Wife Fools Husband—Breaks Into Own Home Dressed as Man.

To be mistaken for a burglar in your own home!

Anna Q. Nilsson, famed motion picture actress, has had that experience and she blames it all onto a pair of trousers—the trousers she wore during the production of "Ponjola," a pictorialization of Cynthia Stockley's famous story, in which she plays the role of a young woman who masquerades as a man.

Here is how it all happened:

Anna was returned to her Hollywood home late, following the shooting of night scenes from the Sam E. Rock-First National picture, which is being shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Star Theatre.

Mr. "Anna Q." had retired early and was hitting the hay soundly when the fair one arrived at the domicile.

Anna rang the bell incessantly; then she pointed on the door. "But hubby slept on."

There was only one thing to do—that was to break in, and Anna did just that. She broke a pane of glass in a rear window, in true burglar fashion, put her hand through the broken window, turned the catch, opened the window and began to climb in.

Mr. "Anna Q." had awakened by now. With visions of burglars he crept down the back stairway, revolved in his hand. He saw a trouser-covered leg come through the window.

He waited until the form climbed through the window, took a dive for the legs of the intruder and together the two fell in a heap on the floor.

Naturally Anna thought that she was in the grasp of a bold, bad burglar, for often screen bad men lay in wait for their victims just that way—and she fought back.

It was a great tussle while it lasted. But why continue—history will never know what Anna Q. said to Mr. "Anna Q." or what "Mr. Anna Q." said to Anna Q., but one can guess the substance of it, perhaps.

His Limit.

The preacher was a dear old man, but his imagination ran away with his sense of proportion.

One day he was addressing some children and, in the course of his talk, was telling a story about a remarkable fox.

"And, children," he said impressively, "his tail was a hundred yards long."

"Um, um, um!" grunted an old man who had wandered in and taken a seat in the front row.

"Well," amended the preacher as he heard the grunts, "it was fifty yards long, let us say."

"Um, um, um!" grunted an old man placed the second time.

"It was at least twenty yards long," said the other, getting angry.

"Um, um, um!" for the third time.

"Well, it was ten yards long," exclaimed the preacher, "and," he added with a look at the skeptic, "I won't take another inch off."

The first automobile race ever held in America took place on Long Island, April 14, 1900, and was won by T. S. Davis, Jr., driving a steam motor.

Overseers Stage First Annual Banquet at Y Tuesday Night.

Fifty mill superintendents and Overseers were present Tuesday night at the "First Annual Overseers Banquet" held at the Y. M. C. A. in the encouragement of a fraternal spirit among this group of workers.

The program was full and was greatly enjoyed by those present. Of especial interest was the mock trial of one of the diners who was accused of having a bottle of whiskey in his overcoat.

All those present were given a membership card to the Y. M. C. A. for the coming year. Following this, an attendance prize was drawn, C. E. Ritchie winning.

The very delicious dinner was served by the ladies of the Parent-Teachers Association.

The program was as follows:

- Invocation—Rev. M. L. Kester.
- Dinner.
- Welcome—C. F. Ritchie.
- Prayer for prize.
- Presentation of prize by F. L. Shepherd.
- Story—Catherine Widenhouse.
- Present Membership—Secretary Blanks Music—John Hugh Williams and Millicent Ward.
- Trial of Charley Smart.
- Joe Pell, defense attorney; F. L. Shepherd, prosecuting attorney.
- Jury.
- Dismissal by H. L. Johnson.

Mt. Pleasant Road Not Opened—Only Used by Constructors and Local Traffic.

Rumors which have been current in and about Concord during the past few days to the effect that the Mt. Pleasant road had been opened for traffic are altogether false, according to F. S. Kluttz, engineer in charge of the construction of the highway.

Practically all the concrete base has been laid and has hardened sufficiently to permit the contractors to haul necessary supplies over it preparatory to putting down the "black top." The only traffic which has been permitted is local traffic which had no outlet other than by way of the hard surface.

Mr. Kluttz stated that the work of putting down the asphalt top would begin Monday and that the part of the Gold Hill road would be opened for public use within a week or two.

How the rumor started that the road had been opened to Mt. Pleasant is not known but it is thought that persons seeing the contractors' wagons using the road took it for granted that the road was being used and started the story. It will be several months before the entire highway to Mt. Pleasant is finished.

