

VOTERS OF CABARRUS READY FOR ELECTION WITH ALL CONFIDENT

Democrats Presenting Candidates That Have Made Good in Office During Past Two Years.

LARGE VOTE IN COUNTY EXPECTED

Campaign Has Been Hard Fought But Leaders Have Kept Down Hard Feeling In All Parties.

Party leaders in Cabarrus are waiting now for the time that will start in operation the voting machinery in the county.

The Democrats are offering a strong ticket in the county this year. They are offering the officers who have been in charge during the past two years and who have made good on the job.

Sheriff Caldwell heads the ticket this year. He has made an efficient sheriff, has stuck to the job since chosen to succeed W. P. Mabrey who resigned and had handled without trouble all problems with which he has been confronted.

Mr. Elliott, the popular registrar of deeds, is one of the strongest men on the ticket. Mr. Elliott is recognized as one of the most efficient public servants in North Carolina and during his term of office he has been repeatedly congratulated for the prompt manner in which work is dispatched in his office.

Miss Margie McEachern polled the largest vote of any Democrat in the county two years ago and she is expected to run at the head of the ticket again this year.

Dr. J. A. Hartzell is well qualified for the office of coroner. The Democrats have found during the past two years that it is very desirable for the coroner to be a physician and Dr. Hartzell has conducted his work so efficiently and at the same time so economically that he was unanimously nominated for the office at the county convention.

Persons who have had occasion to do business at the cotton platform have found W. B. Boger a courteous public servant. He has had much experience as cotton weigher and he is strictly on the job.

Major W. A. Foll and Sam Black, candidates for the State Senate and House, respectively, are men that are fully capable of conducting their duties in Raleigh in an intelligent manner.

Walter L. Parr has performed creditably all duties as county surveyor. He has given the office such attention that he need not to his constituents he has proved worthy.

J. F. Dayvault, W. C. McKinley, J. R. Henix, J. M. Hartzell and William Harry are the candidates for county commissioners. This board has labored well during the past two years although the members have been severely criticized in some quarters they have been justly praised in other quarters.

FILM PLAYERS ON TRAIL AGAIN IN COVERED WAGON

LOOKS like "The Covered Wagon" days, but it isn't, although the life was somewhat the same. In this case Lois Wilson and Ernest Torrence are on their way across the Texas plains behind the only living herd of long horn cattle and a collection of cowboys are trying to keep the animals from stampeding.

THE ELECTION TOMORROW

One of the Most Hotly Contested Political Contests Ever Known. (By the Associated Press.) Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 3.—Following one of the most hotly contested political fights in the history of both the state and nation, the voters will go to the polls tomorrow morning to make their choice of office holders from the President of the United States to many posts even in the townships.

Through the continued drives of three parties in the national campaign and the many issues brought up in the state, interest has been aroused to a great extent and the registration has been large. One of the greatest total votes ever cast in the prediction of political candidates for the work of the polls on Tuesday.

In addition there are two referendums and four constitutional amendments to be voted upon. The two referendums are the Port Commission bill for which Gov. Cameron Morrison has been campaigning and the Act to provide a World War Veterans Loan Fund.

Persons who have had occasion to do business at the cotton platform have found W. B. Boger a courteous public servant. He has had much experience as cotton weigher and he is strictly on the job.

CHARGES FLY THICK AND FAST AS STATE CAMPAIGN FINISHES

Both Democrats and Republicans Warn Voters to Be Careful as Day of Election Draws Near.

DAWSON APPEALS FOR BIG VOTE

Asks Democrats to "Resent" the Action of the National Republicans in Sending Aid to State.

Raleigh, Nov. 3.—Charges and counter charges flew thick and fast as North Carolina's campaign came to a close today.

Voters of the Old North State had before them on one hand the assertion, made to county chairmen in a telegram on Saturday night by W. G. Branham, republican state chairman, that he had information from "reliable" sources that misuse of the absentee voters law was planned, and requesting that such voters be challenged, and on the other a statement by John G. Dawson, democratic state chairman, that "it has been charged" that republicans have sent $150,000 into the state for use in the election.

They also had before them charges by Governor Morrison, who has made an active personal campaign for the port terminal bill, that many of the opponents of the measure are railroad stockholders.

Chairman Dawson, in his statement, called upon the Democratic voters to flock to the polls tomorrow and "resent" the actions of the public national organization, which he said was doing everything it could to aid the party in the state.

ANOTHER GROUP FOR HOTEL CAMPAIGN IS CHOSEN BY MANAGER

Dr. R. M. King Selects Men Who Are to Assist Him in Campaign For Modern Hotel in City.

BLANKS TALKS OF VALUE OF HOTEL

Says Community Financed Hostels Have Proved Very Successful Where They Have Been Tried.

Dr. R. M. King is the latest group manager who has completed the personnel of his group of salesmen for the new hotel campaign.

The following are the salesmen of Dr. King's group: R. M. King, Group Manager; W. H. Gibson, Wm. A. Ritchie, J. A. Patterson, Jno. L. Miller, F. M. Youngblood, J. B. Robertson, W. G. Brown, G. S. Klutz, J. M. Culesture, M. C. Culesture.

"The Modern Hotel is no longer a one man institution," said H. W. Blanks today in commenting upon Concord's New Modern Community Hotel.

"In the vast number of cases," continued Mr. Blanks, "the modern hotel is financed through community co-operation. Because of this fact the hotel is of prime interest to the entire community which it serves: first, because the large majority of stockholders are local citizens, second, because the Modern Hotel is the very best of all civic, social and co-operative action in that community."

"This condition came about largely from the doing away with the many small hotels, which were in fact merely saloons with a few rooms overhead. With the coming of Volsteadism these hotels went out of business and naturally their closing caused a shortage of hotel room and as there were really no modern hotels already in some communities the best in the lot added a few more rooms and continued in business. The average solution, however, was the erection of an entirely new and modern hotel of the type which now does justice to the community. Because no individual could see his way clear to finance the new enterprise, business spirited citizens came together and put the new hotel across in a community way."

"So favorable has been the results of these community financed hotels that the movement has literally swept the country. Every state in the union has within its confines a number of citizens in which such hotels are being constructed or are in process and being financed."

Concord has always needed more adequate accommodation. We are now about to meet this need and are doing it by the community financing plan. Concord is about to take her place among the progressive cities of North Carolina and of America.
