WISCONSIN WOMEN CONCORD VISITORS

Four Two Thousand Miles Alone to Spend Week With Relatives in Cabarrus County.

Additional proof has been given to the theory that woman is no longer dependant on man. Five women and a small boy have recently completed a motor trip from Fondulac, Wis., to Concord, a distance of over two thousand miles.

The trip was made entirely by automobile. The party camped out each night and stopped at suitable places to prepare the meals.

Making the tour were Mrs. Spencer Tynan, sister-in-law of Mrs. D. E. Tucker, of Cabarrus County, Mrs. Tynan's small child, Mrs. Martha Osinger, Mrs. Amy McCarthy, Miss May Redlinger and Miss Margaret Tynan. They declare that they were interviewed constantly along their route and that at Washington, they were photographed as well as interviewed. It is their first trip south and they are delighted with their visit to Concord.

They have been shown over Concord and on Friday were taken to Charlotte, where they took in all the sights. They expect to return to Wisconsin on Monday.

It required eleven days to journey from Wisconsin to Concord, their tour being made in an Overland Touring car.

TEACHERS MEET THIS MORNING AT HIGH SCHOOL

Superintendent Webb Does Not Expect an Enlarged Enrollment This Year.—Same Number of Teachers.

With the teachers' meeting for the high school faculty held this morning at 11 o'clock, the school year in Concord was officially opened. Another meeting is to be held this afternoon when the teachers of all the schools will gather for a general session.

With the exception of W. A. McAuley, who has been attending the school for coaches at Chapel Hill, the entire faculty of 43 white teachers were present. Mr. McAuley finished his work at Chapel Hill this morning and will arrive in the city late tonight.

The attendance this year will probably not be appreciably greater than it was last year, it was declared by Supt. A. S. Webb this morning. The school census gave practically the same number and there has been no increase in the faculty. The enrollment is expected to be around 2,200 white children and 300 colored children.

Teachers have been busy during the past few days getting ready for the approaching season. The out-of-town teachers have had work of getting settled in their new homes.

Judge Oglesby Commended by Davidson Bar

Davidson county lawyers joined in passing a resolution of commendation for the conduct of Judge John M. Oglesby, of Concord, the State's newest regular superior court judge, who held his first court in this county last week. This action is significant, it was pointed out by Attorney Emery E. Raper, president of the county bar association, in that it is one of the very few times such a thing has been done here. Both Mr. Raper and Attorney J. R. McCarty, who drafted and read the resolution to the court Saturday just before adjournment, paid high compliment to Judge Oglesby and declared this action to be fitting and exceptionally well merited.

A copy of the resolution signed by the members of the bar was presented to the judge. It reads as follows: "That we commend the way in which Judge John M. Oglesby conducted the August Term of the Superior Court of Davidson. He ex-pedit business and was fair and able in all his rulings. His patience and affable manner pleased both the attorneys and the public. His sentences were just, yet firm, and this bar gladly bears witness to the fact that his conduct and bearing pleased both the bar and the large number of people in attendance at court."

Some girls are so unlucky. Chicago man was run over by an auto the day before his wedding.

And two bricklayers fell 40 feet in Chicago. But this is no sign the pay is coming down.

Some people hope every day will be Sunday by and by, and others are afraid that it will.

Here's some striking news for today. About 5000 matches are lighted every second in the United States.

No Thanks, Please.

Greensboro News. Mr. Everett of the department of state thinks that North Carolina will offer Manufacture W. B. Cole a "vote of thanks" when the facts in the killing of William W. Ormond are made known.

The Daily News has no facts and therefore no opinion in the Cole case. If it were possible to have the truth now, editorial discussion of a matter so important but in the courts would be out of order. But his paper devoutly hopes that Mr. Everett and those who feel as he does will leave off the doxology if the trial ends in acquittal.

For North Carolina's murderous record needs no song setting. We have become so adept in the art of killing men that there is a great temptation to boast of it; but not yet, Mr. Everett. A state which furnishes more homicides than the entire British Isles doesn't need any cheer leader during the frolic or after. A commonwealth which has a thousand firetraps for its school children daily is indifferent enough to human lives without glorifying one who slays another, even though the slain be Beezub himself.

Gilbert Keith Chesterton has observed that George Bernard Shaw really isn't opposed to war, but rather to "war songs." North Carolina can make a better pretense of horror over its murderous enmity if it refrains from murder songs. Let us leave off the vote of thanks to Mr. Cole. Our homicidal habits are not exactly the thing to be advertising now.

Nose on Man's Face no Plainer.

Charlotte Observer. The Salisbury Evening Post takes issue with The Observer when the latter charges that there has been an effort to discredit Governor Morrison and his administration. "The Post agrees that the former Governor is more popular today than while Governor of North Carolina, but says the "former Governor and his best friend The Observer are imagining some things that do not exist."

Here steps in The Stanly News-Herald with observation that maybe what The Post contends is so, but it avers, "if there has not been a cold-blooded, clear-cut and systematic campaign on in certain circles to discredit Morrison, then we must confess that our knowledge of the ways of politics is doubly less than nothing, and we fail to understand why it has not been plain to all." The man who cannot see it has kept his eyes shut to the course of State politics as played at Raleigh for almost a year past. The movement in attempted undermining of Morrison has been conducted openly and above board. It is a circumstance that has been stored up in the minds of people in every county in the State.

Man, the Master.

Editor New York Mirror: On the same page in which "An American Wife" roundly denounces me, I observe a letter signed "Soundly Spanked Wife." The second lady confesses that her husband gave her two spankings with a hair brush, spaking her the first time because she fibbed to him and the second time because she remained sullen after the first spanking.

My hearty and honest congratulations to the husband of "Soundly Spanked Wife." I did not think such men could be found in America today. I had imagined all men here must be like the husband of the lady who signs herself "American Wife," permitting their women all sorts of liberties and aggressions.

In Turkey, where we have the bastinado over his own divorce, like what Pasha did recently, our women are humble, obedient and lovable. There is nothing like a few light lickings to restore common sense to a woman. This is a man's world and man is or should be the master always. ABDUL ZEFRIZ.
