

THE HOTEL CAMPAIGN GOES OVER THE TOP

$382,200 Is Subscribed For Stock In New Hotel

Cheers and Applause Greeted the Reading of Figures Which Showed Campaign Was Success.

SEVERAL SHORT ADDRESSES MADE

Workers Declare Campaign Was of Great Benefit to the City.—Hartsell Team Sold the Most Stock.

Concord is to have a new hotel! At the Monday night meeting of the campaign which has been waged in the interest of the new and modern hotel...

The reading of the final report, which carried the definite announcement that the goal had been reached, was greeted with cheers and prolonged applause.

Concord has known few meetings such as was held at the Y Monday night. Scarcely in the history of the city has such civic pride and delight been shown.

On every hand one heard such expressions as "this body of men could put over anything if they could maintain the fine spirit shown in this campaign."

Reports at the meeting were as follows: Team led by Hinton McLeod—$3,700. Team led by B. E. Harter—$300.

Team led by C. W. Byrd—$1,900. Team led by A. R. Hoover—$300. Team led by P. M. Lafferty—$1,500.

Team led by E. L. Hicks—$2,400. Team led by Dr. R. M. King—$1,800. Team led by Cameron MacRae—$200.

Team led by L. T. Hartsell, Jr.—$2,700. Team led by J. Y. Pharr—$300.

Team led by W. B. Ward—$300. Executive Committee—$6,100. The total for the meeting was $23,100.

which added to the $350,100 reported at the noon luncheon gave the grand total of $382,200.

The total sales of the divisions in the campaign were: Division A—$17,300. Division B—$20,800.

Division C—$3,400. Division D—$3,500. The balance between the total of these figures and the grand total was raised by the Executive Committee.

Permanent trophies presented were as follows: "We Are It" banners to the following teams: Team led by Hinton McLeod in Division A.

Team led by C. W. Byrd in Division B. Team led by Dr. King in Division C. Team led by L. T. Hartsell, Jr., in Division D.

The flag presented to the division selling the most shares of stock went to Division D, led by C. S. Smart.

The goat was won by Mr. Hartsell's team which during the campaign sold stock worth $16,500. Other leading teams were: Hicks' team with $12,200.

King's team with $14,100, and Byrd's team with $14,600. Five new members were added to the meeting.

They were J. W. Roberts, M. B. Sherrin, J. C. McEachern, J. M. Hendrix and J. C. Bodenheimer.

During the campaign 38 salesmen won places in the club by selling $2,000 worth or stock. Mr. Hicks and his workers were generously applauded when it was announced that his team was the only one in the campaign 100 per cent. super-pep-

While figures were being tabulated to determine the winners of the permanent trophies short talks were made by the division leaders and other workers in the campaign.

AN APPRECIATION.

The spirit of unselfish community service on the part of the members of the Executive Committee and Citizens' Sales Organization of Concord's New Hotel Campaign is a great credit to Concord.

We desire to leave you our sincere friendship and good wishes. We wish to thank the newspapers, the members of the civic organizations, and every citizen who helped to make this project a success.

We congratulate Concord because she has men of vision, faith and action. We congratulate Concord because of her bright future, assured through the united action of her loyal citizens.

For the HOCKENBURY SYSTEM, INC., R. H. KELTNER, JAMES C. TROSTLE.

U. D. C. CONVENTION WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Final Plans for Sessions of Convention Are Being Made Today.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 18 (By the Associated Press).—Officials today were holding conferences and completing arrangements for the formal opening tonight of the thirty-first annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, who will be one of the principal speakers at the initial session, arrived in the city during the morning.

While Governor Clifford Walker, of Georgia, who is expected to deliver the state's welcoming address to the delegates, was to arrive on an afternoon train.

Mrs. Frank Harold, of American, Ga., president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, at a luncheon tendered by the Savannah U. D. C. chapter.

The former Illinois chief executive was the honor guest at a luncheon given by a local civic organization.

Approximately 500 delegates are expected to attend the opening exercises. Mrs. Harold's address will be on the subject of Americanism.

THE COTTON MARKET

Reactions in Yesterday's Market Followed by Rally in Early Dealings.

(By the Associated Press) New York, Nov. 18.—Reactions in the cotton market yesterday were followed by rallies in today's early dealings.

Liverpool made a steadier showing than apparently was expected by some of yesterday's sellers, while there also was some bullish comment on the news from the local goods market, and after opening unchanged to nine points higher, the market soon showed net gains of 23 to 27 points.

Covering by some of yesterday's sellers and moderate trade buying on the advance carried January contracts up to 24.50 before the end of the first half hour.

Cotton futures opened steady. Dec. 24.00; Jan. 24.35; March 24.63; May 24.93; July 24.80.

With Our Advertisers.

Howard's Filling Station cleans cars clean. A savings account paves the path to consistent savings. See new ad. of the Cabarrus Savings Bank.

Venetian Cassino compact, powder and rouge at Gibson Drug Store. Beautify your home with artificial flowers at the Musette.

Dodge Bros. build surplus value into their cars. See ad. of Corl Motor Company.

Another new patent pump for $8.00 at Ivey's. See new ad. C. H. Barrier and Co. have your turkey for Thanksgiving.

