Forsakes Art to Be an Evangelist

G. Wright Lankford in Raleigh News and Observer. Harmony, Sept. 12.—It is estimated that 400 people rededicated their lives to the cause of Christ or were newly converted to the Christian religion during the union revival meeting which closed here this week. Mac Long, son of the late Judge B. F. Long, was the evangelist, and Mr. Long led the work that resulted in what the people say was the greatest revival in the history of North Ireland county.

Mr. Long is only 37 years of age, but his friends here and in Statesville, the county seat of Iredell, compare him already with Billy Sunday and Cyclone Mack. He is a young man who studied art in New York City and in Europe under the greatest artists of the world. With the possibility of a great career before him as an artist, Mac Long gave up art, took his Bible and has been preaching the Christian religion far and wide since 1922. He is now pastor of the Vineville Presbyterian church of Macon, Ga., but devotes much time to evangelism. He hopes to spend all of his time in such work and his friends urge him to do this. They point out that Mr. Long's flow of language is comparable with the greatest evangelists in America today and that his meetings, although on a smaller scale than those conducted by more famous preachers, are as successful by comparison.

Revival County-Wide. The Harmony revival, which was really an Iredell county revival, was unusual in several respects. In the first place, four rural churches of different denominations joined hands and worked for the cause for which Mac Long preached. Mr. Long organized the community into groups of personal workers under his own direction and the crowd averaged at least 1,000 people each night in the campaign. In the second place, seven or eight hundred of these were able to pack into the Harmony Methodist church's auditorium, where the meetings were held, and the others sat or stood outside on the church lawn to hear the young evangelist wage his war against sin.

Attacks Darrow. Early in the course of his campaign Mr. Long hurled broadside attacks at Clarence Darrow, agnostic, who defended Scopes in the famous evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn. Mr. Long said the greatest enemy to religion and civilization in the world today was Clarence Darrow and men like him. He praised the work of William Jennings Bryan in the fight at Dayton and then said he had a personal friend who sat in the Chicago court room while Darrow defended Loeb and Leopold, youthful murderers of Bobbie Franks. He said that any man who would defend such men was unfit to associate with decent people.

Enemies Become Friends. Many people here consider Mac Long's personal work the greatest factor in his success with revivals. He began work as an evangelist here two years ago. This year he went out and continued his practices of that time. He went to see all the men and women could who did not believe in Christ. He brought quarreling neighbors together and community feuds were settled in church before the public. Officers of the law who thought they had been mistreated publicly forgave all alleged wrongs and asked forgiveness for any wrongs people held against them. Such was the general trend of affairs throughout the meeting.

Statesville Man. Mac Long's home is in Statesville. Hundreds of Statesville friends came out to hear his powerful sermons. They remarked that Long would never accept credit for anything done in his campaigns, but marveled at his language, the most beautiful ever heard in a local pulpit. His word pictures, they pointed out, were more beautiful than the oil paintings to which he devoted his life before he began preaching.

From friends and an occasional word from Mr. Long it was learned that the young evangelist received two years' college training at Davidson College and that for two and a half years after that he attended the Art Students' League of New York City and painted and studied under great American artists there. Here he was given a scholarship for study in Europe. This was given by Mrs. G. H. Clements, of New York. The first young artist to be given this scholarship was Frank Duveneck, the famous American painter. Mr. Long was the last one to receive the honor.

Studied in Europe. From New York Mr. Long went to London and studied art there under the direction of the internationally famous Hungarian artist, Philip Lazlo. This man was most famous for his portraits, which included work for practically all the royalty of Europe. Mr. Long then studied art in Belgium and finished his work in Europe at Madrid, Spain, where he studied the works of Velasquez at the Prado. He did various work in art until 1922 when he answered the call he had first felt in London as an art student.

Art Cast Aside. With all this training behind him and with what his friends claimed to be unusual talent, Mac Long gave up his youthful profession and became a Presbyterian minister. He served the Front Street Presbyterian church of Statesville first for more than a year, then went to Macon where he has been a regular pastor since.

No one here knows what the future holds for him, but everyone cares. He has endeared himself to the lives of North Ireland people and they are trying to carry on his work. An evangelistic club was formed last night of the services. This club will be composed of captains of the women's and men's teams from the four churches, and all the "professed" Christians who want to join in the work.

Throughout Mr. Long's series of sermons here and in his work in general he strives for three main purposes which he hopes to accomplish. These are: (1) preach the gospel of Christ to the world; (2) defend the Faith or Truth as is in Christ Jesus; and (3)

J. C. VINING SHOTS AT TOM MURPHY IN GREENSBORO

Greensboro Men in Difficulty Over Rental of Apartment. Greensboro, Sept. 15.—Thos. J. Murphy, an attorney of this city, formerly mayor of Greensboro and city manager of High Point, was shot at three times this afternoon by J. C. Vining, a salesman of this city. None of the shots hit Mr. Murphy. Vining, charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, had bond set at $500, with preliminary trial fixed for Wednesday morning.

It seems that the shooting was the result of an argument between Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Vining. The Vining's had an apartment in the home of Mr. Murphy, and the quarrel arose over that. Mrs. Vining said that Mr. Murphy cursed her, Mr. Murphy says that he did not. Mr. Murphy said that he told her to pay the rent and leave, and then Mrs. Vining went after her husband.

The meeting between Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Vining was in the office of Mr. Murphy. A little later Mr. Vining went after Mr. Murphy while Mr. Murphy was in a vacant lot adjoining his office. Mr. Vining went toward him and called him. Mr. Murphy was going toward his car, parked in the lot. Vining then shot three times. Then he went to the police station and surrendered and was placed under bond. Vining, aged 35, operated an automobile washing station in the lot next to the Greensboro patriot, a semi-weekly, of which Mr. Murphy is editor and manager. The whole trouble was concerning the apartment. Mr. Murphy said he did not curse nor upbraid Mrs. Vining, while she said he did.
