STUART HENRY WINS CURRENT EVENT CONTEST Gives An Account of the Symposium "Forty Years on the Same Newspaper"

Stuart Henry, who won the weekly current event contest at the Y on Saturday night, gave as his event an account of the symposium published Saturday afternoon in The Tribune entitled "Forty Years on the Same Newspaper."

The Saturday afternoon symposium gave the comments of the state press on the announcement to the effect that J. B. Sherrill, editor of The Concord Tribune and The Concord Times, had been forty years as editor of The Times.

Young Henry in his account picked out the main points from the Saturday afternoon paper, including in his story the high lights from the various state editors' opinions.

The Saturday night contest has been held weekly for several months at the Y. The boy or girl who tells the best current event is awarded a ticket to a movie for the next week. A great deal of interest is taken in the contest and a large number of local boys and girls enter the contest.

INROADS MADE ON EVIL DOERS IN POPLAR TENT Prohibition Agent Widenhouse Captures Thirty-five Gallons of Liquor Hidden in Terrace.

Reports from the Poplar Tent community indicate that Prohibition Agent D. F. Widenhouse continues to make successful inroads on the evil-doers. Saturday he made a raid on a suspected bootlegger and succeeded in capturing 35 gallons of corn whiskey.

Local officers refused to disclose the name of the person on whose farm the whiskey was discovered but it was learned that on this same farm in the early part of February, 25 gallons of the same stuff was seized.

It seems that the neighbors had made complaints to the prohibition officers about the sale of whiskey being conducted and that Mr. Widenhouse, armed with a search warrant, left Saturday morning to see if the reports were true. At first nothing could be found. However, wagon tracks were discovered leading to a cotton field and these were followed. Recent rains had washed away a terrace in the field and it was noted where the terrace had been replaced. This was opened and buried under the earth were seven five-gallon kegs filled with whiskey.

Hardening Arteries.

Royal S. Copeland, M.D., in Kansas City Post.

Age has its dangers. One of these is the potential trouble due to hardness and brittleness of the blood vessels.

"Hardening of the arteries," has become one of the popular terrors. Its importance is grossly overstated. I believe, but yet it must be admitted there is some foundation for the common fear of its results.

As we grow older our bones and tissues lose their flexibility and elasticity. Brittleness is found where pliability used to be. Among the parts affected are the walls of the blood vessels. Under the finger the arteries feel like whipcords.

The reason why persons past 50 or 60 should not indulge in violent exercise is because of this change in the blood vessels. Undue pressure may cause one of the brittle walls to crack.

Worse than all other accidents of this nature is a break in one of the blood vessels of the brain. This permits the blood to ooze into the brain substance.

How serious this will prove depends on the part of the brain involved and the pressure produced. All cases of brain hemorrhages are important because of the possibility of paralysis and loss of brain function.

The best means of protection against hardening of the arteries lies in the simple life. Moderate eating, moderate drinking and moderating in all things are the secrets of safety.

URGES HEARERS TO THINK AND THEN TO BELIEVE

Rev. T. F. Higgins Preaches Effectively at Forest Hill Methodist Church Sunday.

Taking as his text "And all that believed were together," Acts 2:44, Rev. T. F. Higgins, pastor of Forest Hill Methodist Church, preached effectively to a large congregation yesterday morning at the 11 o'clock service. Mr. Higgins urged his hearers to think and believe and to put their beliefs into practice.

Mr. Higgins is one of the new Concord pastors, having been sent here last November. He has become very popular in the city since his arrival and is doing a very fine work at Forest Hill. The text of his sermon is as follows:

"We are often pointed to the Day of Pentecost as being the greatest day in the history of the Christian Church. Truly it was a great day. The greatness is many times lost sight of, however, because of the vague interpretation that is placed upon the teaching. Something happened on this day. People were moved out of the settled formalistic form of life into new actions. Some people call it the work of the Holy Ghost as it manifest itself in the lives of the people. This, no doubt, is true. There were, however, certain things which prepared the people for the experience through which they went.

