CAN SEE NO CALL FOR AN EXTRA SESSION YET

Speaker Pharr and Governor McLean Find No Reason for Special Meeting.

Tom Post in Greensboro News. Raleigh, Sept. 10.—Speaker Edgar W. Pharr, of the lower 1025 house, after visiting Governor McLean today admitted that he and the executive can see no call for a special session of the general assembly.

For that matter nobody was asking for the meeting. Sundry statesmen had prophesied that in time the first McLean legislature will come back to Raleigh to patch up the state's affairs. There is time a plenty yet, however, and Mr. McLean moved further from this session and Mr. Pharr shows himself a better companion than Lansing was to Wilson. The Mecklenburg man's mind goes with the chief.

They stand by the 1925 record and believe that it appeals to the state. Mr. Pharr found himself down from the chair at times and standing up to contend on the floor for causes of economy. In time he believes the verdict of the mass will be more strongly for the work of the 1925 session than it was when the assembly adjourned. This is the judgment of Commissioner Doughton, of the revenue department, of Corporation Commissioner Allen J. Maxwell, and of many observers who come to Raleigh to acclaim the administration.

Mr. Pharr's presence today revived special session talk. Recent institutional affairs in the state had emphasized the shortness of money at many places. But these all can be met in the administration's way. It is not thought that there will arise any situation which the council of state cannot meet.

There is another reason, divorced from economics, for keeping the general assembly away from Raleigh. They do talk evolution still.

Mr. Pharr isn't evolutionist, and is an outspoken fundamentalist and deeply religious in his habits. But he can see no place for Poole resolutions. The attitude of Pharr and Representative Zeb Turlington was often contrasted. Each is intensely committed to fundamentalist doctrine. Each is Presbyterian though they may not have the same doctrine in their camps. Each regarded the Poole resolution a "fool resolution," as Mr. Turlington called it. Each is believed to have prayed over his vote—certainly Pharr did. When voting time came Pharr was against the "fool resolution" and Mr. Turlington was for it. The speaker will not be happy to assemble anybody which is going to take up "fool resolutions."

Nobody thought of calling the author of the resolve the same thing that designated his offering. Mr. Pharr, who is not a University of North Carolina man, could not take a cut at that institution with such a bill of indictment as this. Mr. Turlington, who is a University man, could. The evolution business will keep the general assembly away if the balance in favor of economics does not make the session necessary. There will hardly be any chance to get evolution into state politics without a legislative session before that time.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING THURSDAY EVENING

Miss Dorothea Wolf Becomes the Bride of Roy Roy Peery in Impressive Affair.

A wedding, simple but exquisitely beautiful, was solemnized at St. James Lutheran Church Thursday evening at 7 o'clock when Miss Dorothea Wolf, of this city, became the bride of Roy Roy Peery, of Wooster, Ohio.

The church made a lovely setting for the affair. Ferns were banded in profusion at the rear of the chancel on pedestals, and also at the side of the chancel on shorter stands. The green of the ferns was set off by the white of the background.

Lighted candles shed a soft glow over the entire scene. Cathedral tapers were placed in rows on either side of the altar and on the altar, two stately seven-branched candlesticks filled with slender wax lights added to the dignity of the scene.

On the altar, the only decorations were two vases filled with Easter Lilies and ferns.

Prior to the ceremony, Thomas Benton Peery, brother of the groom, sang effectively "At Dawning" by Charles Wakefield Cadman and "Without You," the latter piece a composition of the groom, and dedicated to the bride. He was accompanied by Mrs. J. F. Crigler, of Charlotte, a cousin of the bride.

As soon as the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March were heard, the bridal party entered from the rear of the church.

First to come in were D. W. Robinson, of Columbia, and M. H. Wolf, the ushers.

They took their stand at the front of the church and were followed by the bride's only attendant, Miss Katherine Wolf, the maid of honor.

Miss Wolf was handsome in a gown of blue georgette trimmed in gold lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and ferns.

The groom and his best man, Thos. Benton Peery, entered next at the choir door and stood at the chancel while the bride made her way up the aisle.

She entered on the arm of her father, S. A. Wolf, and was radiant in a gown of real lace over satin made bouffante style, carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. As she reached the first step of the chancel, the groom stepped down and took her arm, leading her to the altar.

There, to the strains of soft music played by Mrs. Crigler, the vows were spoken, the dignified ring ceremony of the Lutheran church being used.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used as the recessional.

Mr. and Mrs. Peery left immediately after the ceremony for Western North Carolina where they will spend several weeks.

Mrs. Peery is one of Concord's most beautiful and talented young women. She was educated at Elizabeth and Lenoir-Rhyne Colleges, receiving a diploma in music. For the past two years she has been employed in Concord as assistant music supervisor in the public schools. She has been a vital factor in the music life of the city, being a prominent member of the music club here.

Mr. Peery is a promising young man, having graduated this year from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music. He is already well-known as a composer, having published a large number of vocal and instrumental numbers. This year he was awarded the prize for the best violin composition in Ohio. He is not only a composer but is an accomplished performer on the violin, piano and pipe organ.

A large number of out-of-town guests were present for the wedding.

Third of An Inch at Asheville, Still Flinging. Asheville, Sept. 10.—The unprecedented drought in this section was broken here today when 333-1000 of an inch of rain fell during the afternoon and up to 8 o'clock tonight. The rain continued to fall after 8 o'clock and indications were that it would continue to rain during the night.

The rain began this afternoon about 2 o'clock and continued at intervals during the remainder of the day.

This is the heaviest rain that has occurred here since May, and is the first precipitation since August 20th when 9-100 of an inch was recorded.

The rain was more or less general in this section. Reports show rain at Murphy, Brevard, Marshall, Tyrone and Weaverville. Telephone lines to Lenoir, Newton, and Burnsville are reported out of order.

MORRISON DENIES AIM TO HIT McLEAN REGIME

Will Have Statement on Deficit for Publication in Sunday Papers. Charlotte, Sept. 10.—Former Governor Cameron Morrison tonight issued the following statement: "I hope to send to the newspapers tomorrow, for publication Sunday morning, an article on the alleged State deficit which I think will contain information the people of this state ought to have."

"In some ways there seems to be an impression that I am to make a somewhat sensational attack upon the administration of Governor McLean. I have, of course, no such purpose, but I do think it is important that the people of the state should have full information upon which my contention about the deficit is based."

"The statement of Auditor Durham is subject to large credits which the records of his office do not under the law, carry."

"I hope the article will be worthy of the attention of the people of the state, though I cannot let them look for some sensational attack upon Governor McLean in order to excite attention to it."
