"This is not as our fathers did"

THE civilization of the Chinese is old—older than the oldest records that are musty and yellow with age. Yet China today enjoys very few of our modern improvements. The Chinese do not welcome change. They object to innovation, saying, "This is not as our fathers did!"

Imagine an American today saying that he did not want electricity because his father was satisfied with candles!

Why have we progressed?

Newspaper advertising, more than anything else, has made of us a nation willing to judge something new on its merits, rather than on narrow, ancient traditions.

Newspaper advertising today is as necessary as electricity, sanitation and rapid transit. It is more than the system by which we are kept informed of every new improvement that is to our advantage. It is the catalog wherein, every day, all manner of articles are listed for use with their individual advantages.

Read the newspaper advertisements. Be guided by them. They will help you in making your selections. They will save you money.

To buy the new is to progress—to learn of it first is to read newspaper advertising

THE WOMEN DID IT

The Pathfinder.
It used to be the fashion, when the "great man" was surrounded by reporters asking for the secret of his success, for the celebrity to state, with as sweet a smile as he could muster: "All I am and all I hope to be, I owe to my wife." In the case of General "mother" was substituted for "wife."

The modern great man has a more cynical, matter-of-fact attitude. He reads less poetry. He has been brought up on "free verse." He allows it to be taken for granted that he deserves the credit himself. If he refers to his better half at all it is usually with an attempt at wit. He will run his hand over his slick-topped head and say: "If I had been before time I owe it all to my wife."

But here comes the Los Angeles Times doing a pretty back-flop to the chivalrous style—even going beyond it. "Who invented the cotton gin?" it asks. "Eli Whitney has received the credit through the years. However, the cotton gin was invented by his wife of Gen. Greene. She gave it to Whitney and he patented it." It is likewise stated that a woman, Mrs. Jaenard, invented the loom "that weaves every stitch you wear." Mrs. Howe, and not Elias Howe, is credited with the invention of the sewing machine. Elias worked on it 14 years in vain, but when Mrs. Howe saw that the larder was getting empty she pitched in and invented it in two hours.

A West Virginia woman is credited with inventing the reaper, instead of Mr. McCormick. The great iron squeezers that lay the foundation of all steel mills, was also invented by a woman, and Mr. Carnegie is said to have admitted it.

If one newspaper can find this many instances in which woman did the work and man got the credit what further relations could be made if all the papers turned their attention in this direction? It begins to look as if those old timers were telling the truth when they said, cryptically, that they owed everything to their wives. They were holding out too much for themselves after all. And the women who did it: all modestly kept silent—that being, of course, their long suit.

These startling revelations will cause the world to wonder who really did the things attributed to our various "great men of the past." Did King Alfred let the cakes burn, or was it Mrs. King Alfred? Did his wife give Galileo the idea that the world was turning around? We know, of course, that Socrates had his ideas constantly stirred up by Xanthippe. Who started Ponce de Leon on that search for the fountain of youth? Did Mrs. Franklin send Ben out to play with the lightning? Was it his wife who made Patrick Henry shout, "Give me liberty or give me death?" It was always been observed that women are rather weak in the inventive line. Their genius, it is said (and their genius has never been denied), does not run to the mechanical. Any man whose wife drives his auto will agree to that. But it appears that they have been deceiving us all along. These great mechanical inventions were theirs—merely taken out in their husbands' names. As Shakespeare said: "Custom cannot state her infinite variety!"

Lusitania Claims Settled.
Practically all of the 175 claims allowed against Germany as a result of the sinking of the Lusitania by a U-boat in 1915 have been settled by the American-German mixed claims commission. Germany had to pay over $2,000,000 for her "overt act." The largest single award, amounting to $130,000, went to Mrs. May Gilmer to compensate her for the loss of her father and her husband, included among the 100 Americans on the ill-fated liner.

Many more claims were entered but the commission dismissed suits that were purely sentimental or vague. Many cases were dismissed for lack of evidence. In making awards the commission took into consideration the probable duration of life of the victims, what they would have provided dependents in that time, etc. It found it difficult to figure mental suffering in cold figures.

The sons of Charles Klein, dramatist were allowed $50,000, but action brought by relatives of Charles Frohman, theatrical producer, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt were not allowed.

SMOTHERING SPELLS AND NERVOUSNESS OVERCOME

Concord Lady Says HERB JUICE Helped Her Beyond All Expectations.

"It is truly a miracle that way HERB JUICE has restored my health and strength after I had suffered so long, and to show my appreciation and gratitude for what it has done for me, I hereby give this statement in the hope that it may induce other sufferers to take it and secure the same relief that I did," said Mrs. Dora McDonald, Reed street, Concord, N. C., in a recent interview with the HERB JUICE representative. "In my opinion," Mrs. McDonald further remarked, "HERB JUICE is the best medicine on the market today for such ailments as I had, namely: indigestion, constipation, nervousness and smothering spells. I am thankful to say that the first bottle did me lots of good and since I have continued taking it for over a month I have been entirely relieved of the gas and indigestion pains, also the smothering spells which gave so much trouble have disappeared and my nerves are now under better control than they have been for many months and I really feel like my former self. I never dreamed that any medicine would do so much for a person as HERB JUICE has done for me in such a short time. I have gained in weight and strength from the day I started using this wonderful remedy and through its natural action I have been completely relieved of constipation and my system is now in excellent working order. I have really been benefitted beyond all expectations. HERB JUICE is the most effective system cleanser and regulator I have ever found. I do not believe there is another medicine made today that would have helped me like HERB JUICE has, and I take great pleasure in making this statement so that others may be benefited as I have been." HERB JUICE is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded by Gibson Drug Store.

