HAYWARD'S EX-AID DENIES MEANS GOT IMMUNITY PLEDGE

McCoey Testifies for Defense in Contention of Witnesses for U. S. Conspiracy Case. New York World, 23rd.

The defense of Gaston B. Means and Thomas B. Felder, on trial in Federal District Court for conspiracy to bribe Government officials, continued yesterday along the lines of flat contradiction of virtually all incriminating evidence previously offered by the prosecution.

So diametrically was the testimony for the defense opposed to that for the Government that Hiram C. Todd, Special Assistant Attorney General, devoted his cross-examinations almost entirely to assaults on its credibility.

The sitting opened with Means under cross-examination by Mr. Todd, which, although lasting more than two hours, failed to shake the defendant's insistence that he knew nothing of the alleged plot, received none of the $95,000 the Government claims was raised as a "slush fund" and had no dealings with Felder during the period of the alleged conspiracy.

Peter J. McCoey, formerly an Assistant United States Attorney, called by the defense, testified he was in charge of the prosecution of the Crager System-Glass Casket Corporation, mail-fraud defendants, said to have contributed to the $95,000 fund.

Called Fee by Defense. According to Mr. Todd this money was obtained by Means, Felder and Elmer W. Jarnecke, formerly Means' Secretary and now the government's principal witness after pleading guilty to the present conspiracy charge—under pretense it would prevent indictment of the contributors.

The defense contends it was the regular fee paid to Felder and his law firm for purely legal services. Mr. McCoey and former Attorney General Daugherty, United States Attorney Hayward and the latter's assistant, John Holley Clark, Jr., are the officials the indictment charges were to have been "fixed," according to the promises of the alleged conspirators.

He denied any promises of immunity or light sentences had been given by his office to any of the glass casket defendants, despite previous testimony to the effect by government witnesses. He was not permitted to answer whether he had ever been approached with a bribe by Felder or Means.

Harold Spielberg, the next witness, was a partner in the Felder firm in 1922, when the conspiracy is alleged to have been formed.

Denies "Fixing" Talk. His testimony, like Means', differed directly at many important points with that of witnesses for the prosecution. He said he was in Felder's office when the money was paid, denied Means was there or that the money was given to him, as sworn to earlier in the trial, and denied there was any talk of "fixing" or "influence" such as also was testified previously.

Spielberg testified $24,000 of the $48,800 in cash paid on that occasion was given immediately to Joseph O. Kostner, Chicago lawyer and alderman, who was representing the Glass Casket defendants in that city. The balance, he swore, was placed to the Felder firm's account in the Harriman National bank, from which a few days later each of the four members of the firm drew $5,000.

Mr. Todd's attack on Spielberg consisted of much reading from his testimony before the Grand Jury last spring, which the prosecutor endeavored to show, does not jibe with his statement yesterday. Judge Lindley ruled out a great deal of this line of questioning, but where it was allowed the witness had recourse to frequent "I don't remember."

FRIENDS OF GASTON B. MEANS HERE HOPEFUL

Declare Evidence Produced So Far at Trial Is Not Likely to Result in Conviction. Friends here of Gaston B. Means, on trial now in New York on charges of trying to defraud the government, are hopeful. They declare evidence so far produced in the trial are not likely to result in his conviction.

Means was on the stand two days during the week and reports from New York declare he was his usual smiling self on the witness stand. He was cross-examined by Hiram Todd, the district attorney who is representing the government in the case, but the attorney was unable to shake Means' story in any way.

Friends here of Means point out that the testimony of Elmer Jarnecke, his former secretary, is the only damaging stuff brought out, and they add that since Jarnecke admitted on the stand that he lied at another trial and is now in the government employ, his testimony will not have much weight with the jury hearing the case.

No one else has even declared that Means took the money for illegal purposes, the record of the trial shows, it being contended by Means and Thomas B. Felder, who is being tried jointly with him, that the money received was for legal services of Felder, who is a New York attorney.

The State rested its case several days ago and the defense has produced some strong evidence tending to show that Means and Felder accepted no bribe money. And the defense also has introduced several government agents who the State alleges Means and Felder were to bribe, and these agents declared the defendants said nothing to them about bribes.
