IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

ONLY SIX DEATHS IN CONCORD IN AUGUST
Fifteen Births Reported by Three Physicians.
Only six deaths were reported in Concord during August, a new low record for the present year, according to figures compiled by W. M. Sherrill, registrar of vital statistics for the city, who pointed out in his report, however, that several other deaths, unofficially reported, were not included in his total.
Of the six deaths reported, a majority were caused by heart trouble, the figures show. Only one stillborn babe was reported during the month.
Twenty-seven births were reported during the month to Mr. Sherrill and of this total fifteen were for August. It was pointed out in the report that only three physicians and two midwives had reported births to Mr. Sherrill and the total undoubtedly would have been larger had all of the physicians in the city submitted their reports.
Birth statistics reported for July showed almost even break between boy and girl babies and the same holds true for August. Of the twenty-seven babies reported fourteen were male.
Only one illegitimate child was born in the city during the month, according to the report, the mother of this child being a colored woman.
Five of the twenty-seven babies reported were colored and one colored person was included in deaths.

Colonel Bingham Eighty-seven.
The following from Sunday's issue of The Asheville Times will be of interest to the many friends of Col. Bingham in this section:
"The 87th birthday anniversary of Col. Robert Bingham was celebrated Saturday afternoon at the home on Birmingham Heights of his daughter, Mrs. R. T. Crisman, with his other daughter, Mrs. S. Reid McKee, also receiving. Many friends of the colonel had been invited to call and many expressions of the esteem in which he is held in the community were offered. For many years Colonel Bingham has been the leading spirit in the military school which takes his name. A large number of out-of-town friends were among the invited guests.
"Neither his son, Judge Robert Worth Bingham, nor any of his family, from Louisville, Ky., were present, though Judge Bingham had hoped to be here. He is much improved from a recent operation for appendicitis and is at Upper Saranac, N. Y.
"A most attractive cake, about 30 inches in diameter, was sent to Colonel Bingham by his son, Judge Bingham. Mrs. Auspice Sherman, of New York City, served at the punch table, being assisted by Miss Marjorie Pearson, Misses Martha and Sadie Temple McKee, and later two grand-daughters of Colonel Bingham.
"The cake was handsomely iced, and on the top was a cornucopia which was filled with various fruit shapes made of candy."

Jazz Music Assailed.
The Pathfinder.
The woman's bureau of the Washington police department would like to ban jazz music. It thinks the syncopated strains demoralizing to the city's young people. Lieut. Mina Van Winkle finds that the same law enacted by Congress prohibiting teaching of disrespect to the Bible in a district school also contains a clause forbidding "music of an indecent character." She wants this ban extended to cover jazz.
"Jazz puts thoughts in the minds of listeners that shouldn't be there," says Mrs. Van Winkle. "It refers to that tom-tommy sort of Oriental music that makes men forget home and babies. Modern jazz has Oriental music beat for suggestiveness and indecency. Desert natives would be shocked to see the way our boys and girls hug each other and vibrate to the tune of jazz."
Sergeant Rhoda Milliken, of the same bureau, goes a step farther. She says "any music played on a saxophone is immoral."
As a result the police have been instructed to train their ears to detect "indecent music." But Detective Tulley rises to defend jazz. "Persons with evil thought may take the wrong view of an emotional piece, but why blame the music?" he queries.
The controversy has led C. E. Grant, Portsmouth, Va., pipe organ builder, to challenge the capital policemen to submit a saxophone demonstration to a "tried and true" jury to see if the music is degrading. "It is not the tone quality which is degrading," he asserts, "but the slovenly interpretation of feeling which the instrument is made to bring out."

Seventeen Known Dead in Washington Flood.
Wenatchee, Wash., Sept. 7.—Twelve bodies had been recovered today and five known dead still were missing, as a result of a cloudburst in the Squillichuck mountains Saturday evening, which sent a flood over South Wenatchee.
That other deaths may have resulted was indicated when parts of half a dozen automobiles parked in the tourist camp at Apple Yard, were found scattered in the debris.
The belief here was expressed of a possibility that other motorists may have been buried on the Snake Road, which leads from Wenatchee Heights.

In the early days of golf in America it was the custom to paint rings of different colors on the sticks in order to distinguish them, for the players of those days were not so familiar with the variation between the putter and the driver as they are in these times. The golf clubs of the old days were fearful and wonderful things, and four sticks were a good load for any caddie.

