DUNCE CAP

THE dunce has never had any particular standing in his community, but this year his hat is becoming quite the vogue. Paris is quite mad over the dunce hat, usually of velvet with a high pointed crown and fancy band about the face. It is very becoming, and youthful.

JULY MEETING OF KINGS DAUGHTERS HELD MONDAY

Variety of Subjects Discussed in Gathering at Home of Mrs. W. L. Bell on Depot Street.

The July meeting of the Stonewall Jackson circle of the Kings Daughters was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. L. Bell on West Depot Street. Mrs. S. J. Ervin opened the meeting with a scripture lesson from Psalm 46, which was followed by the reading of the national prayer of the Kings Daughters.

Aid had been given several families since last meeting and visits made, the names of these being turned over to the July visiting committee which is composed of Mrs. S. J. Ervin, Mrs. R. E. Ridenhour, Sr., and Miss Janie Kluttz.

Mrs. J. P. Cook spoke of visiting Samarcand and found the chapel built by the Kings Daughters of the state completed except for furniture which will be bought when funds are available. The chapel is beautiful and in harmony and taste with the other buildings. The girls are well cared for and appear in perfect health and to be happy, declared Mrs. Cook.

Mrs. Cook also gave a brief report of the National Council meeting of the Kings Daughters which was recently held at Atlantic City and where she delivered an address on The Value of the State Branch.

The meeting adjourned to meet in August with Mrs. R. M. Cook on Barrow Street.

Miss Lutz Being Entertained.

Mrs. John A. Patterson entertained at a swimming party Monday night at the Mooresville swimming pool for her guest, Miss Fay Lutz, of Shelby. Mrs. Patterson will also give a party this afternoon at her home on South Union in honor of Miss Lutz.

Why DePaolo Decided to Buy a Buick.

Peter DePaolo, youthful winner of the memorial day 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis, Ind., spent a day in Flint, Michigan on his way to Altoona, Pa., and purchased a Buick car.

DePaolo's story as to why he decided to buy a Buick is a novel one. While he was preparing for the big race he gained the friendship of Bill Alexander, of the Marvel Carburetor Company, who was at the speedway in the interests of his company. Bill had a Buick fifty-five, and during the week previous to the race used it to tow the racing car from its garage to the speedway for practice spins. DePaolo took such a liking to Bill's valve-in-head Buick that when he won his laurels together with the $38,000 in prize money, he decided to buy one like it.

The superstitions under which men who risk their lives often place themselves was humorously told by Alexander.

"On the last night before the 500-mile grind, someone backed another large car up to the garage to tow the DePaolo car to the track, but Pete would have none of it. 'Where is Bill and his Buick?' he asked. 'I'll not allow anyone else to tow my car at this stage of the game. I don't want to be jinxed by changing tow-horses in the middle of the stream.'

"Pete has a young son twenty months old and for luck he has a pair of little Tom's shoes tied to the front of this racing car."

DePaolo expressed himself as being proud of his new car.

"You see, I bought a reasonably priced car," he said, "and now people won't be going around saying I made a little money and am now squandering it."

DePaolo appeared inclined to take his honors modestly. He admitted that it took a lot of courage to drive in all races of that nature and said that all drivers would agree with him.

"If there is one thing I owe my success to," he said, "it is that I am always around to oversee what goes on at all times where my car is concerned. You know you must have everything right all the time. In this game where your life is at stake every minute you have to know things are right. You can not be in a fatal accident and go hurtling through space at a speed of 100 miles an hour into eternity, and then go back and bawl someone out for doing the wrong thing. Consequently, I always want to know that everything is right and the best way to know is to do it yourslf."

Dennis G. Brimmitt, the Attorney General of the State, was speaker of the House of Representatives in 1919. He presided over the house when it voted on the equal suffrage amendment, at the special session of 1920. If North Carolina had ratified the amendment and done so before Tennessee's similar action, this would have been the deciding State, making the total 36 for ratification.

Mrs. Frances Virginia Smith, of Denton, Texas, is herself a teacher, the wife of a teacher, and the mother of eight teachers.
