

Installation Plan Rapped.
The Pathfinder.
"Mortgaging the future to enjoy the present" has done more to ruin the individual careers than anything else, J. H. Tregoe, secretary of the National Association of Credit Men, told the Wholesale Grocers' Association at Washington. He complained that the growth of the installment plan is imperiling the business stability of the country. He objects to such slogans as:
"Have your house painted now and pay during the winter months."
"Buy a wedding ring by paying $5 a month."
Tregoe added that organized campaigns to boost certain lines of business by setting apart special "weeks" in which the public can get credit for this and that prevents the United States from attaining the economic prosperity it should have. He thinks credit a great defamer of character and reputation.

"Red" Parker, the elongated hurler for Bleachery, put a crimp in Midway's march for the top perch of the league, when he turned them back with a 3 to 2 verdict. This was the eighth consecutive victory for the Bleachery ace.
L. McCarn's home run in the third was responsible for a pair of Bleachery runs. The other marker was scored in the earlier inning on Sherrill's double.

America Leads World in Music, Says Samaroff, Noted Pianist

OLGA SAMAROFF

The United States has become the musical center of the world. Seventy-five per cent of the greater artists now make this nation their permanent home, Olga Samaroff, noted American pianist, declared the other day in discussing the World War's effect on music.
Madame Samaroff, who will make a concert tour of this country next winter following a series of triumphs in Europe, continued: "After the war, foreign artists came here in great numbers. Some intended only to visit, but decided to remain. Others planned to make a single tour, but have taken out first papers to become United States citizens, and will continue to give concerts here."
"The American public responded quickly to the wealth of musical talent offered it. The smaller cities, as well as New York, Chicago, Boston or Philadelphia, already are demanding the same programs that have been given in Europe's capitals."
"Students of music can gain more here than abroad. Just recently a very talented Chicago boy asked me whether he should continue his studies in this country or go abroad to study. I told him emphatically to remain here. He can hear in his own city and New York more unusual music and a greater variety of music—so valuable to the student—than anywhere else."

Run! Harrison's rejuvenated Cannons played faultless ball, and behind the brilliant pitching of Lefty Fields won the opening game of the week 3 to 2 at the Cannon Park this afternoon.

The Cubs fell short one run of tying the count in the last scene when Fowler started a two-run rally.
Meeler, in left field for Cabarrus club, made a circus catch in the third to rob Ebird of a two-base knock.

Fowler and Hartis; Fields and Ebird. HERE AND THERE WITH JAZZY.
Reorganization of the Cannon club perfected at meeting of the players last night. James Smith resigned as manager and "Run! Harrison" was elected his successor. The changed team met with the hearty approval of the fans.
Thursday, July 2, will be open to all teams of the Twilight League. Efforts are being made to bring Eddie Brietz, of the Charlotte Observer, here to address the officials and players at a banquet to be given at the Cabarrus Y. M. C. A. on that evening.
"Red" Parker twirled the league leading Bleachery club to a 2 to 0 victory over the Cannon team last Thursday afternoon. By this victory he now has six won games and no defeats to his credit. Parker also set up a mark, for the other pitchers to shoot at when he held the Cannons hitless. This is the only time in the history of the league a moundman has held his opponents entirely without a bingle. Beyond the fact that "Red" is there for the ball club and works his hardest at all times he doesn't get any credit for all that work.
Fans who have visited Cabarrus field are returning singing the praises of the park. It looks better every time one sees it. Being more attractive is but natural that the crowds will be larger, for everyone is now assured of a good seat without being crowded.
The Kannapolis City team will crack the season officially Saturday, when at 3:30 o'clock they meet the Lowell aggregation in a game at Cabarrus Park. Lindsey, former Blue Ridge pitcher, will

BUY CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL COINS.

Every Southern man and woman, every boy and girl, in whose veins flows the blood of the heroes of 61-65, will want to possess one or more Confederate Memorial Half Dollars.
These beautiful coins, minted by the United States Government, are a Nation's tribute to the valor of the Southern soldier. They are the final seal of Reconciliation that the North and the South, the East and the West, go forward henceforth, united as one people, serving the same high ideals, the same great Destiny.
Proceeds from the sale of the Confederate Memorial Coins will be used to carve the great monument to the heroes of the South at Stone Mountain, Ga. The monument will be the greatest ever constructed by the hand of man. It is being built by the contributions of patriotic citizens from every State. It must be completed while the heroes of 61-65 yet live, that they may again look upon the features of their great chieftains, enshrined for the ages.
To carry forward this great trust, is a solemn and sacred obligation on every Southern heart. The South cannot, the South must not, fail.
How Sidney Porter Adopted "O Henry" as a Nom de Plume.
It has been definitely established that Sidney Porter picked up the pseudonym O. Henry in New Orleans when the New York writer was hibernating there to see to Honduras from the law. One of the drinking places frequented by writers had a drink dispenser named Henry. When he was wanted it was natural to call out "Oh, Henry!" Porter was there one night with a new manuscript. For obvious reasons he did not want to sign his own name. He asked for suggestions and then called out "Oh, Henry!" to stand treat while they thought the matter over. "Why not O. Henry?" said one. And O. Henry it was.

CARNIVOROUS FISH OF RIVER OF DOUBT ON SCREEN

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, June 24.—An educational film has been exhibited in Rio de Janeiro showing the wild life and frontier industries in the Brazilian state of Mato Grosso. This is the second largest state in the union, being more than twice the size of Texas.
There are plenty of Indians living in Mato Grosso, most of them in the hunting and fishing period of civilization. The men of the Bororo tribe, which was shot for the picture, use no clothing, but the women have been taught by the Federal Indian service to wear a simple form of dress. The most popular style in neck-lace is made by stringing a collection of the teeth of wild jaguars, powerful and dangerous animals of the cat family, which kill livestock through a great part of central and northern Brazil. A peculiar wedding custom was filmed, showing the return of a young man with the hide of a jaguar, killed to prove his bravery, a necessary action before the right of marriage is given to a man.
Another feature of life in the interior, mentioned by the late Theodore Roosevelt in the account of his trip down the River of Doubt, are the piranhas, the flesh-eating fish which inhabit some of the interior rivers. The operator threw a calf into the stream. It was eaten with astonishing rapidity by an enormous school of these carnivorous fish. Alligators are numerous.
The edges of the forest bordering the rivers are in many places white with herons. The species are famous for their svelte features. There is a few in Mato Grosso preventing the killing of these birds. There is a large trade in the feathers, however, and they are gathered after dropping from the birds. They have a market price of approximately $150 a pound.
Diamond mining seems to be flourishing in the interior, mining on the village of night is said.
