ANOTHER POISONING CASE FOR CHICAGO OFFICERS TO SOLVE

Illness of David Cunningham, a m. Young Mechanic, Leads to Investigations.—In Serious Condition.

SEVERAL RELATIVES DIED SINCE 1919

And in Practically Every Case Death Followed Short Illness—Five Members of Family Died Recently.

(By the Associated Press) Chicago, April 11.—An investigation of the poisoning of David Cunningham, 24 years old, Gary, Ind., machinist, has been started by authorities who have been informed of the death after a short illness of five members of his family in the last six years.

Cunningham, whose condition is serious, is in a hospital here. His organs were filled with arsenic, Dr. Thos. A. Carter, of the hospital staff, reported to the coroner. He was first stricken six weeks ago after eating lunch at work but recovered after two weeks and returned to work. Two days later he became violently ill after eating an evening meal at home, and since has been near death.

The family deaths began in 1919, relatives told the coroner. David Cunningham, the father, suddenly became ill and died in his home, then in Valparaiso, Ind. The next year Isabel, 18, a daughter, died after a two weeks' illness. Harry, a son, died in 1921, after being sick ten days, and Charles, 18, another son, died in 1923. Walter, 13, died after ten days illness in 1923.

The mother and a daughter, May, 17, are the only other surviving members of the family.

Mrs. Cunningham in Technical Custody

Chicago, April 11.—Mrs. David Cunningham, Gary, Indiana, widow, and mother of David Cunningham, Jr., who is in a critical condition, diagnosed as caused by poisoning, today was taken into technical custody by the State's attorney for questioning.

Wants Bodies Exhumed

Chicago, April 11.—Developments today in the investigation of the poisoning of David Cunningham, Jr., of Gary, Ind., caused by arsenic, is strikingly brought out by the fact that the coroner of Lake County, Ind., to exhumed the bodies of Cunningham's father, David Cunningham, Sr., a sister and three brothers, all of whom died under suspicious circumstances within a period of six years.

Coroner Wolf's decision that the exhumations ought to be made came after State's Attorney Crowe had had detectives bring Mrs. Anna Cunningham, widow of David, Sr., to his office for interrogation, and after the coroner had questioned David, Jr., who is under treatment at a hospital here. Dr. Thos. A. Carter had found the young man suffering from poisoning.

FOLLY OF TRESPASSERS.

Was the Cause of 130 Deaths on the Southern Railway in 1924.

Atlanta, Ga., April 11.—The folly of trespassing on railway property, a practice to which the American public still is addicted, is strikingly brought out by figures just made public by the Southern Railway System's Safety Department, showing that 130 persons were killed and 174 injured while trespassing on the tracks and trains of the Southern during 1924.

The casualties among trespassers were divided as follows: While walking on tracks 90 persons were killed and 72 injured; 37 were killed and 97 injured while stealing rides on "hopping" trains; and three were killed and five injured in miscellaneous accidents.

On all the railways of the United States 2,821 trespassers were killed and 3,129 injured during 1924.

"A distressing circumstance is connection with casualties to trespassers on railway property is that such a large proportion of the killed and injured are school children and useful citizens who, despite all warnings, insist on using railway tracks as walkways," says a statement issued by the Southern.

EASTER—THE SEASON OF BEAUTY

DEATH OF MRS. M. L. BROWN

One of Concord's Most Prominent and Best Beloved Women Passed Away.

Mrs. Frances Smith Brown, wife of the late M. L. Brown, and for many years one of the most prominent and most beloved women of Concord, died shortly after noon today at her home on South Union street. The announcement of her death came as a shock to her host of friends, for although it was generally known that she was ill the fact that she was critically ill was not known and her death has cost a pall of sorrow over the city. All of her children except Mrs. M. L. Cannon, who is en route here from New Orleans, were at the bedside when she died.

Mrs. Brown had been confined to her home for several months but her condition was not regarded as critical until this morning. She talked with friends who called Friday and although she seemed weaker at that time no decided change was noted in her condition. However, this morning there was a decided change for the worse and she gradually grew weaker until the end came at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Brown was 69 years of age and had lived in Concord for more than forty years, her family being prominent in the religious, civic and social life of the city for half a century. Mrs. Brown was married to the late M. L. Brown in 1878, all of her married life having been spent here. She was a woman of rare personal charm and was recognized as a leader in social circles for a number of years.

For many years Mrs. Brown was a member of All Saints Episcopal Church and affairs of the Church claimed much of her time when she was physically able to attend to outside duties. She also was a member of the Daughters of the Confederacy and for many years was prominently identified with various women clubs of the city.

Mrs. Brown was the last member of her family, her brothers, Fletcher Smith, of Salisbury, and J. B. Smith, having died several years ago.

Surviving are the following children: E. H. Brown, of Dillon, S. C.; Vardry Brown, of Concord; Mrs. J. W. Cannon, Jr., of Concord; Mrs. E. C. Barnhardt, Jr., of Concord; Mrs. Amos Davis, of Wimsboro, S. C.; Mrs. M. L. Cannon, of Charlotte; Mrs. Burks Withers, of Norfolk, Va.; and S. L. Brown, of Concord.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at All Saints Episcopal Church, conducted by the rector, Rev. C. B. Scovill. Interment will be made in Oakwood cemetery.

