NORTH UNION SCENE OF MAN HUNT THIS MORNING

P. P. Poole Captured With Three Pints of Liquor—Shots Rouse Residents of Neighborhood.

Residents in the neighborhood of the intersection of North Union and Marsh streets experienced a rude awakening from their slumbers this morning about 5:30 o'clock.

First there came the sound of shooting. The ensuing stillness was shortly after punctured by the bark of a pistol. A voice was heard calling to another person to catch the third person, snarled threats and finally sounds of a struggle. When the residents cautiously peeped from their windows, they saw Officer W. G. Cochran leading P. P. Poole from the scene of the capture.

It seems, according to local police, that for some time Poole had been suspected of bootlegging operations. He has been before the city magistrate previously on liquor charges, but nothing of a serious nature had been proved against him.

Officer Cochran watched Poole this morning and noted that he procured some "stuff" from a hiding place in the woods. Following him, the officer almost caught up with him at Marsh street.

Poole ran and in an effort to stop him, Cochran fired several shots into the ground, hoping that this would frighten him into submission. It had the opposite effect; Poole ran the faster.

The milk man, on his early morning rounds, came upon the scene at this juncture and the officer yelled for him to stop Poole. Poole, however, it is said, threatened to kill him if he touched him and even went so far as to draw a knife, whereupon the milk man stepped aside.

The delay was sufficient to bring the officer near Poole and he caught him after a brief chase. Three full pints of whiskey were procured on his person and one other had fallen to the ground and broken just before he was caught.

Charges of having liquor in his possession and having same for sale will be preferred against Poole at a hearing before Judge Caldwell Monday afternoon in recorder's court.

SHRINERS' VISIT TO CITY NOT UP TO EXPECTATIONS

Advertised Band Concert and Parade Fall to Materialize When Nobles Come to Concord.

The visit of the Shriners to Concord yesterday afternoon was a decided flop. They had been expected to come to the city, give a parade and band concert and entertain the townsfolk in general. It had been reported that over five hundred Nobles were to be here and Chief of Police Talbirt had detailed two officers to reserve parking space on North Union street and regulate traffic.

To greet the visitors, a throng of local Masons had gathered, the DeMolays had prepared a drink stand, and five or six hundred persons congregated to view the proceedings.

Shriners came but in much smaller numbers than had been anticipated. Considerably less than a hundred disembarked. After procuring drinks, they sang one short song and dashed out to their busses, bound for Salisbury. No parade was forthcoming, no band concert was given and but few of the gaily-dressed band members and fessed Nobles made their appearance.

The crowd was forced to make its way home, wilted after standing in the hot sun to see the Shriners.

JACKSON AND SKIPPER ARE DECLARED GUILTY

Kidnaping, Secret Assault and Battery Verdict in Cumberland Fogging Trial.

Fayetteville, July 3.—Walter Jackson, farmer, merchant and bank director of Robeson county, and Tom Skipper, farmer of Cumberland county, were found guilty of kidnaping and secret assault and battery when a verdict was returned at 6:25 this evening by the jury trying them in Superior Court for the fogging of Rudolph Willard the night of May 28.

They will be sentenced by Judge H. A. Gandy tomorrow morning.

Both defendants were locked up for the night after taking leave of the female members of their families, who showed much grief. Jackson exhibited traces of emotion, but Skipper continued to bear the same solid calm that he had shown throughout the trial. Jackson is unmarried but has been attended through his trial by his two sisters and aged father. Skipper is a married man, his bride being sister to the wife of Rudolph Willard. Jackson has been out on bond of $5,000.

Yes, but you wasn't in the parrade! Was only me in! In one kid! Grampaw said, if I'm good, I can march. Long wiv him—and I was, and I did! My Grampaw was dressed in his blue; All breashed up it was; wiv the star And the ribbon-thing; and the hat Wiv the gold; and the G. A. R. And a man wiv a snake on a horse At kicked up its heels and shied, Rode up side o' Grampaw and me, And asked us, why didn't we ride!

Be a long stiff hike, Mr. Smiff! P'cessint' Attorney's car, Is here at your service! he sez, Be a powerful climb, up thar! Grampaw ist make his back straight, And thank him, and wouldn't get in! "Marched wiv the boys these sixty year— I guess I can make it—agin!" Yes, and old Joe Beaver, he marched; And Lafe, 'is my Grampaw's chum; And all the people ist crowd and clap And holler—to see us come!

The drums was as loud, and the fife! Grampaw said "We got to keep step!" Under his brel, so's no one can hear, He kep' goin' "Hep-hep-hep!" I carried my flag like he asked; An's a Big Flag, way on ahead, Flutterin' up mongst the leaves; Mm, gee! 'Nen my Grampaw said: "Boy, never forget—This Day!" And I tell him he needn't be 'frigh! Grampaw and me's gonto march— nex' year— In the Fourth July Parrade!

SAYS WEEVIL WILL DAMAGE OVER HALF COTTON IN STATE

Frank Parker, Agricultural Statistician, Declares Government Cotton Report Most Misleading Because It Ignores Boll Weevil.

Raleigh News and Observer.

Frank Parker, statistician of the joint crop reporting service of the United States and North Carolina Departments of Agriculture, yesterday stated that he expects the boll weevil to damage between 50 and 75 per cent of the cotton crop in North Carolina.

"A great deal depends upon weather conditions in July and August, and it is too early to say with certainty what the damage will be, but the boll weevil has hit the State much earlier than we have ever known it before, and is so much more abundant that it looks now as if the damage will certainly be between 50 and 75 per cent of the crop in the State," declared Mr. Parker. "If we have plenty of dry weather it may be less, but I doubt it," he added.

Mr. Parker stated that the damage already extended to between 50 and 75 per cent in the worst area in the State, which embraces the counties of Roberson, Bladen, Scotland, Hoke and lower Cumberland.

At the same time heavy damage by lice is reported in Halifax, Edgecombe, Bertie and Northampton counties, while hail damage has been encountered in a narrow strip running through the counties of Chowan, Bertie, Washington and Beaufort counties, and lower Martin. Lesser damage has been reported in some of the counties in the Piedmont belt.

"The cotton report we have sent out is most misleading, as it takes into consideration only the growth of plants and the growth has been excellent, while the immense amount of boll weevil damage is not considered in arriving at the figures in the report," stated Mr. Parker.

"But weather does not affect the boll weevil at all, and he is hurt only by dry weather."

Flapper Dress Sensible

Dr. Leonard Hill of London thinks that girls have a better chance for good health than boys. He believes the flapper styles, low-cut neck, short skirts, comfortable shoes and spider-we stockings will benefit the health of the modern girl. Such clothing permits more of the desirable ultraviolet ray to enter her body. Statistics of the future, the doctor predicts, will show girls the healthier of the two sexes. "I have no doubt," he declares, "that in the near future both men's and women's clothing will be designed with a view of allowing the body to receive as plentiful a supply as possible of the sun's rays."
