Thomas Meighan at the Star Today,
"Tongues of Flame." Thomts Meighan's newest Paramount starring picture which deened today at the Star Theatre, is that kind of a production that sends one out of the theatre with the convictions that alls well in the movie world after all—so far as Tom's concerned, at least,
"Tongues of Flame" is a picturization of Peter Clark Macfarline's last novel, produced by Joseph Henabery, who made "The Guilty One" and "A Sainted Devil."

Tom's always pleasing on the screen, at times more so than other—and this is one of those more so, or better, very much so times.

And then there's two very beautiful young leading women playing opposite Meighan in "Tongues of Flame," Besseile Love and Elleen Perey. Now what more could one possibly want? Manliness, feminine charm and a story that smacks of pell-mell action throughout. If "Tongues of Flame" isn't the finest thing "Good Luck" Tom has ever done in his lengthy career, we'd quit right here. But we keep on going, you see, so it must be good.
