DOGS MUST BE VACCINATED.

Believing the city will profit from their action, the aldermen of Concord have ordered a dogs vaccinated against rabies, the vaccination to be made in the near future.

The aldermen are to be commended for their action in this matter. Vaccination is certain to cut down the number of mad dogs in Concord and the fewer such dogs there are, the better for the city. Last year aldermen of this city ordered all dogs vaccinated, the action being opposed at first by some persons who felt they had a right to manage their dogs as they pleased. Before the summer season was over, however, these people for the most part were strongly believers in the law. They had seen a summer pass without a case of rabies being reported in the city and the condition was due wholly to the vaccine.

Persons who have valuable dogs should be the first to applaud the aldermen for the law protects their dog. In most instances, it is the wayward, onery, wandering dog that brings rabies into a community. There is little loss in the death of such a dog, but there is loss in the deaths of dogs that can may bite.

And of course there is the deeper side to the question—protection for human life. The law is needed for this if nothing else. Dogs run at large to some extent in Concord and so long as they do they are a menace as long as they are subject to rabies. Better that all dogs in the city be given the vaccine than one person be bitten by a mad dog and be forced to take the Pasteur treatment.

The vaccine when used last year was very expensive but so many cities have followed the example of Concord in making the vaccination of dogs compulsory that the vaccine is now in great demand. That means competition has become keener and the price lower. Dogs can be vaccinated this year for $1.00, whereas last year the price was $3.00.

THE MOST POPULAR LANGUAGE.

According to reliable statistics the number of persons speaking the English language is increasing steadily. In 1901 the French language was ahead and English was at the bottom of the list including French, German, Russian, Spanish and English. In 1898 English was ahead with 60,000,000 users, and in 1921 it was estimated that the number had grown to 120,000,000. It is now far ahead of any European language. Its formidable rivals are Asiatic, but many cultured Orientals speak English very well.

It is apparent that the English language more and more is becoming a world language. Persons in all parts of the world find it convenient to know a few hundred English words. With these words they can travel and trade in all parts of the world now.

In the matter of mastering various languages Europeans are ahead of Americans. We have striven to make our language the prevailing one for commerce and diplomacy and we have neglected to learn something of other languages that would be of benefit to us.

GOVERNOR "AL" WINS.

Governor Alfred Smith's party is greatly in the minority in the New York Legislature but just the same the popular Chief Executive of the Empire State succeeded in having passed by the Legislature many of the more important bills that he sponsored. Governor Smith started out fighting for reduction in income taxes that would apply to the entire State. He won that fight despite the fact that the Republican majority

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT

New Service Writer.

Washington—Burial in Arlington National Cemetery has, for a generation, been regarded as the crowning honor to a military life. There, under the guns of Fort Meyer, overlooking the beautiful capital city just across the placid Potomac, sleep the heroes, sung, and unsung, of America's battles on land and sea.

"The Shrine of America," Arlington has been called. Great and humble alike, those who have fought with gun and sword for American ideas there share equally the care and reverence of the government they served. General, admiral, private and Unknown Soldier rest side by side in those green-clad hills.

But a rival to Arlington as an historical resting place, where the future will look for the great of America, may have appeared in the National Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul.

Only a small portion of this immense edifice has as yet been completed. It stands on Mt. St. Albans, the highest spot in the District of Columbia. There, in a crypt, under Bethlehem chapel, the body of Woodrow Wilson was placed following his death one year ago.

After the Wilson burial in the National Cathedral, the suggestion was made that here, in this edifice, might be developed the "Westminster Abbey" of America.

Now the body of Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, has been transferred from Arlington to a crypt provided by his widow under the floor of the cathedral.

This begins the development of a new "National Shrine" that seems certain, as the years pass, to lure the feet of an increasing number of patriotic pilgrims visiting in Washington.

did not want to concede anything. They wanted the glory by Governor Smith got it because he sponsored a bill that meant a saving in taxes to all of the people. Other bills affecting the entire State were passed because of the fighting spirit of Governor Smith.

And now Governor Smith's friends are talking about him for Senator in 1926 and President in 1928. They do not believe the Republicans can defeat him for the Senate and they are almost as confident that he will be nominated by the Democrats as their Presidential candidate.

Governor Smith can go to the Senate without doubt but he can hardly land the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. He is a vote getter all right and a smart, capable man, but his religion is against him. Many Democrats are afraid of putting a Catholic at the head of the party even in the face of the fact that his religion has not dominated Governor Smith as Chief Executive of New York.

Duke Railroad Rumors

Lexington Dispatch
Discussion and surmise are keeping alive the rumor that J. R. Duke expects at an early date to extend the Piedmont & Northern electric railway from Gastonia to Durham, and also probably connect the link between Gastonia and Spartanburg, via Shelby. As previously stated, the rumor is interesting whether true or not.

So far as Lexington is concerned, it would appear to stand more than an equal chance of getting the new railroad. It is true that it would have to parallel the Southern to get here, but what mileage has so far been built practically does this. In order to go through the big industrial section of the Piedmont where large freight tonnage exists, the road would have to continue to follow closely the Southern lines.

