Do not Look Back—No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.—Luke 9:62.

LEAVING IT TO THE LAW.
Calling attention to the four or five assaults by negroes on white women within the State in recent weeks, and the fact that no attempt was made by mobs to "get" the negroes, The Charlotte Observer says the patience of the State has been put to the test, and the State has so far proved "mob-proof."

After pointing out that in each case the negro suspected of the assault has been turned over to the State for safe-keeping and trial, The Observer says "a situation of this kind could exist in no State except one in which respect for the law is established to a point even beyond that of extreme provocation. We will hear nothing of these assault cases in the Northern papers, while, on the other hand, if a single lynching had developed out of them, the big headlines would have been brought into play the country over. Isn't it so? The assault on a woman is not news; the lynching that might follow is. The patience of the State has been put to the test, and the State has so far proved mob-proof."

These are the reasons the people of the State are leaving these cases to the law. We have made our officers and courts function properly in regard to these cases at least, and when such a case is reported the public confidently awaits the justice of the court.

WHAT WILL THE CROPS BE LIKE.
There seems to be some uncertainty in this county now as to the outcome of the cotton and other crops. In some sections, where the drought has been more pronounced cotton and corn have made no headway, but it is reported that in sandy and "black jack" lands the crops will be good.

The drought has been very severe in some sections and not only are the crops dried up, but trees are dying from lack of moisture. Red lands, unable to retain moisture like the sandy and "black jack" lands, have not been sufficiently wet to produce good crops and this means some farmers will produce little cotton while his neighbor maybe, will have a fair crop.

Final statistics probably will show that more cotton was planted in Cabarrus this year than last year, and last year's acreage was about 20 per cent over that of the year before. The increased acreage in this county is not expected by some persons to bring a bigger yield by reason of the poor condition of the crop in some localities.

The boll weevil has done practically no damage to the crop in this county so far. One of the largest farmers in

Statement From Dr. P. P. McCain

Editor Daily Tribune, Concord, N. C.
Dear Sir:—Some phases of the Sanatorium situation recently discussed in the public press have been misunderstood and for the sake of clarity I wish you would give full publicity to the following statement:

The recent ruling of the board of directors of the North Carolina Sanatorium limiting the stay of patients at the Sanatorium to eighteen months became necessary, not for lack of maintenance funds, but for lack of room in the institution to care for the large numbers who are applying for treatment.

Neither will the patients who will leave the institution as a result of this ruling be a menace to the public at large or to the other members of the households or institutions to which they go. Patients who have been in a well-run sanatorium for even a few weeks have learned not only what precautions they should take, but have practiced these necessary precautions until they do so automatically.

There are at this date 140 patients in our waiting list whose condition is such that they can be restored to health, if they can get treatment soon. The Sanatorium is a training school as well as a hospital. The few patients affected by this ruling who cannot afford to go to private sanatoria or who do not have homes to which to go, can get the essentials of treatment in their county homes—rest in bed and nourishing food—and will not be a menace to others.

PRISONER ESCAPES, LEAVING ON WOODEN LEG
Artificial Member Chained and Locked to Leg of Another Prisoner for the Night.

Winston-Salem, Aug. 19.—T. H. Ward, a one-legged man, was sentenced in the municipal court to a term on the county roads. For a time he made a model prisoner and was made a trusty but had barely been given any privileges when he disappeared. Later he was taken back to the camp. Last night he again disappeared and when the officer visited the room in which he was supposed to sleep nothing was seen of the prisoner but his wooden leg.

It is said that in order to keep the prisoners from leaving that chains are used and two of the men locked together and it is reported that in hurriedly locking the feet of the prisoners last night the wooden leg of the man was securely fastened to another prisoner and later in the night he had only to unstrap the wooden leg and make his way from the camp.

There are few men who can boast that they have a race course in their "back yard," so to speak, but the Duke of Richmond can do so, for the famous Goodwood course is on his estate in Sussex and but a short walk from his mansion. It has been said that, even on a moderate estimate, the Duke derives about $100,000 a year from the race meeting.

DO 60 YEARS MEAN OLD AGE?
Some Say "Yes," Some Say "No"—Doctors and Scientists Claim Old Age May Be Controlled.

During the past few years, most of us have read a great deal about "old age"—when and why it comes—and various ways to control it. Old age comes to some people in early middle life. In other cases, it seems to be a long way off even at 50—so you see, a mere passing of 50, 60 or even 70 birthdays does not mean old age. Regardless of how old you are—How You Feel and How You Act—are the only reliable "measuring sticks" of Age!

And "How you feel and act" is largely governed by your Nerve Force—that "vital spark" that gives endurance, ambition and power to do things in a big and worthwhile way. Whether you are 40, 50 or 70, if your nerves are on edge, frazzled and jangled—if you lack the ambition and energy to do things, or the power to carry them through—if the work and pleasures that used to be a joy are beginning to be a bore—you will soon know the full meaning of "old age" unless you build up your nerve force now—at once!

