

SURVEY SHOWS MUCH PURE-BRED LIVESTOCK MARKETED

Washington, April 22.—Much of the purebred livestock of the country is finding its way to the farms for breeding purposes only, the bureau of animal industry has found in a survey which reached 653 farmers in 45 states. Answers to questionnaires sent out by the bureau developed also that the dairy industry is drawing many purebred cattle.

Analysis of the replies, the bureau announced today, has shown that about 62 per cent of purebred livestock is marketed directly for meat purposes, swine being slaughtered at the rate of 75.1 per cent; sheep 62.6 per cent, and cattle 41.8 per cent.

The bureau learned that only one-half of the purebred animals in the country eligible to registration are actually registered. Principal reasons given for not registering animals were intention to sell for slaughter, poor individuality, little demand for registration papers when stock is sold, and carelessness in attending to registration.

The questionnaires produced a virtually unanimous opinion that purebred livestock was more profitable than grade or scrub animals, with well-bred grades a close second. A Nebraska stockman declared he had found that purebreds "are of more uniform type, feed out better and more quickly and therefore put on more gain with the same or less feed and in less time."

"Whiteface, red, roan, and black cattle," he said, "always attract the buyers, but a brindle, yellow, or black and white spotted steer, even of good conformation, finds a less ready sale. The buyers know from experience that such stock will not dress out so well."

Last year 100,000 whole hog carcasses were condemned by United States inspectors because of tuberculosis. In addition, there were 1,099,253 parts of hog carcasses condemned because of this disease.

Moore Will Get Special Term If It Is Found Justified. Raleigh, April 23.—Governor McLean will give Moore county the special term of court which it desires for the trial of Will Tyson, assailant of a 16-year-old girl near Carthage Monday afternoon and while the county waits, Tyson will be safe in the state prison.

Gov. McLean ordered the negro brought here today when the Moore sheriff indicated another flareup in neighborhood feeling. The fact that the negro failed in his effort to commit a capital felony adds to the feeling against him. He can be sent up for a long term but it is limited by the law. Ivey Marley, another negro, is also held in the state prison on "suspicion."

The governor is impressed enough with the state of facts presented to him to order the special term when Moore calls for it. The solicitor, Don Phillips, is working on the evidence now and if the facts seem to justify the extraordinary sitting of the court a judge will be appointed for that work. The fact which Gov. McLean has now are those only which have come to him by long distance telephone. The young woman attacked identified the black man, who, despite the excitement of the community remained about Carthage.