Geneva, April 11 (By the Associated Press).—A cry of protest against the U. S. is spreading throughout manufacturing circles in Switzerland because of the custom of establishing special treasury agents here, who under the new American law are authorized to insist upon examination of the books of manufacturers to determine the cost of the articles they produce. The information is sought by the Americans as helps in fixing tariff schedules when goods exported from Switzerland arrive at American ports.

Generally Fair Weather in East Predicted For Easter

Washington, April 10.—Although showers have made Easter shopping a damp, if not downright wet, pursuit east of the Mississippi river, in the last day or so the weather bureau related sufficiently tonight to predict "mostly fair weather Saturday and Sunday."

It made an exception in favor of showers, however, along the south Atlantic coast tomorrow and in the lower lake region, northern New England and northern and central New York tomorrow night or Sunday.

The temperature, which is much less important than moisture in relation to an Easter frock, will be somewhat of this and somewhat of that.

It will be lower tomorrow in the middle of the northern Atlantic states and higher in the Ohio valley, the lower lake region and Tennessee, says the forecast, but Sunday it will decline in the lower lake region and rise in the Atlantic and East Gulf states.

EASTER CELEBRATION AT WINSTON-SALEM

Thousands of People Will Journey to the Twin-City Tomorrow.

(By the Associated Press) Winston-Salem, April 11.—Hundreds of visitors from all parts of North Carolina and many other states had arrived here late today, to be on hand for the Moravian Easter celebration early tomorrow morning. More will arrive during the early evening and tonight. Incoming trains today brought numerous visitors, and the roads to Winston-Salem were thronged with automobiles.

The annual Moravian Easter service, which had its origin in 1732, when a little band of Moravian Christians gathered in the hilltop graveyard to celebrate the Feast of the Resurrection, has grown to be the largest meeting of the kind in the world. It makes of Winston-Salem an annual Mecca and rivals pilgrimage assemblies of the ages. There is an air of solemnity, mingled with a spirit of rejoicing, about this service.

Bishop Edward Rondthaler, of the Moravian Church, stationed in Winston-Salem, said today that the celebration of Easter by Moravian Christians would start in the mountainous heart of Asia, twelve hours in advance of its beginning in Winston-Salem. It will, several hours later, be said, be taken up in Jerusalem, and then in central and western Europe and after that in Winston-Salem. Celebrations like this, although much smaller in magnitude, will, later, be held in Australia.

Bishop Rondthaler described the service as being confined to no continent, no climate. "It will be held in the ice-bound Arctic," he said, "and in the forests of the torrid zone, and in other places, in honor of our risen Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ."

The Moravian Christians came from what is now Czecho-Slovakia, in central Europe—a little band of persecuted Christians, seeking liberty and freedom of thought.

It is likely that from 20,000 to 30,000 persons, perhaps more, will witness and participate in the early Easter day service here tomorrow.

The service will be in progress when dawn comes. If the skies are clear, the first rays of the Easter day sun will sweep across a host of worshippers gathered at the Moravian cemetery, assembled there to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus.

Though solemn, the Moravian Easter service is not one of gloom. It is an occasion of gladness. It starts in front of the old "Home Church" at 5 o'clock, each Easter Sunday, and is completed in the Moravian graveyard.

"There is no special story connected with the beginning of this service," said Bishop Rondthaler. He added that the "little band of Moravian Christians" who gathered for the initial celebration thought so well of it that they repeated it on the following Easter! It then became a custom, one that has attracted wide attention and has made Winston-Salem, the largest Moravian center perhaps in the United States, certainly in the South, of peculiar interest at Easter time.

Where Should Crime News Be Placed?

(By the Associated Press) Decatur, Ill., April 11.—After a week's trial of the segregation of telegraph crime news to the lower left hand corner of the front page of the Decatur Review, the column headed by a small head "Crime," opinion differs widely as to this method of handling such news.

The majority of ministers contend that undue attention is called to it, while a few have said that it places it where it can be skipped without reading. Other citizens have commended the plan as being the proper way to handle the showing showing the small portion of crime news to the total carried.

ONE CHILD LIVES AT WILMINGTON

Reported That Bryant Is a Man of Wealth Now.—Charges Are All Denied by Macon Man.

(By the Associated Press) Macon, Ga. He was arrested at the home here of his present father-in-law, and is being held pending the arrival of a warrant from Wilmington, N. C., which charged, the police said, desertion of wife and minor children.

Mrs. P. N. McWhorter, of Wilmington, who said she is one of Bryant's children, and was a minor at the time of the alleged desertion, was responsible for the arrest.

She and her husband recently heard that Bryant was in Macon, she said, so they went there to investigate. Bryant had left for a business trip to Atlanta, they learned. With several officers the couple found Bryant's address here and directed the arrest.

Bryant denied Mrs. McWhorter's identification, asserting he had never seen the woman before.

Smallpox Sign Doesn't Keep Wilson Police From Raiding

Wilson, April 9.—Unleashed bull dogs nor hives of swarming bees failed to daunt the Wilson coppers when their noses for booze, which every one of them have, scent the "unforbidden." They have a duty to perform and they go to it like killing snakes.

A few nights ago on information and belief that a negro had at her home whiskey for the purpose of sale, Buck Stallions, one of the "hiv" on the force, when he approached her domicile found a large card on her door reading "smallpox." Instead of backing away he found the family all sitting up getting ready to take a nip before retiring. Looking around he found several fruit jars full of corn liquor. He arrested the landlady and took away the juice of the corn and preferred a charge against her for having whiskey in her possession for the purpose of sale. Failing to prove the charge the woman was allowed to go her way, but she lost her joy-drops.