"Peter the disciple who was the spokesman of the hour, paved the way. It was due to the change of theological viewpoint in Peter that caused him to boldly go before the crowd who had called out 'crucify Him, crucify Him,' and there preach to them a Gospel of love. Peter the man who had been following the Master for most three years, had not learned the real meaning of Christ and His mission in the world. Through this time he had been thinking along the line of Jewish tradition and Jewish theology. He had been called blessed by his Master but he had not put full meaning into the name which the Master gave him.

"His Master had been crucified and the task of making the church function rested upon the disciples and as he faced the task he had to think through it and get the heart of the work which was to be done. His thinking soberly upon what was fundamentally and real in the gospel gave him a new theology, and he was a new man and preached a new message.

"His message was that God through love had made his best revelation through Jesus. This mode of God's revelation and activity you have absolutely rejected. Now this same God in the activity of the Spirit is ready to help you in the right, therefore you had better save yourselves and see this God as one who loves and as one who is doing His best for you in all the conditions of life.

"Thus three things were carried out which caused the day to be a great day for Christianity. These three things will cause Christianity to have still greater days.

"1. They began to think. This was a bold act on the part of Peter to come before this mob who had just put an end to the work of Jesus and there boldly declare that Jesus was the mode of God's activity for them and that they had absolutely rejected it.

"This caused the people to begin to think seriously upon the real significance of Jesus. The more they thought about His interest in humanity the more of the love of God they shared. They shall we say that they had no right to think about what God has done through Jesus? We are very apt to throw up our hands and say that no one has a right to ask questions about Jesus, and that the first fundamental thing to do is to accept Him. No! repeatedly no! the first fundamental thing to do is not to accept Him. I rejoice when I see some person who is willing to think and ask questions about Jesus to see if I had something worth while. The thing needed is that which we are doing very little of and that is thinking, in order that our deeds may be better.

"We have certain gifts from God, and the mind and reasoning power is the one gift which must be used or it ceases to function. When the mind ceases to function there is no will, for the mind is the force that puts will into action. To our regret there are certain forces working over our country trying to stop the work of education and man's efforts to understand life. What we need is more serious and sober thinking, thinking and that so guided that it will always bring man face to face with life and light.

"There has never happened in the lifetime or knowledge of any of us where the Holy Ghost has picked up a lunatic and made a first class Christian man or woman of that person. Why, because he could not think.

"2. They began to believe. In our day there are two extremes to which we may turn. We may go out with the attitude that it does not matter what you believe just so you live right. Here we see the trouble comes back to careless thinking. When a person thinks little, he believes less. I had rather see people take a half truth think it over and believe it and then go out and put it into action, than to see people take a truth sit down with it, not think about it, not believe it and never put it into practice.

"Belief is always the outgrowth of what you have been thinking. Take the person who thinks little about moral principles, he believes less and practices none.

"Peter caused his hearers to think about God in love, doing what He did in Jesus for their good and they began to believe in Jesus. Talk to me about believing in a God of love, no rather lead me to the love Jesus had for humanity and there I see what love God has. Let me hear Him say 'Go thy way and sin no more,' then I understand His love. Let me hear Him say 'He that is without sin let him cast the first stone,' then I understand His love. Thinking about Him clearly and soberly causes one to believe in Him more. And when I say believe in Him I do not mean belief about Him. There is a difference in belief and belief about.

"When I came home from divinity school, a lawyer came to me and asked me if I came back believing in the Bible. I replied, I surely do believe the Bible more than ever. He then asked if I believed it from He to He, punctuation and all. I said 'no, for it has gone through numerous translations and revisions and at the same time it is not a book to be used as you use a law book.

Father it must be used for spiritual guidance in nobler living. This same man told me that I was going to the devil. A few weeks before this he had stood up a note which was to have forced a man to pay to his wife and five children a yearly support and instead of fixing it so that he would have to pay the amount he arranged the note so that the fellow could get out without paying anything. Money bought him off, and now the wife and children are having to make their own way in the world the best way they possibly can. Did he believe the fundamental teachings of the Bible? If so he failed to put it into deeds.

"Therefore we come to see that thinking gives a basis for belief and that belief that is actuated by clear-thinking causes man to go into life doing such deeds as will build the kingdom of God and not the kingdom of deception and sin. The more we honestly think the more we have to believe and the more we conscientiously believe the greater will be the deeds. By thinking clearly and believing positively this church can be together and do the task that is upon us to do in building the kingdom of God."

