Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle.

WOMAN'S POWER.
The Uplift.
There are people that are not able to accord woman the power that she has, generally in a latent state, but when a crisis comes all that power is brought in action and seldom do you find a widow that does not meet her problems and work out agreeable and successful results.
The other day this writer received invitation to join a host in doing honor to a mother in Israel—Mrs. Margaret Mariah Miller, formerly of No. 8 township, Cabarrus county, but the past few years a resident of Hickory, N. C. Mrs. Miller was paying a visit to friends and relatives in the St. John's neighborhood. In this there is nothing, specially remarkable; but just what a moment.
It had been near unto thirty years since this writer had seen the lady, but when he approached unannounced she arose just as spry as one of these charming young things we see bobbing amongst us and greeted us, "Well, Jim, how are you?" And this is not remarkable, either—but wait a moment. This lady Mrs. Miller will in December celebrate her 97th birthday. There is nowhere in the state to be found a person whose faculties are any clearer or more alert.
Soon after the War Between the States she became a widow with three children to care for, and an estate that had been somewhat encumbered by the big-heartedness, generosity and trustfulness of her husband, who was one of the outstanding and leading farmers of that period. Now, here's where the power of woman is called into play. She faced the problem with a strong, brave heart, wiped away remembrances, reared a family that did credit to an honored name, her two daughters becoming the wives of two prominent ministers of the gospel and who contributed a marked and worthy service befitting the duties of this high calling.
To show the love of the community of which she had been no small part in its activities, of state and church, more than one hundred people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wingard and gave themselves over to the pleasant business of making this young-old woman understand that though she had been long absent from the neighborhood, there remained a loving and abiding esteem for her.
This fine old woman, while she eats heartily three full meals daily and sleeps a gentle sleep as of a child, is concerned chiefly about the success and prosperity of her friends and acquaintances and is not like the old lady in eastern North Carolina, who, when asked in what she was most interested, replied, "my vitals."

On the opposite page we carry in the group the picture of Mrs. Miller along with four generations. It is seldom that we find in the det five generations, as is the case in this group picture.
This gathering together to do honor to the aged is a beautiful thought, and the assembled host at the home of Mr. Wingard to do honor to this gentle mother in Israel, who carries her ninety-six years with grace and fine spirit, were themselves the beneficiaries of a happy occasion.
"Bad Company" Outstanding Film Success of the Season.
One of the best pictures that has ever played this city is now showing at the Concord theatre.
There are many reasons that "Bad Company" is one of the best film productions of the year. The first reason is, because it is based on a story that is a story and is original in every detail. The second reason is, because it carries on its roster a line-up of stars that would be a credit to any picture. The third and most important reason is, because it was directed and acted with an eye to keeping it natural.
Now you have in a paragraph why "Bad Company" is one of the best pictures of the year.
The story is that of a young girl, herself a success as a Broadway actress, who would save her brother from the clutches of "Bad Company," in the form of a bad woman who has designs on the young man's fortune. The girl succeeds in freeing her brother but only after compromising the man she loves.
As for the cast. Who can question the starring combination of Conway Tearle, as the sacrificing lover and Madge Kennedy, as the girl. Do you remember Charles Emmett Mack, the boy who played the brother in D. W. Griffith's "Dream Street"? Well, he plays the same dramatic role in this picture. Others in the cast who help make "Bad Company" the big picture that it is, are Bigelow Cooper and Lucille Lee Stewart.

COOLIDGE FAVORS SHIP SALE TO FORD
President Ready to Get Rid of Idle Tonnage If It Can Be Done Legally.
Washington, May 15.—President Coolidge indicated today that he might favor the proposition to sell Henry Ford several hundred idle ships now in control of the Shipping Board. The matter has not been taken up with him, but he is ready to get rid of the ships if it can be done in compliance with the law.
The President has no information about the Ford offer except that gained by reading the newspapers. He does not expect the members of the Shipping Board to consult him, for they are authorized to act.
Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board will not return to Washington until Monday. In his negotiations with Mr. Ford he is not supported by other members of the board. It was made apparent today, however, that the President and other leading Republicans of the Administration believe the ships should be operated or sold. The White House is relying on provisions of the Jones Act for guidance and Senator Jones, who engineered the act through the Senate, declares action should be taken.
"I would be delighted to see Mr. Ford go into the shipping business on a large scale," Senator Jones said today. "Judging from his success in other lines of industry he would succeed at this where others might fail, with his financial resources he could and would stand the losses that he would encounter at first until he could build up a paying trade. Transporting his own freight would probably net him a profit."
"Something should be done about this matter of the laid up ships," Senator Jones added. "The American vessels engaged in overseas commerce must be replaced sometime, and replaced by up-to-date ships. The fact that the Government has 800 or more laid-up ships would militate against any plan for building new ones."

