KIWANIS MEETING

Delightful Music Treat by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.—Farewell to Mr. Scovill.

Kiwanians of the Concord club were given a delightful treat at the regular meeting Friday noon at the Y. M. C. A. in the musical program rendered by Prof. and Mrs. Johnson, of New York, who are in Concord conducting singing school at the First Baptist Church.

The business session of the club did not produce anything of a business nature for the club to act upon. Breward Harris, the president, announced to the club that Kiwanians Charles Scovill was present at the meeting for his last time before moving from Concord to Minneapolis, Minn., and called on Lee Crowell to deliver a farewell oration. Lee responded with a very appropriate talk, which concluded by presenting a token of esteem to the Kiwanian who will soon leave. Kiwanian Scovill told the Kiwanians of the pleasant years he had spent in Concord, and declared he would never leave were it not for the fact that the repeated call for his services in the teaching field had been so urgent that it could not be disregarded longer.

The entertainment program, arranged by Gilbert Hendrix, was a most pleasing one, consisting of several vocal selections by Prof. Johnson, followed by Mrs. Johnson, the accompaniments being rendered by Mrs. Nell Herring Correll at the piano. The Kiwanians by their spontaneous encores expressed their delight at the splendid music rendered by these two artists.

The attendance prize, given by Gilbert Hendrix, was drawn by Noel K. Reid. The silent boost was given by Gilbert Hendrix.

The program for the meeting on next Friday noon will be in charge of Morrison King.

SIGNALS WITH BELLS WORK AT CHARLOTTE

Some Complaint About Noise But the Bells Are Still in Use.—No Left Hand Turn.

Charlotte, Aug. 21.—The electric traffic control system in use in Charlotte for the past 18 months or two years has proven satisfactory, according to city officials, who say that without such a system control of the daily growing traffic problem would be well-nigh impossible.

The system employed here is on the same general principle as that now in vogue in a number of other North Carolina towns and cities.

Traffic is controlled by means of a light and bell machine or instrument placed over the middle of street intersections on Trade and Tryon streets, the principal business thoroughfares of the city.

When first installed there was some objection to the noise created by the signal bells, this coming from persons living immediately on the streets and from hotels and rooming houses. City officials and a number of automobile drivers with whom the bell signal was discussed approve the idea, pointing out that it is beneficial in that it gives drivers actual warning to be on their lookout when approaching intersections at which the controls are located. The opinion was expressed by several that a part of the efficiency of the system would be lost should the bell be discarded.

Abolition of all left turns on main streets here has done as much or more than any other one thing to simplify the traffic problem and prevent the worrisome and troublesome jams.

The one hour parking law, strictly enforced, and no parking on certain restricted streets also makes the matter of traffic control more easy.

The Charlotte police department employs a large number of traffic officers and an officer is in the vicinity of one of the busy corners at all times to see that the "no left turn" rule is not violated and to prevent any possibility of a jam from any cause.

The only kick heard on Charlotte's traffic control system was that the lights are hard to see from a majority of the present-day makes of automobiles, being at such an elevation that the top of the machine comes in the line of vision.

BEN SHARPE APPOINTED DRY LAW ADMINISTRATOR

Gets Place in Face of Much Opposition From South Carolina.—Headquarters at Charlotte.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The treasury department today announced formally the names of the new federal district administrators, who are to be made responsible in their territories for the enforcement of prohibition. As prophesied some time ago, Ben C. Sharpe, is the person, and Charlotte is the place, for the enforcement of the dry laws in the new district comprised of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

It is understood that a very determined fight for the recognition given to Mr. Sharpe was made by Director Coltrane, of Salisbury, and by Director Grandy, of South Carolina. The Grandy supporters came forward with the argument that North Carolina should not be given both the administrative and the administrative offices, but those familiar with conditions countered with the claim that adequate federal space had not been found in South Carolina and Georgia, and that a lot more federal business, of the kind involved, was done in North Carolina than in either of the other two states.

To make a choice between Sharpe and Coltrane may have caused a measure of embarrassment in certain quarters, but it is said for the former that as divisional chief he looked after a large territory, and that his duties were in some respects more comprehensive than those contemplated in the office of state director. Sharpe had made a good executive officer, it was explained, and it had been determined to give him a still larger field of service. His salary will be $7,500, and there can be no longer any doubt about the relative importance of his job.

He will be responsible for what goes on in three states, the Carolinas and Georgia, and it will be his province to hire and fire men. There will be two deputy administrators in the state, the eastern and western federal judicial districts, and it has been assumed here that Mr. Coltrane will be offered, and that he will accept, one of these positions. In other words, Mr. Coltrane, as an unkind fate would have it, must now go to the new $7,500 official, Ben Sharpe, and ask for a job which will pay him $4,800. It was not known here today who would be likely to receive the position of deputy administrator in the eastern district.

BUS SCHEDULES TO BE REVISED

Six More Round Trips Requested in Addition to 13 Now in Effect; Problem Presented.

Raleigh, August 21.—Charlotte-Greensboro bus line operators were before the corporation commission for the second time within a month today seeking a revision of operating schedules and a greater number of through runs. While apparently favoring the action of the commission in a recent order reducing the through service from a 30-minute to an hourly schedule, each of six lines sought the addition of one or more round trips to its allotment, a request which, if granted, would probably necessitate the re-called on Lee Crowell to deliver a farewell oration. Lee responded with a very appropriate talk, which concluded by presenting a token of esteem to the Kiwanian who will soon leave. Kiwanian Scovill told the Kiwanians of the pleasant years he had spent in Concord, and declared he would never leave were it not for the fact that the repeated call for his services in the teaching field had been so urgent that it could not be disregarded longer.