MAP IS UNJUST TO BIG SECTION
Northwest Stirred Up Because of Omission From Chart.
Jefferson, Sept. 7.—The map of North Carolina, published recently by many of the leading daily newspapers of the State, to advertise North Carolina and its products, has aroused a great deal of resentment in this big apple in the vicinity of the "State of Wilkes" and left the entire western section of the State as if it were as barren as the Sahara desert.
This week's Northwestern Herald, published here, has a leading editorial with the title "Page the Artist," which says in part:
"The artist evidently did not know that here in the mountains or western North Carolina is great cattle and sheep country, a great cabbage and potato country. He was evidently ignorant of the fact that lumbering and mining are important industries up here and that the greatest summer resort business in the South and one of the greatest in the entire country is in the mountains of Western North Carolina. To the artist, even the city of Asheville has nothing worthy of mention on such a map."
"But probably all this can be accounted for by the four words over the so-called map—"A Dream Come True"—For anyone who could draw the mountains of Western North Carolina as barren and desolate must have drawn them from a dream."

"Water" in a Public Well at Richland Catches on Fire.
Kinston, Sept. 7.—"Water" in a public well many years old in the main street at Richland caught fire Saturday evening when a lighted match was dropped near it. The blaze continued to burn until the level of the well's contents was dropped several inches. "Firing the well" was a community pastime yesterday and today.
"Dynamite" Wilkins, famous expert, was called. Wilkins said the inflammable fluid did not look like commercial oil and admitted he was baffled. No leak from filling stations could be found.

When you step out to buy a tire—and much as we hate to do it, it's got to be done every once in awhile—what do you want? What you want is a tire that will get you back on the road again and keep you going for a long, long time. So, as long as you've got to buy a tire, you want something good and you want it at the right price. COMMISSIONERS MEET

Give Attention to Finances for Concord-Mt. Pleasant Road—Routine Matters.
A suggestion relative to settling the dispute between the county and the town of Mt. Pleasant about the cost of the paved road through that town, was the most important question presented to the commissioners at their September meeting at the court house Monday.
Commissioner J. M. Hartsell moved, and Commissioner J. R. Helitz seconded the motion, that if the town of Mt. Pleasant will pay $20,000 within forty days from September 7th, the county will pay the remainder of the cost of the road through that town. This suggestion is a compromise one as the county originally contended that Mt. Pleasant should pay about $36,000.
It was decided by the board to equip a toilet in the court house for the use of female employes in the building. This will be in addition to the public toilet already in the building.
Adjourns for the October term of Cabarrus County Superior Court were drawn by the commissioners at the meeting.

Interesting Meeting at Methodist Protestant Church.

The special meeting continues at the Methodist Protestant Church with much interest. Rev. Mr. Bethea is at his best these evenings and the congregation is exceptionally attentive and responsive. Last night the service was good, with delightful singing and visible results of the efforts put forth in the name of the Master. A good number both of the younger and the older ones are pledging their lives to the church and to Christ.
A feature of the work this week that is proving of much value is the daily Bible reading. Each evening a collection is taken of the number of chapters which have been read since the previous meeting. Hundreds of Bible chapters have been read by practically every person who comes to the services. It is hoped that the entire book may be read before the campaign closes or its equal number of chapters. The meeting will continue some days yet with services at 7:30 each evening.
The new church bulletin board is here and will be placed on the lawn immediately. This will add greatly to the attractiveness and efficiency of the local church.

DREADFUL PAINS

Georgia Lady, Who Had Lost Too Much Weight, Was Advised to Take Cardui and Is Now Well.

Columbus, Ga.—Mrs. George S. Hunter, of this city, writes:
"After I married, thirteen months ago, I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides during... My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay some times two weeks at a time. I could not work and I just dragged around the house."
"I got very thin—I went from 126 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had long been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve."
"My side hurt less and I began to improve in health.... The Cardui acted as a fine tonic and I do not feel like the same person. I am so much better. I am well now. I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all."
"I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui." NO-160

Two Fire-Fighters Burn to Death in the Forest.

Maryville, Tenn., Sept. 7.—Two men have lost their lives fighting forest fires near the camp of the Babcock Lumber company, in the Smoky mountains of Monroe county, it became known today. They are William Graves and Frank Copinger. They were trapped in a fresh outbreak of flames after the fire had apparently been brought under control.

J. P. Murphy, superintendent of the lumber company, went to the scene with a rescue party late today. Eight families were rescued when their homes were destroyed by the fire. Thousands of dollars of damage has been caused by the flames.

O'Leary has been engaged in pedestrianism for over fifty years and during that time he estimates that he has covered something like 200,000 miles in contests and exhibitions. This last strenuous contest was at Cincinnati in 1907, when he walked 1,000 miles in 1,000 hours.
