IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

HIGH SCHOOL AND GRAMMAR SCHOOL PAPERS

Gold and Black and Pen-o-Grains Have Just Been Issued.

Two of the local school publications are at hand, one of the press, and the other just off the mimeograph. Gold and Black is the publication from the press, with the high school students as the originators. Pen-o-Grains is the other, put out by the students of the grammar schools of the city.

Gold and Black is getting better. The news is much more readable, it is arranged more attractively, and the time-worn jokes with new names put to them are omitted, in large part. All of which makes it more interesting than the issues of previous years.

The magazine section especially deserves comment. A story by Julia Rowan has human interest and is well written. The conversation is especially good for a high school pupil. The continuation of a football story by John McInnis and the "Brief Sketches from Real Life" are entertaining. The editorials are also excellent with the one titled "What's the Matter?" holding the center of the stage for presenting a real problem. "What's the Matter?" is timely, bringing up again the old affliction of the Concord high school pupils, namely, the lackadaisical spirit which they present on all occasions to everything worth while.

The news section is found to be a trifle stale and the same criticism could be made of the sports. The greatest fault to be found, if it is a fault, is the lack of originality. On the whole, however, Gold and Black, should rank well among the high school papers of the state.

Pen-o-Grains, in its second issue, is nothing if not original. It has short bits from a variety of subjects which are somewhat startling. Relative to thrift are briefs on "A Thrifty Master," "What a Penny Can Do," and "A Dime." There is a dip into realms afar in the "Imaginary Tour to Great Britain" by Elizabeth Ross, which is, incidentally, the longest and most pretentious article in the paper.

Embryo poets make their initial, if not too successful, bow while on an opposite page formal essays give lives of Robert E. Lee and Thomas Jackson. Most entertaining are the brief informal essays of an intimate nature on pages six and seven. Just to show that they are modern in every respect, a cross-word puzzle adorns the last page with the correct numbers of "abars" and "groups of islands in the Pacific Ocean" et cetera.

The following brief, headed "If I Could Have My Wish," is perhaps typical of the most of us. Almost any of us could feel successful. "I would wish to go out west if I had my wish. I would hunt gold. If I found any gold I would stake the claim. I would feel successful."

The Non-Regular Club.

The Non-Regular Club held its first meeting last evening over Housel Garage at 8:15 o'clock. Ben Widenhouse acted as temporary chairman. Officers were then elected for the club. The successful campaigning of Ben Widenhouse elected Joe Johnston for president by a vote of a majority over Ritchie. Others elected were: Vice-president, Jack Ritchie; Judge, Jim Flower; secretary, Homer Ketchie; treasurer, Bill Seelher; prosecuting attorney, Roy Funderburg.

The Non-Regular Club means not to have any regular girls. Any member having dates with the same girl twice in the same week will be tried and if found guilty will be fined not less than 50 cents and not over $5.00. The first man on trial was Ben Widenhouse. He was found guilty, but owing to the fact that it was his first offense he was not fined. We now have forty-five members and by our next meeting night we will have one hundred strong.

Musical Event in Concord.

Right next door to Charlotte, but a short spin out Main Street, there is to be staged tonight one of the most classical of musical events known to this section in years. A concert by Frieda Hempel is an event worth going miles to hear, and while the weather prospects are far from what might be desired, the closed car and the fine highway bring the High School Auditorium in the neighbor city of Concord quite close to the homes of Charlotte. Frieda Hempel is associated in the minds of the musical world as successor to Jenny Lind, and in emphasis of this association she is to appear, in the latter part of evening's entertainment, in the costumes of the Jenny Lind period. The anticipation is that the Charlotte people will take a liberal share with Concord in enjoyment of the concert.

High School Basketball Team Off For a Two Days' Trip.

Coach Fanning and his high basketball team left this morning for a two days' trip, during which time, they will play Durham and Mount Airy. The Durham game is to be played Friday night, and the Mt. Airy game Saturday night.

Since the disastrous defeat at the hands of Spencer last Saturday, the lighs have been practicing strenuously and have been getting straightened out for the approaching hard schedule. Both Durham and Mt. Airy have strong teams and the locals are looking for stiff opposition at both places.

The team made the trip by automobile. Players going were Easley, Jarrett, Hoover, Lantz, Harris, Lineberger, Verner and Calloway.

A new type of aircraft-propeller, the invention of an English woman, is said to have proved highly successful in official tests.

DAVIDSON COLLEGE BRINGS STRONG QUINT TO CONCORD

Anderson Is Star of Local Y's Opponents Saturday Night—Girls' Game Played at 7:30.

Whatever the outcome of the game Saturday night between Davidson and the Concord Y, the local fans will have a chance to view some of the best basketball they have ever seen. Davidson has a good team.

These boys have been going well all year and now after almost a two weeks' rest during which time they have been having exams they should go like the proverbial house on fire. In the two weeks at home, Coach Younger has been ironing out some of the rough spots and has been getting his boys in such shape that they will be hard for any team to beat.

Chief among Coach Younger's charges when it comes to making trouble for opponents is Anderson, who holds down a center position. Although just a sophomore and playing for his first year on the team, Anderson has already shown himself to be an outstanding player, the type of man who makes all-state. He is fast and can shoot from almost any position and is a very fine floor man, all of which go to make him valuable to his team.

Then there is Rogers who has been mentioned for an all-state position by a number of writers in this state. Rogers never shines. He simply sticks back in the enemies' territory and waits for developments. Forwards find him almost impossible to get around. Other players on the Davidson squad who bear watching are McConnell, who ran wild in the second Trinity fray, Staley, an unusually fast forward and "Red" Laird who plays a good forward game.

Indications are that the Concord team will give Davidson a good game. Two years ago, they almost beat the collegians and are trying to get in shape this week so that they may turn tables on the Davidsonians. With the exception of Bell, the lengthy center, the entire team is in good shape. Bell has been ill during the week, being confined to his home on account of an attack of the grippe and it is not known whether or not he will be able to play Saturday. If he is not able to start the game, the lineup will be shifted and Wallace Moore and Tom Coltrane will hold down the guard positions, Wolf, center and Morrison and Dick forwards.

A preliminary attraction will be held at 7:30 at which time the girls of Concord will take on the high school team from Salisbury. Mrs. Fanning has a good sextette and her team should give the Salisbury aggregation just about all they can handle.

S. &amp; W. CAFETERIA PLANS EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS

Sherrill and Webster to Spend Good Sum on Improving Eating Place at Charlotte.

The S. & W. cafeteria at 20-24 West Trade street, the planning extensive improvements which will begin next month. When completed the capacity will be approximately doubled. Plans are to tear down the partition between the cafeteria proper and the coffee shop, throwing the space of the two into one commodious room.

Extensive improvements are also to be made in the general appointment seeking to provide an up-to-date dining room in every detail.

The kitchen will be enlarged and further departmentized and doubled service plan will be introduced. Music will also be provided during meals.

The S. & W. cafeteria here is one of a chain of four, the first to be established about four and one-half years ago by Frank O. Sherrill and Fred W. Webster, both of Charlotte. With the successful operation of the cafeteria here another was opened in Winston-Salem, and later Asheville and Greenville, N. C., were added to the chain.

Both of these enterprising young men are well known here, they having been connected with a department store in Charlotte several years before beginning business on their own initiative.

Don't look for trouble unless you know what to do with it when you find it.
