LADD SAYS REPUBLICANS ARE DRUNK WITH POWER

Sharp Arraignment of Present Leadership of Republican Party.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—A sharp arraignment of the present leadership of the Republican party was made in the Senate today by Senator Ladd, Republican, North Dakota, in a carefully prepared address dealing with the action of the Republican Senate conference in letting Wisconsin; Frazier, North Dakota, and Brookhart, Iowa, out of the party councils.

Asserting that the curtain had not yet been rung down on this act of the "notorious" conference, Senator Ladd charged that "the camp followers of the old Republican party have become the vanguard of the new Republican party—leading it backward and downward from the heights where Lincoln left it when he fell."

"Drunk with power and forgetting its traditions, he said, the Republican party has proceeded to a surrender of the nation's money fundings to 'financial buccaners,' and to surrender its taxing power to 'tariff magnates,' has squandered its natural resources and public lands; made ventures in imperialism for the sole benefit of 'partisan satrapes,' and transformed the government 'of the people by the people for the people' into 'a government of the masses by the classes'."

"If to be a Republican," he added, "I am to accept and ratify, defend and promote a political policy or party that exists in the accomplishment of these results—without protest—without exhausting my abilities to correct these fatal errors of the past and prevent their repetition in the future, then I cannot qualify."

"If the election of a Republican as President with a reliable working majority in Congress means nothing more than an extension for four years of an unlimited license to plunder the American people, then I cannot be a Republican."

"If the transfer of billions of capital values from the farms and producers of America to the swollen fortunes of monopoly, within three weeks' time, is a triumph of the Republican party, then, indeed, is the party of Lincoln doomed."

CONCORD — N. C. —

At the Collegiate Institute.
Mt. Pleasant, Jan. 8.—Regular duties were resumed at the Institute January 5th with practically the entire student body on hand. Those who were detained have since returned, and a half dozen new students have entered.

The esprit de corps is fine and there is promise of a successful term ahead.

In the main, the faculty members spent the Christmas holidays at home. Major Glenn, of the department of history and Greek, made a trip north, spending some time in Washington and New York. The holiday season was marred for Prof. McAllister by the illness of his wife who was in the hospital over Christmas. Mrs. McAllister has since returned home and is gradually improving.

Another lyceum number was enjoyed on the 6th. The Lombard entertainers lived up to their name and gave the school community a programme which was characterized by uniqueness and pleasing variety.

The class of '25 has recently exhibited a fine spirit of generosity and loyalty to alma mater in contributing to the Institute library one of the most valuable sets of books that has ever been offered to the public—The Authors' Digest. It will be of real service to the faculty and students. As succeeding student bodies reap the benefit of this literary treasure, they will have occasion to remember with gratitude the splendid donation of this class.

S. E. McFadden Kills Himself.
Chester, S. C., Jan. 7.—Samuel E. McFadden, one of Chester's most prominent lawyers, shot himself through the brain with a pistol Tuesday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Death was instantaneous.

The news of Mr. McFadden's suicide came as a distinct shock to the people of this section. Mr. McFadden had been in poor health for a number of months, and had spent much time in different hospitals seeking restoration, and only recently returned from a hospital in Georgia, though he had not been able to return to his office.

Mr. McFadden was about 56 years of age. He was born in this city, and was the son of the late John C. and Mrs. Margaret Louise Waters McFadden.

Mr. McFadden is survived by his widow, who was Miss Ethel Means, and the following children: Joseph Means, Misses Louise and Jessie, and John C. Samuel E. Jr.