Several special numbers were rendered by the choir. A very beautiful anthem was sung, "Hallelujahs" and this was followed later by a men's quartet which sang "His Forever."

MR. SOUTHWARD LECTURES TO SCHOOL CHILDREN On the Importance of Avoiding Eye Strain and Glare.

Today the pupils of the several schools of Concord were drilled in the importance of avoiding eye strain and glare by Chas. F. Southard, first secretary of the Eye-Sight Conservation Council of America. The fact that of 42,000,000 of workers in gainful pursuits in the United States 25,000,000 are handicapped by some form of defective vision and of 25,000,000 of school children forty per cent. are troubled in the same way, led to the organization of this body, made up largely of engineers, who for economic reasons see the necessity of co-operating with school nurses in an attempt to forestall the ravages of eye strain, its resultant inefficiency in the nation. There is no cost to a community for this service, no advertising and no propaganda.

Mr. Southard, who is a business man, not a doctor nor an eye specialist, presented the subject from the viewpoint of the necessity of normal sight in order to get an education, as at least forty per cent. of knowledge is gotten through the eyes, and of having normal eyesight to see when the child goes to work.

The subject was presented with the aid of lantern slides.

On Saturday evening Mr. Southard showed a moving picture to a packed audience in the Y. M. C. A. showing the functioning of the eyes and how near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism interfere with normal sight. With the slide he showed how wrong lighting of factories, stores, business buildings, schools and homes lead to eye strain and wear out the nervous system by glare.

He urged parents and business men to co-operate with the school authorities in drilling children into the habit of caring for eyesight.

Today's lectures were under the direction of A. S. Webb, superintendent of schools.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT'S FATHER DEAD AT LIBERTY

Funeral for C. F. Robertson to Be Held at Liberty This Afternoon.

Word was received in Concord Sunday to the effect that the father of J. B. Robertson, superintendent of Cabarrus county schools, had died at the home of a daughter at Liberty, N. C.

Mr. Robertson's father, C. F. Robertson, was eighty years of age. He had a stroke of paralysis over ten years ago and never fully recovered. He had, however, been much better recently and for this reason news was received in Concord as a shock. J. B. Robertson was called from Concord to the bedside only Friday.

Since the stroke of paralysis, Mr. Robertson had lived with his daughter at Liberty. The funeral services are to be conducted this afternoon at Liberty and burial is to be made near that place.

Death of Mrs. H. C. Houston.

Mrs. H. C. Houston died at her home near Harrisburg, March 9th. She was seriously ill for thirteen days. She was the youngest daughter of Allen Heglar, and was born in 1859. On February 1, 1883 she was married. Mrs. Houston has two brothers, two sisters, all dead except one brother, Martin Heglar, of Poplar Tent, he being the eldest of the children. Mrs. Houston was a devoted mother and will be greatly missed. She was the mother of eight children, all of whom survive but one. She is survived by her husband, and the following children: H. A. Houston, Mrs. L. B. Anten, Z. M. Houston, Sam Houston, Manie Houston, Zeake Houston, of Harrisburg, Mrs. H. E. Payne, of Winston-Salem. She is survived also by ten grand-children.

The deceased was a member of the Harrisburg Presbyterian Church. The funeral service was conducted at the church on Wednesday at four o'clock by her pastor, Rev. T. H. Spence, assisted by Rev. P. A. Stroup, of the A. R. F. church, Back Creek.

The Woodman Campaign in Concord.

L. A. Griffin, of Forest Hill Camp No. 404, of Concord, reports great success in the thirty-fifth anniversary campaign now going on over the entire United States in Woodcraft. Concord is a splendid town for the W. O. W., and this camp has some of the most enthusiastic members of any camp in the state.

Elm Camp No. 16, of Concord, is sending in a very fine report, which shows that their membership is increasing and that the interest is growing with each meeting. Another one of our old camps, being number 16 in the state.

At the Theatres.

The Star today and tomorrow is showing Buster Keaton in "Sherlock, Jr.," and Reginald Denby in "The Reckless Age," and a comedy, "Sahara Blues," are being shown at the Pastime today and tomorrow.

An idea of the popularity of billiards in the United States may be had from the statement that half a million billiard tables are in use in public rooms throughout the land.