Salisbury High Quint Defeats China Grove.

Salisbury, Feb. 17.—Salisbury high school eliminated China Grove Farm Life School for the state championship race here tonight in a rather poor exhibition of basketball by the score of 22 to 9.

The game was slow and marred by inaccurate shooting by both teams.

Salisbury failed to score in the first quarter, while the best China Grove could do was to garner one foul. China Grove made only one field goal during the game and scored only three points in the second half, all of these being on fouls in the fourth period.

Salisbury scored heavily in the second and third quarters, 9 and 13 points being the totals respectively. The Salisbury second team played the entire fourth quarter with no scoring being done.

Gwynn led in the scoring for Salisbury, with an even dozen points, while Belk scored five foul shots as China Grove's leading man.

Score by periods:

Salisbury	0	9	13	0-22
China Grove	1	5	0	3-9

Local Boy Makes Good in Navy.

The many friends of Joseph Ralph Silks, U. S. N., will be pleased to learn of his splendid success in the U. S. Navy, being selected for Machinist Mates School, from a large number of recruits.

Joseph Ralph Silks, son of Mrs. Daisy Silks Yaitz, Concord, N. C., was born on the 21st of July, 1906, at Gaffney, S. C. He received his education at Norcott School, Concord, N. C., completed the eighth grade grammar school, and desiring to further his education he decided to enlist in the Navy where he could realize his ambition and take advantage of the many opportunities that await a young man who enlists in the navy, and on the 2nd of December, 1924, at Charlotte, he enlisted for a period of four years. During his training at Hampton Roads, Va., he was very attentive to his drills and duties, and has already passed the required entrance examination and transferred to Machinist Mates School. It can well be hoped that his future naval career will be marked by such evidence of character and worth.

The primary mission of the Navy's trade schools, states Chief Travis Myers, navy recruiting officer at Charlotte, is to provide during time of peace trained personnel to fill the vacancies occurring on board ships of the fleet through trained men leaving the service. These latter men return to civil life, where because of their efficient training they are in great demand. Their naval training is an asset to themselves, their families and their communities. They raise the mental, moral and physical standards, thereby yielding bountiful return for every dollar spent for that training.

John J. Williams Stock Company.

Coming to Concord, Beginning Monday, February 23rd. A show of ladies and gentlemen, numbering 25 people. Every one an artist in their line. Bringing with them dainty Mabel Mason, the South's favorite little leading lady. This little lady comes highly recommended by public and press. She will be seen in the part of "Dora Deans" Monday night.

Mr. Williams has spared no time or expense in getting together a show that is clean, moral and refined. Bring the wife, the daughter, the sweetheart. You will see or hear nothing that will offend. Don't wonder how we are going to put on a show in the building. The place is open for inspection. Come in and see for yourself. In the cast you will find John J. Williams, the south's funniest comedian, Miss Fannie Mason, of the Mason Stock Co., Miss Rattie Williams, Freddie Lytell, Harry Harvey, Billie McQuig, Wesley Browning and others.

A jazz band that will make you wonder. Ten of those boys and every one a hot.

We are the under the Loyal Order of Moose. They are all worthy. Come out and give them a lift. Buy a season ticket and save money. Any Moose will sell you one. Ask them.

Post and Flag's Cotton Letter.

New York, Feb. 17.—The chief feature of the cotton market continues to be its steadiness and the ease with which offerings are absorbed at insignificant concessions in price. There is still, however, a superstitious feeling that 25 cents is the present limit for advances.

As that point draws near realizing starts and support slackens, although demand revives against minor dips that follow.

Fundamentally the market, from a legitimate standpoint, appears thoroughly sound. The demand for actual is reported insistent and, although checked at present at a style of cotton that seems practically exhausted, must eventually be directed to the styles that are obtainable, even if less satisfactory, if mills expect to continue operation.

Exports remain large in total and the difficulty of meeting requirements from both foreign and domestic sources appears increasing daily. Continued drought in the southwest and rain in the east is the reverse of what is desired and there appears some anxiety as to the possible extent of losses by weevil during the summer. It is, however, too early to take these matters very seriously.

pessimistic early new crop advice, combined with the growing scarcity of good spinnable cotton in the old crop, seems more likely to stimulate demand rather than sales.