For this particular purpose—for depleted nerve force, lack of strength, energy, sleeplessness, worry, despondency, and signs of premature old age—the Ironux discovery of a well known Virginia chemist has brought joy and feeding of youthful strength and vigor to many, many thousands. One well known Norfolk man says, "Since taking Ironux, I have felt better than anytime in 20 years." A Richmond dentist says, "Ironux changed me from a sickly part-time worker to a strong, healthy, happy man—who knows life is worth living!"—and so it goes, hundreds of reports of a similar nature all praising the powers of Ironux. This is remarkable evidence!

SYNOPSIS
Bob Wilson, engineer running out of water City, is so surprised when he goes to the station lunch room for breakfast one morning to find a new and particularly attractive waitress here that he stays ten minutes over and is sent for by the yardmaster. Caroline Dale is no less interested in him, especially when she learns that until recently he was a tramp, and she joins the rest of the boys all say. Started in as a fireman, but Bolts Morran promoted him in jig time. I heard he was offered a chance to go in the construction department at Frisco, but he just laughed.

"I had a friend once," she said in a tight, cracked voice. "Looked something like Bob Wilson, too, but there was nobody to save the tain on his night—and the Gorge took him. That was twelve years ago."

Caroline was glad of an interruption at this juncture in the shape of a hungry brakeman. Later, when he was able to idle once more as he cashier's counter, the quicksands of Miss Trisk's emotions had turned up a mellowly informative and tidily strain.

"It's kinda sad as well as secret about that Bob Wilson," she confided. "He's such a nice, quiet, well-humored fellow, and good-natured too, but no one's ever been able to get close to him except Jim Fowler. Postmaster says he's never got even a post card since he's lived here, and never asks or seems to expect any mail. Lorry, his eyes look so onesome sometimes when he smiles good-morning at you—"

Upon Caroline's declaration of curiosity as to Fowler, Anemone undertook to describe the friendship of Bob and Jim and how it came about. When Anemone put her heart into it the narrative of her gossip could be illuminating; Caroline was spared no detail of the Damon and Pythias friendship of Bob and Jim, or the manner of their bachelor life in the little cottage under the tip of Mrs. O'Leary's wide wing. She started with the courtship of Jim and his wife; thrillingly described the events of the night upon which Bob saved the Limited; and garnished the whole tale with a salady recital of the choicest speculations of Crater City's eligible and scheming females as to the identity and the past of the aloof Bob Wilson.

"Clear out of this yard so fast you melt the rails."

When Miss Trisk had finished, Caroline felt as much in the atmosphere of Crater City's favorite mystery as though she, too, had lived there and known personally of these things through the years.

"And it's the nicest thing how those two fellows care for that kid," she gossiped, in conclusion. "They both seem to love him so much that it's hard to tell who's really the father. Scandal!" she giggled, behind a sly finger. Then, seriously again, "He loves them, too. He calls them 'Daddy Jim' and 'Daddy Bob.' Jim is a mail clerk, you know, and his run is at night—on the Limited; and Bob is mostly away in the day, so it works out smooth. They don't see each other as much as they'd like to, Jim was telling me only a couple of days ago. Everybody in Crater City says no power on earth could ever come between Bob and Jim."

"And Mr. Wilson—is he a mail clerk, too?" Caroline asked, innocent of the caste prestige borne by Bob's jumper suit.

"Engineer," said Anemone laconically, "and believe me, he throws a wicked throttle, according to what

COUPLE ARE HELD IN STATESVILLE JAIL

R. M. Kincaid, of Richmond, Va., and Woman Both Under Influence of Liquor Or Drug.
Statesville, Aug. 18.—A man who has been identified as R. M. Kincaid, Richmond, Va., and the woman accompanying him supposed to be his wife are occupying separate cells in the city lock up tonight, both under the influence of liquor or drugs. Kincaid was arrested late this afternoon for passing a $50 worthless check on the Lazenby Montgomery Hardware company, buying some merchandise and getting the difference in cash.

The couple registered today at Vance hotel as J. H. Brown and wife. The woman would not say where her home was but stated that she and the prisoner were married near Hickory last Sunday. She said she was Ninetta Bollinger before she married. The couple were in separate cars at the bus station headed towards Salisbury when arrested about 6:30 this evening. Kincaid confessed to flashing the $50 check and added that he was drunk. A traveling man identified the man as R. M. Kincaid, a machinist, of Richmond, Va.

Tony Rangle, 18-year-old caddie master of a Chicago golf club, is declared to have made a drive of 453 yards under perfectly normal conditions. It is said this constitutes a world's record.

Numismatic Convention.
Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29.—Detroit will be rolling in money during the remainder of this week, but the most of it will not be of the "hale" variety, but of the "green" variety. The coins will be "specimens" of those which the gay blades of ancient Rome piled on the table when they "rolled the bones," or perhaps the pieces of money which the ladies of the Far East carried in their purses when they went shopping centuries before the beginning of the Christian era.
