COLLEGE TEACHERS ARE FLIRTING LAW VICTIMS

Each of the two men stopped by the watchman says the other looks the Part of the Cakes-Eater.

W. W. Martin, professor of education at North Carolina College, and J. Arthur Dunn, of the department of English, are the first victims of the anti-flirting bill.

It happened so: Night before last they left the residence of Dr. J. I. Foust about 10:30 o'clock for their homes on Tate Street. Passing through the campus, they were approached by a watchman, who wanted to know what their business was, where they were going, and how long it was going to take them to get there. He wasn't satisfied, even after he was informed as to all these things, and the professors almost had visions of a night in the city jail. But they escaped.

Now each man is a little bit afraid to be caught in the company of the other, especially in the vicinity of the campus, for neither has quite decided which one looks like the cake-eater the watchman was on the lookout for.

Tallest People in World.
It is generally believed that people grow taller in the temperate zone than they do anywhere else in the world. The Swedes are often spoken of as the tallest race. But figures tell a different story. As a matter of fact, the tallest people are the natives of Patagonia in southern South America. The average height of a full-grown Patagonian man is five feet 10 and one-third inches, while the average height of a man from England, Scotland, Norway or Sweden is only five feet seven and two-thirds inches. The people from all four of the latter countries average the same height. The Irish are a fraction of an inch shorter, and after them come the Danes and Belgians.

Scientists now believe that climate has very little to do with the height of the inhabitants of a country. Food and fresh air are of vastly more importance. This is supported by the fact that in every country of the world the farmers are taller than those who work in shops and factories. Among the tallest people are the Zulus, who live in semi-tropical Africa, and the Polynesians, many of whom live in the hottest parts of the world. Even the Inuit Indians are much taller than the people of Scandinavia. The Negritos of Luzon and the Eskimos and Laplanders are the shortest people. The average height of a Laplander is only five feet and seven-tenths of an inch. The Lapps live almost on the Arctic circle.

The Western North Carolina, Inc., an organization formed for advertising purposes, having lost the active service of Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, by reason of bad health, has been merged into the Asheville Chamber of Commerce. The latter is one of the best-financed agencies in the State, and it may be depended upon to take up where the Incorporated left off and carry on in active manner.

CO-OPERATIVE TRAINING SCHOOL HOLDING SUCCESSFUL SESSIONS
Methodists and Presbyterians Have Enrolled Over 100 in Classes This Year.
The Co-operative Training School which began at the Central Methodist Church Sunday and which is continuing through the present week, is having a very successful session with an enrolled membership of over 100 and with an unusual degree of interest in the work, according to persons in charge of the school.

Classes are being given in "The Church and Its Work" by Rev. C. S. Kirkpatrick; "Religious Teaching" by Prof. Claud T. Marr; "Intermediate-Senior Organization and Administration" by Miss Burnett Spratt; and "Primary Lesson Materials and Teaching" by Mrs. M. B. Ferguson. The course in "Junior Lesson Materials and Teaching" by Miss Virginia Jenkins is not given owing to the fact that Miss Jenkins was called home on account of the illness and death of a relative.

Another course, "Bible Lesson Material and Teaching" by Miss Willlette Allen, was discontinued because of the fact that Miss Allen was not able to get to Concord.

The school is a co-operative organization, the Methodists and Presbyterians of Cabarrus county joining together in holding it. The purpose is to train leaders for Sunday school work.

Not only is the school larger than it was last year but there will be a great many more credit given to the students and the whole outlook for the school is better than it has ever been before. "We are very pleased with the way the students are taking hold of the work," said one of the leaders today. "There is a very fine spirit and it is evident that much good is being done."

Due to the fact that two of the courses had to be discontinued, several of the other courses had to be "spread out" to accommodate the people who had planned to take these courses.

The credits for work done in the school will be presented to persons who are to receive them next Sunday at the various churches. Following the regular class work on Friday night a social hour will be held to which all the students are invited.

People are attending the meetings of the school from Concord, Mt. Pleasant, Kannapolis, Bethel and Mt. Olive.

SOUTH UNION STIRRED FROM MID-AFTERNOON LETHARGY
Rosa Holtzclaw Creates Scene When She Makes Dash for the Police Station Tuesday.
Storekeepers, filling station attendants and idlers on the lower end of South Union were stirred from their mid-afternoon lethargy Tuesday, and rushed lustily to the street to see what was the matter with Rosa Holtzclaw as she made her way down the street half running, half trotting and all the while emitting a series of most heart-rending cries.

It was easy to see that something was wrong. Rosa made her way on to the police station and went inside. All the storekeepers, filling station attendants and idlers gathered on the outside to wait until they could hear the news. Inside Rosa told her story to the chief and to representatives of the press.

Her name, she said, was Rosa Holtzclaw; her age was 32, but she was big for her age, she added; and it took no questioning to ascertain that she was a member of the colored race—she was a decided brunette negro.

Her story was hard to get. She was breathless what from running and from crying. However, the story finally came out. She had a quarrel in school with a boy whose name she gave as Alen Mendenhall. After school they continued the quarrel and by way of opening hostilities had passed a few rocks but with poor marksmanship, each of the hurriers missing the object of his or her ire. Long distance fighting was then abandoned and a fistfight followed.

At this juncture, three of the teachers happened along and, after giving both of the offending parties a whipping, ordered them to go home immediately. No sooner were the three teachers out of sight till they were out of mind and, according to Rosa, the Mendenhall boy jumped on her with a stick and beat her on the back and arm and head, she said, breaking her arm. During the narrative, she nursed her "broken" arm one moment and the next used it to wipe the tears from her eyes.

Chief Talbirt sent two of his officers to investigate the matter and since both the boy and girls were under 16, nothing could be done. The case was turned over to Welfare Officer Brown. It was learned from her teachers that Rosa's school record was not altogether too savory and that she was probably as much to blame as the boy.

Rosa, after telling her story, was almost completely recovered from her injuries.

ALLEN DECHANT TO SPEAK AT REFORMED CHURCH WEDNESDAY
Former Missionary Will Address Church Members on Work in Foreign Fields.
The pastor of Trinity Reformed Church is pleased to announce to the readers of The Tribune that Miss Allene DeChant, of Hanover, Pa., will speak in the Church Wednesday night at 7:45 o'clock. Miss DeChant spent two years in Sendaia, Japan, as a short term teacher in the schools under the board of foreign missions of the Reformed Church. During these two years Miss DeChant visited the missions of the Church in every province in North Japan, and also observed missions work in Tokyo, Osaka and other large centers of Japan. Following that Miss DeChant spent a part of a year in Hunan Province, China, visiting and teaching in the mission schools conducted by the Reformed Church. She returned to America last winter by way of Burma, India, Egypt, the Holy Land and Europe.

For a number of years Miss DeChant has conducted the "Birthday Club" in the Reformed Church Messenger, writing a spicy article each week.

Miss DeChant is in North Carolina for the annual Classical Meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Reformed Church in North Carolina, which meets in Greensboro March 31st. During this week she is visiting some of the churches. It is with much pleasure that Trinity Church can have her here Wednesday night. The public is most cordially invited to hear her.

THE LURE OF SOUTHERN BEAUTY

Tired, overtaxed pores become weak in functioning, and then we wonder why they become large. Some accept this condition as natural "to her skin," but those of us who really care find a way to refine the pores. Every skin requires an astringent to render it pliant and firm. Keep your skin immaculately clean, free it of black-heads and other excess pore secretions and refine the texture by having "Electric facials" once a week.
