Bobbers to Bob Beautifully Must Bob to Own Type, Declares Nestle

STRAIGHT BOB

BETTY COMPSON PERMANENT WAVE BOB

CONSTANCE TALMADGE FLUFFY BOB

CHICAGO — Are you bobbing your hair according to your type? Whether you are old or young, sylph-like, or inclined to be stout, there is a bob to suit you perfectly, according to Charles Nestle, New York hair specialist and originator of the permanent wave, in an address before a convention of hairdressers here. "If you are a fleshy woman, never get a fluffy bob," said Mr. Nestle. "The bob should be plain and neat in outline. If you have a very round face, a straight bob will not be becoming. The clip should then follow the outline of the head. "If you have a thin face, the straight bob should again be avoided for this type of bob has a tendency to make the face appear thinner than ever. A wide wave will give a soft, fluffy look about the ears and make the face look broader. "For a young girl, the fluffy bob is always the most becoming. There is nothing prettier than a ringlet bob for the young, debutante with small features. The type of girl should never wear the straight bob for it has a tendency to make one look older, more sedate and even 'vampish'. "The older woman should be most particular regarding her bob. Much more particular than the average woman is. She should never wear any circumstances wear a ringlet bob, but have her hair clipped to 'fit her head' by following the outline of the head in back, leaving the hair long enough at the sides to make wide, soft waves."

YOUNG WOMAN TELLS WHY SHE GAVE AWAY HER BABY

Weldon Girl Declares Husband Had Mistrusted Her and Taken Other Child From Her. Fayetteville, Jan. 9.—Because her husband would not let her have her four-year-old girl she gave away her four-months old baby to a stranger on the train from Rocky Mount to Fayetteville, Bessie DeBerry, of Weldon, told Travelers' Aid and police officials here. The woman from Salisbury to whom she gave the baby, she said, was "big and fat and nice looking." Her story of the giving away of the infant, talked with that told in Associated Press dispatches. The young woman, who says she is 23 years old, appears to be mentally unbalanced, and told a pitiful story of alleged cruelty on the part of her husband. She declares that he threatened to kill her three weeks ago and ran her away from home.

"If I couldn't have my oldest child, I didn't think it was right to keep my baby," she continued, after telling her husband had kept the older girl. He was kind to her, she said, until three years ago, when he began to treat her cruelly. "They are all afraid of him, she added; "no matter what he does, he gets by with it." He was a horse trader, the woman declared, and had been in many lawsuits, in which he always won.

COOPER WILL ATTEND INAUGURAL CEREMONY

Lieutenant Governor Not Yet In Eclipse, Although He Has Done Little Presiding. Tom Bost in Greensboro News.

Jan. 9.—Lieutenant Governor W. B. Cooper's absence and for the rise today to the story that the retiring official will not attend the inauguration here next week, but senators declare that he will come back to participate in the ceremonial. The lieutenant governor has deferred entirely to incoming Lieutenant Governor Elmer Long in the appointment of committees and Mr. Long has had his way from the start. Four years ago full reference was made to outgoing Lieutenant Governor Max Gardner, who named some of the important committees as a handover from the former administration. But Mr. Cooper's absence does not mean his submergence. He will return and be among the officials who participate. The lieutenant governor has done little presiding at this session and for that matter, he has given the gavel to presidents pro-tempore on many a former occasion. He will handle the Senate but little from this time forward. But he is not yet in eclipse.

Dr. Peacock Surgeon in Veteran Hospital

Thomastown, Jan. 9.—Dr. J. W. Peacock, now of Cajon, Calif., but adjudged a paranoiac by the courts of Davidson county, in Lexington, when tried for the slaying in Thomastown of Chief of Police J. E. Taylor, and escaped from confinement in the criminal insane department of the penitentiary at Raleigh a year later, has accepted the position of chief surgeon in a government veterans hospital in California, according to reports reaching here from members of the Peacock family now in California.

HARRY DAUGHERTY IS GUEST AT WHITE HOUSE

Attends Reception at Invitation of President Coolidge. Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—Harry M. Daugherty was a guest at the White House tonight for the first time since he left the cabinet last March. At the invitation of President Coolidge, the former attorney general was one of about 2,000 persons who attended the first of four state receptions given by the President and Mrs. Coolidge in honor of the diplomatic corps.

Mr. Daugherty had been in Philadelphia on a business trip before coming to Washington.

Post and Flag's Cotton Letter.

New York, Jan. 9.—It has been another comparatively idle day and the cotton market still refuses to move much in either direction. Foreign advices were favorable and this market made a fair response but ran into somewhat larger offerings in the shape of realizing and hedging, with selling for short account on the reactionary theory so that, although the tone was generally steady, prices worked off again. Weekly figures were construed as rather bullish, showing for the first time this season a decrease in the visible supply, while takings and exports compare very favorably with last year and suggest an impending pressure from the actual supply. While perhaps not so broad and urgent as heretofore, the demand for spots is reported surprisingly good, with an unimpaired basis. Eastern mills are believed to have any stocks of raw material worth talking about and unless interfered with by strikes will continue in the markets steadily for considerable quantities around present prices. Accumulations of goods are reported well cleaned up and mills are now able to take a more independent attitude as to what business they will accept and are generally insisting on prices that will leave them at least a moderate margin of profit and apparently booking considerable business on such a basis. It still looks as if prices could be beaten down if anyone cared to try that experiment but the undertaking looks in defiance of the economic facts and involves the risk of having to bid prices up higher than they started in order to get the cotton back. No important advance seems probable in the near future, unless it results from efforts to reverse the technical position and the trade cannot follow prices up very far as yet but on decline there is a huge ability to absorb offerings.

POST AND FLAG.

"Them Days Gone Forever." N. C. Christian Advocate.

With Duke University destined to become eventually the peer of Yale, Columbia, Chicago or Leland Stanford; with 32 per cent. of a $40,000,000 endowment to assist hospitals of North and South Carolina in caring for the sick; with 10 per cent. of the same endowment to assist white and black orphan children in the two Carolinas to get a start in life; with the country churches and the superannuated Methodist preachers of North Carolina amply provided for, the future is full of promise. North Carolina, which has been one of the least among all the commonwealths of these United States, both in the eye of the nation and of the Southern Methodist Church, will eventually come to occupy a place on the national map and in the public eye. One-tenth of all the Southern Methodists on the planet dwell in North Carolina, yet from the days of Francis Asbury down to this good hour no native born North Carolinian has ever been chosen one of the chief pastors, with the single exception of O. P. Fitzgerald, who left his native state to minister to the gold diggers of California and later came to live in Tennessee. Hitherto, many Methodists, to say nothing of Americans who are not Wesleyans, have not so much as heard that there be a North Carolina. "But them days is gone forever," thanks to J. B. DuBois, a son of the Old North State, and a great sterling citizenship that is now setting the pace for the nation in business, public education, morals and religion.
