000 bales. Now the second forecast comes along with a prediction of 13,388,000 and immediately the market jumps.

Another big change is likely to take place when the third forecast is made next month. No one knows just what it will be but in all probability it will be radical enough to change the price and some one else, gambling on the market, will get rich.

The President might as well get ready to talk to the coal operators and miners. They seem determined to disagree on wage terms, with each side blaming the other as it always the case in labor disputes.