Canned meats of every kind at the Piggy Wiggy. The Cabarrus Creamery Co. has the only pasteurizing plant in Cabarrus county. Phone 292.

Mr. Odell Was General Sales Manager in the successful campaign for a New Hotel for Concord.

PUBLIC QUESTIONS ARE DISCUSSED BY GOVERNORS

Safeguarding Highways One Subject Discussed by the Governors.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 18 (By the Associated Press).—The conference of governors of the United States meeting here in sixteenth annual session, entered its second and concluding days today.

Branch, of Indiana, and Governor Channing Cox, of Massachusetts, leading with papers on prevention of grade crossing automobile accidents, and safeguarding the highways, respectively.

After the morning session the governors were to be the guests of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon. Later in the day they were to board a steamship for a trip up the St. Johns River for Sanford, and a tour of the Southern section of the state, thence across the Everglades to Palm Beach and Miami. The party will disband at Miami next Saturday.

AWAIT DETAILS ABOUT DEATH OF MRS. WHEELER

Woman Stabbed to Death in a Lonely Homestead Cabin in Minnesota.

(By the Associated Press) Warroad, Minn., Nov. 18.—Details of the slaying of Mrs. Elsie Wheeler, aged 31, in the isolated country of the Minnesota northwest angle, today awaited the return of Lake-of-the-Woods County authorities, who are hiking 100 miles through the wilderness to a lonely cabin where she was found stabbed last Thursday.

The Wheelers and Jake and Robert Coulson recently went into territory along the Canadian border where they had taken out homestead claims, going from Clearwater, Kansas.

PRESBYTERY DECIDES AGAINST DR. FOSDICK

Decides His Services Will Not Be Needed After First of March.

(By the Associated Press) New York, Nov. 18.—After months of controversy which, according to Presbyterian ministers, has affected the whole country and broke up friendships, the New York Presbytery has decided with only two dissenting votes, that the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's services as special preacher at the First Presbyterian Church must end March 1, 1925, and that in the meantime he may continue to fill the pulpit.

QUESTION MINISTER ABOUT WIFE'S DEATH

Ashes of Body of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley Found in Furnace of Her Home.

(By the Associated Press) Columbus, O., Nov. 18 (By the Associated Press).—Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, for nine years pastor of Christ Lutheran Church of Bexley, a suburb, was being questioned by police today in connection with the finding of the charred ashes of his wife's body in the furnace of his Bexley home late yesterday.

Police Lieutenant Schellenberger announced that "something definite" may be announced within an hour.

Get 100-Year-Old Carp; Respect Age, Free Him.

Kireharken, Schleswig-Holstein, Nov. 16.—A German carp, estimated to be more than 100 years old, has been caught in a canal near here. The fish was three feet long and weighed thirty pounds. Fishermen hereabouts assert the largest carp they ever heard about before weighed only twenty pounds.

The "centenarian" caught in a net, after being taken to town in a tank and examined by scientists, was liberated in the canal where it had been taken, the fishermen believing this act would bring them good luck.

The Urb Market at Rockingham.

Rockingham, N. C., Nov. 17.—The Rockingham Curb market showed sales of $6,175.82 for small farmers during the period from December 1, 1923, to November 1, 1924, according to a report just made public. The sales ranged from dressed ducks to dried apples, chrysanthemums, o'possums and candy.

Fix Date For Auto Show.

Charlotte, Nov. 17.—The second Monday in February was named as the date for the 1925 Charlotte automobile show at the luncheon of the Charlotte Automobile Merchants' Association Monday.

RULES OF THE ROAD

A Few Printers on Making the Highways Safe.

Greensboro, Nov. 18.—Rules of the Road established and practiced by those who use the highways would eliminate many accidents, is the opinion of C. W. Roberts, vice-president of the Carolina Motor Club. "If everyone would decide to 'do unto others as they wish to be done by' instead of 'do others before they get a chance to do you' the ten or twenty or thirty commandments of motoring would be simple and practicable. The trouble lies in the fact that motorists will not interest themselves in these matters until the accident occurs, and then it is too late."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind on the job; 'Carefully watch for curves, crossings and bridges; 'Keep his car under control at all times; 'Keep brakes and steering gear in good working order; 'Signal to the man behind when stopping or slowing down; 'Signal a warning to the man behind when turning or parking; 'Be positive the other fellow has a chance before cutting in front of him; 'Park where he does not endanger the lives or property of others; 'Make sure the way is clear before moving from the curb; 'Never try to save a minute or two if it endangers life or property; 'Obey all the rules of the road dictated by law or common sense; 'Be always careful, vigilant, courteous and thoughtful—a true gentleman of the highways; 'Every item list covers every motor vehicle evil or, as it might be called, malpractice. There is dimming of road courtesy; proper headlight adjustment; parking on the highway so that the road will be clear for the next fellow who comes along; recklessness, carelessness, speeding, liquor, dazzling headlights, no lights, poor lights, bad brakes, no brakes, proper signals, loafing on the highway or spooning; 'There are so many of these that the rules of the road should follow the saying of the Nazarene: 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them.' That is nothing else that covers this motoring situation. When a man business for he is immediately a part of the huge proverbial machine, and his failure may cost the life of his fellow man."

"If I were asked to give my selection of the many rules of the road, I believe I should urge that every motorist—'Be ready for any emergency by keeping eye and mind