That is about right. Congress has wrestled with this problem for years; all hinds of relief measures were proposed and some of them were adopted, yet the plight of the farmer remains about the same. Politicians got behind the what market just after the Republican nation-al convention and managed to carry the price to new high levels, but that was just a pretense, for the prices have drop-ped now to about the customary level. Secretary Jardine tells the farmers that "the most painful period of readjustment "the most painful period of readjustment is now over and prospects look much brighter for the farmer. There 'is real encouragement in the progress that has been made during the past two or three years. We can look to the future with confidence, but we must recognize that there are many phases of the agricultural situation that still challenge the best thought of the nation."

situation that still challenge the best thought of the nation." The Secretary of Agriculture thinks co-operative marketing and standardiza-tion are necessary to eliminate waste, which he regards as partly responsible for the spread of prices between produc-tor and measures the between producers and consumers. Balanced production is also essential, he pointed out, and he advised farmers in the northwestern States to devote some acreage now used for growing wheat to producing flax. This country will need about 10,000,000 bush-els more of flax seed this yeear than it produced last year, he explained.

Georgia Is Yet Too Hot to Listen to

Secretary Jardine in his statement, which was a very brief one, warned "that confusion results from discussion of too many ways of helping the farmer," and he outlined "a few simple principles that we can all talk about." That's a little different from the talk that has been going out from Washing-many remedies that would bring higher prices for the farmers' products. Frankly Secretary Jardine said "I have has." IS GERMAN INVENTION Device Is New Departure in Generation of Steam. Washington, March 27.—Having given the maritime world the sailless sailing ship, Germany is now threatening to fur-nish the boilerless boiler for use in ip-dustry generally. The German press, according to official reports here, is crediting Bernard Beek-er, of Norha, with the invention of a new type boiler that furnishes steam without boiling the water. The invention is de-scribed as an entirely new departure in heating technique.

scriped as an energy new departure in heating technique. Consisting of a pipe system 1.200th the size of a normal boiler, and requiring a small flue, the device is declared to be capable of generating as much steam as an ordinary boiler 200 times its size.
