Thomas R. Marshall, Philadelphia Record.
Perhaps the best testimony to the absolute sanity, loyalty and general popularity of Thomas R. Marshall came in 1916, when, with the renomination of Woodrow Wilson by the Democratic party, the question naturally arose as to who should be his running mate. The fact that there was not the faintest objection to the renomination also of Mr. Marshall, who had served as vice president for over three years, was a very striking tribute to his character as a man and to the record and impression he had made while holding that high office. This was a unique achievement in American politics. When Lincoln was renominated in 1864 he put aside the vice president who had served with him during the trying days of civil war and selected another and, as it proved, his capable candidate. And that course has been generally followed in our politics. It remained for Mr. Marshall to break the record and to establish a precedent because of his complete fitness for the post he had filled.

During his eight years' service as vice president he was held in affectionate esteem by the American people, and that regard followed him into private life. In every capacity, as a lawyer, a judge and governor of Indiana, he made his mark as a man to be trusted and one who held to high ideals. Never an offensive partisan, he was always well liked by Republicans as well as by Democrats, and he was easily the most popular vice president Washington has known for many years. Had Mr. Wilson's long illness during the closing of his second term terminated fatally Mr. Marshall would have succeeded him in the White House, and there can be no doubt that he would have fully sized up to the office. A sensible and lovable man, his passing will be regretted by millions to whom he was personally unknown, but who had come to recognize in him a typical and dependable American.

Boy Skates 50 Miles.
"Roll on, roll on, roll on!" So spoke Fielding Morgan, 18, of Danville, Va., to his roller skates when skating from that place to Greensboro, a distance of 50 miles. Fielding made a wager that he could make the trip in less than eight hours. He won. He made the trip in six hours and 17 minutes. However, he lost eight pounds in weight during the trip. The road was concrete all the way except on short stretch which was asphalt. He only made one stop, which was at Reidsville, the midway point. Here he drank a glass of milk and oiled his skates. His skates were nearly worn out, too, when he reached his goal.

An instrument perfected for the long-range snorting of icebergs is so sensitive that the heat from the funnels of an approaching vessel will affect it at a distance of six miles.

SAILING BY STEERAGE

Cattle, the great mainstay of commerce, will be given a prominent place on the national stage of sportsmanship, when the pick of the range will meet human opponents in the Chicago Roundup and world's championship rodeo, which will be staged in the Chicago stadium beginning August 15. Chicago business interests, through the Association of Commerce, have made possible the enactment of this drama of the Far West. "Outlaw" bronchos are difficult to ride, but some of the most daring buckaroos, leaping from corral post to a steer's broad back, have found him the more difficult of the two to master.

When the "covered wagons" creaked westward, bringing the pioneers who built in the Middle West the backbone of a great nation, tied behind each was the one unflinching source of sustenance—the cow. In front, faithfully hauling the temporary home of the adventurer, were the offspring of the creature at the tailgate. Since then the world's greatest mercantile and industrial empire has been built around the commercial strength of the livestock that has come down from these humble beginnings. And in the Chicago stadium they find their place in the sun.

JOHN MEDLIN DIES AFTER BEING STRUCK BY AUTO

Hoyle Burrage Under Bond Charged With Driving Car Which Fatally Struck the Deceased.
John Medlin, well known citizen of Concord, died this morning in the Concord Hospital from injuries alleged to have been inflicted by a car driven by Hoyle Burrage, and Burrage is under $2,500 bond for his appearance in court here on June 15th to answer to charges in connection with the case.

Mr. Medlin, according to information given to police officers, was struck by Burrage's car Saturday night about 8 o'clock at the intersection of Corbin and Phelan streets. He was rushed to the Concord Hospital but never fully regained consciousness and death came this morning about 2 o'clock.

Burrage was placed under bond in the sum of $1,000 Saturday night and the amount was raised to $2,500 yesterday when attending physicians advised officers that the injured man's condition seemed less hopeful. The bond was arranged without trouble.

Just how the accident occurred is not fully known and it is probable that details will not be given until the Burrage hearing is held on June 15th.

Mr. Medlin was 65 years of age and had been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Sid Smith, for some time. He was crossing the street near his home when the accident occurred.

He is survived by two brothers, A. B. and W. A. Medlin, both of this county; one sister, Mrs. Dock Yow, of Union county; and the following children: Mrs. Smith, Mrs. W. L. Baker, Mrs. Ed. Clark, Mrs. Ed. Miller and Walter Medlin, all of Concord.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Smith, on West Corbin street at 9:30 Tuesday morning, and interment will be made in the cemetery at Love's Grove in Stanley county at 11:30.

Mr. Medlin was well known throughout Cabarrus and Stanley counties and the announcement of his death occasioned much sorrow in his wide circle of relatives and friends.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF YOU HAD BUT "ONE YEAR TO LIVE?"