Lexington already has better railroad facilities than most North Carolina points, but the coming of another road

No decision has been made as to the disposition of the Dewey mausoleum in Arlington; one of the most dignified and impressive sepulchers in the great cemetery. Built on an eminence near the northeast corner of the old Lee estate, it faces almost directly across the river the great Lincoln Memorial, while to the left, across the swelling hills, stands the old Lee homestead, the fighting mast of the battleship Maine and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Much has been said of late about the cost of "overhead." "Overhead" is blamed for the high price of everything we eat, wear or use. Material's don't cost so much, we are told, "but it's the overhead."

A striking example of this "overhead expense" is presented in the cost of putting a new aluminum tip on the steeple of the main building of Georgetown University.

The aluminum tip cost $1.75. But the charge of the steeple-jack who put it in place was $175!

Congress abolished Washington's bathing beach, but gave the capital a first class fishing pond in its place.

For several years a bathing beach, for white bathers, had been maintained on the tidal basin, in Potomac park. Then the colored citizens of the city demanded a beach where they, too, might disport themselves on hot summer days.

A beach across the basin was suggested and approved and work had actually started when loud protests arose. All sorts of reasons were given as to why the new beach should not be permitted and social and civic pressure was brought to bear on the powers that be.

As an easy way out, Congress, instead of approving the new beach, abolished the old. And now the basin is to be stocked with big mouth bass, bream, crappies and other game fish.

Attorney's Conviction of Manslaughter

Reversed.
The scene of the unfortunate occurrence resulting in the conviction of an attorney for manslaughter was in the circuit court room at a hearing, in vacation, of an application for parole of a prisoner whom the attorney represented.

After the attorney's argument on behalf of the client, the deceased made some remarks to the court which so angered the attorney that he made an assault on the deceased, during which the latter was kicked in the head by the client, causing injuries resulting in death.

The attorney was convicted of manslaughter. On appeal the Attorney General adopted appellant's statement and frankly confessed error. The Supreme Court of Missouri, in State v. Stephens, 202 Southwestern Reporter, 706, per curiam, adopted the opinion of Mr. Commissioner Higbee reversing the conviction.

VIOLETS

By Isaac Erwin Avery
The violets again—little wet violets, and there is the clean, sweet breath of spring. One would lift his head and drink deep—taste this sweetness, this grateful freshness that is about. There is a quickened leap of life, and Nature seems to stir with a kind of tenderness. There is a deeper glow on the faces of children—easier happiness on a tiny nestling face. Girlhood comes to outward whiteness again—the cool, crisp sign of spring. And in all is the subtle charm of violets—little, human, tremulous things, gentle as love's whisper, pure as purity. Restful, quaint little flowers, too—simple, appealing. . . Flower to lay on a baby that has died—to give a seemly tribute to womanhood—to press against the face as emblem for a tired heart. . . Such a dear, peaceful flower, all alone in flower land—emblem of the world's simplest and best and waiting to mock a false face or adorn the beauty that comes from the soul.

One of the Penalties of Wealth.

Statesville Daily.
A former wife of J. B. Duke, divorced from him 20 years ago, has brought suit against the millionaire for separation and maintenance, alleging that the divorce was invalid and that she is yet the wife of Duke, who later married again. The woman was given a liberal sum of money when Duke divorced her; one report estimates the amount at a half million. It appears to be an established fact that she has lost all her money in unwise ventures and now complains that she has to work for her living. All of which means that the suit is brought solely in the hope of worrying money out of Duke. It's one of the penalties that wealth must pay.

Walks to Health.

"Some of our veteran Napoleons of business do scrupulously safeguard their strength," says B. C. Forbes writing in the April Hens International Cosmopolitan. "Cyrus H. K. Curtis, for example, never uses the subway during his frequent visits to New York, but thinks nothing of walking from uptown all the way down to the tip of Manhattan. Although he is well past seventy he has oftener than once walked the writer almost off his feet. Moreover, Mr. Curtis takes a moderate amount of physical exercise the first thing every morning. Also, he eats extremely sparingly."

EVANS PROMISES RALEIGH PEOPLE TO EXPOSE VICE

Revelations Indicated for Public Meeting Called for Monday.

Raleigh, April 3.—Promising an exposure of vice conditions in the capital city, Solicitor W. F. Evans of the seventh judicial district, has called a public meeting of "interested law abiding citizens" to be held in the court house here Monday night, and Raleigh folks wonder if he hasn't some revelations to make that may give the state a few surprises.

The solicitor, who has been right much of a crusader against booze, has gathered a mass of information and evidence during his two years in office and if he can tell what he probably knows he can give an audience an earful.

While his determination to tell something has been apparently prompted by the local municipal campaign, now under way, Mr. Evans' meeting will extend beyond the restrictions of purely local interest if he goes far enough; for both the mighty and mediocre in politics, Bi-annual host to the legislatures and entertainers of Tar Heel multitudes on many social and festive occasions, and what involves Raleigh not infrequently involves the state in both the good and the bad. The solicitor proposes to tell about the bad.