BULLETS WHIZ ON CROWDED STREET
Deputy Sheriff and Escaped Prisoner Stage Pistol Duel in Goldsboro.
Goldsboro, May 16.—Center street, Goldsboro's main thoroughfare, was the scene of a near riot here at six o'clock this afternoon when "Chink" Rhodes, deputy sheriff, and Leroy Nobles, escaped prisoner, engaged in a pistol duel while men and children scattered in every direction to avoid being hit by the flying bullets. The affair was the result of a paid delivery in which three prisoners made their escape. When Constable Cuddington opened the door of the jail he was met by a blow in the head and when he fell to the floor three negro prisoners rushed out. One of them had a gun and Nobles seized the constable's weapon. When the alarm was given Sheriff Grant went on the trail of one negro who came to a halt immediately after the sheriff shot at him. Deputy Sheriff Rhodes followed the other two and one escaped. The chase of the other led through the main part town and when Center street was reached the negro ran up the sidewalk turning and firing at the sheriff until he had used up five bullets. Rhodes fired in the air at first but when he saw that the negro would not stop and was liable to elude capture in the dense crowd, he shot at him twice in quick succession, both bullets entering the negro's right side and seriously wounding him.
A horse was shot by a flying bullet from the prisoner's gun and that some of the hundreds of persons who were on the street at the time were not hit is nothing short of miraculous.

Activity is life. Inactivity is death. In Muscle Builder for June, a Macfadden publication, the secret of muscle building is expounded by such authorities as Penny Leonard who tells "How I Won the Championship," "Sid Terris Tells His Trick" and gives some information to coming boxers on foot work. "I Have Dodged Death a Dozen Times" is the inside story of clowning—it is not so funny being a clown sometimes. "How to Develop a Wrestler's Powerful Muscles," is made plain by no less an authority than Bernard Macfadden himself.

SMOTHERING SPELLS AND NERVOUSNESS OVERCOME
Concord Lady Says HERB JUICE Helped Her Beyond All Expectations.
"It is truly a miracle that way HERB JUICE has restored my health and strength after I had suffered so long, and to show my appreciation and gratitude for what it has done for me, I gladly give this statement in the hope that it may induce other sufferers to take it and secure the same relief that I did," said Mrs. Dora McDonald, Reed street, Concord, N. C., in a recent interview with the HERB JUICE representative. "In my opinion," Mrs. McDonald further remarked, "Herb Juice is the best medicine on the market today for such ailments as I had, namely: indigestion, constipation, nervousness and smothering spells. I am thankful to say that the first bottle did me lots of good and since I have continued taking it for over a month I have been entirely relieved of the gas and indigestion pains, also the smothering spells which gave so much trouble and discomfort and my nerves are now under better control than they have been for many months and I really feel like my former self. I never dreamed that any medicine would do so much for a person as HERB JUICE has done for me in such a short time. I have gained in weight and strength from the day I started using this wonderful remedy and through its natural action I have been completely relieved of constipation and my system is now in excellent working order. I have really been benefitted beyond all expectations. HERB JUICE is the most effective system cleanser and regulator I have ever found. I do not believe there is another medicine made today that would have helped me like HERB JUICE has, and I take great pleasure in making this statement so that others may be benefitted as I have been."
Hundreds are calling at Gibson Drug Co. to see the HERB JUICE man to learn more of the great remedy that is relieving so many thousands of Concord and Kannapolis people. Also sold in Kannapolis by F. L. Smith Drug Co.