Sensational New Theme Introduced in New Live-First National Drama.
What would you do if you had but one year to live?
The question is asked you in the new First National picture, "One Year to Live," which comes to the Concord Theatre today and Tuesday.

And the movie obligingly answers, indirectly, by vividly depicting the plight of a beautiful girl whose physician tells her she has but one year to live.
It is a sensational theme, and is reported by pre-view critics to have been well carried out by an elaborate cast which includes Aileen Pringle, Antonio Moreno, Dorothy Mackaill and other favorites.

The scenes are laid in Paris, and have been given the glitter and glamour particularly associated with the gay night life of the French capital.

There are some fascinating glimpses behind the scenes of a famous Parisian theatre—and the panic which ensues when a beautiful, but temperamental star, refuses to "go on" for the paradoxical reason that the audience is clamoring for her.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR WADE IVEY HELD TODAY

Died Sunday After An Illness Which Began While Overseas In Service.
Funeral services for Wade Ivey, who died Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at his home in New London, were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial was made in New London.

Mr. Ivey had been ill for a number of years, illness resulting from overseas service during the war. He enlisted in the service with the Mooresville battery and went abroad with that company.

DONALD MCLEOD WAUCHOPE BURIED HERE SATURDAY

Many Expressions of Sympathy For the Youth Who Was Drowned in Lake Wacama.
Funeral services for Donald McLeod Wauchope were held Saturday afternoon in the Second Presbyterian Church of this city at 5 o'clock. The body was taken to Albemarle from Whiteville, N. C., where he was drowned Friday evening in Lake Wacama. It was met there by an undertaker, Mr. and Mrs. Gip Sherrill and other friends and brought to the home of the late Mrs. J. C. Thompson to await the hour for burial.

The funeral services were conducted by Dr. J. C. Rowan, of the First Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. McIver, of Poplar Tent. A quartette composed of Mrs. J. B. Wombles, Miss Hattie Thompson, Messrs. C. H. Long and R. E. Eldenhour, Jr., sang two selections, accompanied on the piano by Mr. John Goodman.

Special friends of Donald acted as pall bearers. They were: Macan Holbrooks, Edward Martin, Albert Freeze, Roy Sanders, Roy Sides and Lewis White. Many beautiful offerings attested the high esteem in which Donald was held, not only in Concord, but in Whiteville among new friends. Outstanding among these were the following: A pillow from the Second Presbyterian Church of Whiteville; another handsome offering from the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society of the same church, a wreath from McKinstry Presbyterian Church, another from the Concord Choral Club, an immense heart sent by the ninth grade of the Concord High School, former classmates of Donald, a cross given by the Thompson sisters, Mrs. Gip Sherrill, Mrs. C. H. Long, Mrs. A. M. Turner, Miss Hattie Thompson and Mrs. R. P. Thompson, a design from Mrs. Compton, of Charlotte, design from Miss Estelle Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Carson, of Whiteville.

Donald was born April 26th, 1909, having just passed his sixteenth birthday. The latter part of his life was spent in Concord, as his father, Rev. W. C. Wauchope, had been pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church here for more than seven years, and had resigned his pastorate here April 1st, to take up his new work at the Presbyterian Church of Whiteville. Most of Donald's school days had been spent in Concord, and no student ranked higher in the hearts of his classmates and with the faculty than Donald. The younger set loved him for his unselfish heart, his ready wit, his spirit of good fellowship pervaded every group of which he was a member, the high standards and ideals which he upheld naturally made him the centre of any group. The older set loved him for his gracious, gallant manner, polite and courteous on all occasions. This coupled with an unusually brilliant mind, made him the favorite of both old and young.

The untimely death of Donald is being mourned all over Concord and wherever Donald and his parents are known.

Lake Wacama, the place of the accident, is known as the "wicked" lake. A party composed of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian Church of Whiteville was picnicking Friday night at the lake, chaperoned by Donald's father, Rev. W. C. Wauchope. Donald got beyond his depth in the lake and was carried down by the undercurrent.

Rev. and Mrs. Wauchope will be in Concord for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gip Sherrill. Both are bearing up nobly, showing more clearly than ever the depth of their faith, and even in such a dark hour as this has been, were able to say "It is all right, God never made a mistake."

Out of town friends here for the funeral were Mr. Wilbur Boyce and Mr. and Mrs. Carson, of Whiteville.

A Clock That Talks.
A clock that speaks the time every 15 minutes has been invented. This speaking timepiece, it is said, differs very little from the ordinary clock. It has the same kind of face and standard works, with the exception that to the minute shaft is fastened an automatic lever and can which is actuated every 15 minutes by the minute wheel. This lever, in turn, works a second lever which is attached to a drum carrying a phonograph film. This action of the first lever upon the second starts an electric motor causing the film to move. When this occurs the stylus of the phonographic reproducer is acted upon and the time is vocally announced. The phonographic reproducer is fitted with a small horn that intensifies the sound. The clock also has a repeating device.
