensboro, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Margaret Stephens of this city, formerly of Washington, D. C., today started civil suit here against James Meeks, local baker, for $10,000, alleging attempted criminal assault; at his hands on last August 17. She asks $5,000 actual damages; $5,000 punitive. A criminal action is also pending against the man.