COL. MANNING STRIKES BACK.

Denies That He is Dragging American Legion Into Politics.
Raleigh, Aug. 2.—Colonel John Hall Manning came back tonight with a blistering reply to the anonymous attack made upon his candidacy for state commander of the American legion in this morning's Daily News.

"I wish to brand as a malicious liar the person who states that I have put or attempted to put the American legion into politics," the colonel says by way of beginning. And then he continues: "Further I do not believe this anonymous person will receive the thanks of any legionnaire for attempting to drag a campaign which has been conducted along the high lines demanded by the American legion in North Carolina because I felt it to be one of the highest honors to which any service man might aspire, and the hundreds of letters which I have received assuring me of the support of the writers, prove to me that I was right in relying upon the assurance of my friends."

"I am very glad to have Mr. Grist's support, but his support is no more active than that of hundreds of others. I consider Mr. Grist amply able to take care of himself but I do wish to state that his record during his short tenancy of office has been such as to make every North Carolinian feel proud of having helped to place him in office. I especially refer to the help he gave the truckers of eastern North Carolina, a help they have never received before."

"If elected to the post of department commander, I wish to state that I shall devote what ever time may be necessary to build up the legion in the state, and aid in the efforts to go forward and render service. I believe that in this way I can best show my appreciation of the high honor."

Paper raincoats and aprons, retailing from ten cents to fifty-nine cents, are being made by a Wisconsin paper company. The material is a patented one and absolutely waterproof.

BOWMAN HELD FOR THE LESSER CHARGE

Criminal Assault Charge is Dismissed For Assault With Intent to Commit Felony.

Saturday's Hickory Record.
Major Wade V. Bowman was bound over to the November term of Catawba Superior court by Recorder M. H. Yount yesterday on a bond of $7,500, probable cause of assault with intent to commit a felony having been found. The charge of a statutory offense was thrown out and the Recorder stated that he did not think the evidence was sufficient to hold the defendant without bail on that warrant. In a measure the court yesterday sustained the action taken in the private trial last Wednesday morning in so far as it did not not think the evidence sufficient to hold Bowman for the capital offense.

Solicitor R. L. Huffman, who heard the evidence introduced yesterday afternoon, said over long distance communication from Morganton this morning that he would ask the grand jury in November to return a true bill charging the statutory offense. He made the statement that the conclusion of the evidence yesterday afternoon that "if Yount turns him loose I shall get a bench warrant immediately." He said this morning over the telephone, however, that he would not get a bench warrant charging the capital offense since Bowman was already under bond.

Girls Are Gentlemen in Knickers.
Kansas City Aug. 3.—Girls who wear knickers must be gentlemen, when they enter hotel dining rooms. In other words, they must wear their coats.

This ruling has just been handed down by Luigi, head waiter at the Hotel Muehlebach here. "A lady in knickers," said he, "is still a lady if she wears a coat. A gentleman without a coat is a pirate."

By breaking 92 targets out of a possible 100, Mrs. James Horton won first honors for her sex in the recent Texas state trapshooting tournament.

J. B. DUKE INTERESTED IN ALUMINUM PLANT IN CANADA

Will Spend $400,000,000 in Next Three Years.—Site Now Wilderness.
The Baltimore Sun Monday carried an interesting special story from Toronto, Canada, relative to the making of Shipshaw, at present a clearing in the wilderness, the site of a great aluminum works, in which James B. Duke, of New York and North Carolina, and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and Arthur Vining Davis, president of the Aluminum Corporation of America, are interested. The Aluminum Corporation of America owns the aluminum plant at Padin. Mr. Duke and the Price interests have a great power development at Grand Discharge and the power interests will thus find a market for their million horsepower with the development of the aluminum works at Shipshaw. It is evident, according to the Baltimore Sun story, that the Duke-Price interests and the Mellon-Davis interests have become industrial bedfellows.

Away From The Crowds!

America is still undiscovered, still waiting to be discovered—by you! Away from the paved highways, deep in the hidden solitudes—are shady groves fragrant with the scent of flowers—sun-drenched valleys—lazy streams—or hurrying brooks as besift your mood. Waiting to please you with their untouched charms. Take your Ford and venture forth into the delights of the unknown. Leave the beaten path to others. Go where you will—whether the road is paved or not.

It is the car of the true adventurer; the car that no going—be it sand, dirt or rocky road—can halt; the car that will take you safely, certainly and happily to where nature hides her true loveliness.
