Black Snake Hugs Boy Tightly Around Neck

Greenville, Sept. 20.—Mr. W. H. Woolard, a local banker, had a most peculiar experience with a black snake yesterday while on the golf course of the country club. His little son who was acting as caddy for his father in attempting to exchange clubs pulled from the club bag a black snake of more than a yard in length which immediately wrapped himself around the neck of the youngster. After some time the son was finally released and the serpent killed.

Our Phenomenal Growth

North Carolina Christian Advocate. In 1790 Edenton, Washington, New Bern and Wilmington were the only postoffices in North Carolina.

As late as 1812 there was not a newspaper west of Raleigh. In 1787 Charlotte was a village with 276 inhabitants—153 whites and 123 colored. The industries consisted of a saw mill, a flour mill, blacksmith shop and three stores. And this phenomenon of growth was the result of an impetus given the community by establishing the county seat there in 1774 and by the erection of Liberty Academy in 1777. Eighty-five years ago which is within the memory of some people still alive, New Bern had a population of only 3,000, Wilmington 4,747, Fayetteville, 4,285, Raleigh 2,344 and Charlotte was slightly larger than Raleigh, while Greensboro and Salisbury followed close behind the state capital numerically. And these were, at that time, the largest towns in the State.

All others were mere country villages with a few stores, a blacksmith shop or two, and the county seats had a court house, a jail and a whipping post. Is it any wonder that the following became a familiar saying, "North Carolina is a vale of humility between two mountains of conceit—South Carolina and Virginia." But look at the Old North State today. Her chief products are no longer "tar, pitch and turpentine," as the older geographers put it, but in agriculture, in manufacture, and in all lines of commercial progress she occupies a place in the front ranks of the sisterhood of states.

CITY TO CONSTRUCT FREE PARKING GROUND

Vacant Lot in Rear of City Hall to Be Utilized as Space for Automobiles in Future.

City officials decided Monday that the vacant lot behind the city hall would be used in the future as a free parking space and work will be begun immediately putting it in shape for such a use. According to the plans made, the lot will be laid off in regular squares and the parking will be permitted inside of these squares. A fence is also to be constructed on the exterior boundary of the parking ground.

The step of the city officials has been greeted with much enthusiasm by owners of automobiles who find Saturday parking a problem. The increased number of automobiles has made parking difficult and this difficulty has been accentuated by the narrowness of many of the streets. With the new parking ground which is to accommodate over 100 cars, it is hoped that there will be some lessening of the problem.

BURNED WHEN STEAM PIPE BREAKS AT END

J. L. Rimer Has Narrow Escape and Is Badly Scalded at Southern Cotton Oil Company.

J. L. Rimer, superintendent of the Southern Cotton Oil Company, was badly burned Monday afternoon when a pipe broke, sending out a spray of live steam directly on him and endangering his life. The fact that he remembered the way to the door probably saved his life.

According to reports from the mill Rimer had gone in the boiler room to open a valve to let some of the steam out. While he was thus engaged the end of the pipe blew off, sending a spray of muddy water and dirt directly in his face which temporarily blinded him. This was followed by the steam.

Although he was unable to see his knowledge of the room enabled him to grope his way to the door and escape. Medical aid was summoned and it was found that although his burns were painful, they were not serious.

Negro Carried From One Jail to Another, Report

Alvin Mansel, Asheville negro, frightened unmercifully, is being held for safekeeping in this section of the state, shuffling from one jail to another, according to Sheriff W. O. Cochran, who has him in charge for the time being.

The negro was brought here early Sunday morning by Sheriff Mitchell, of Buncombe county, who left Asheville just ahead of a mob of 500, the latter seeking the negro for the alleged criminal attack of a young Asheville lady. He was held in jail through the day here Sunday until 6 o'clock, when Sheriff Cochran received a telegram from Mr. Pennell, of Asheville, asking about the negro. The sheriff took that as a sufficient hint to move his prisoner. He didn't know Mr. Pennell—or what he wanted.

Doubts Guilt

Sheriff Cochran says that he doubts seriously that Mansel knows anything of the crime with which he is charged.

The negro, a young boy, is frightened almost out of his wits, the sheriff says, and is apparently not of the type which would attempt an attack.

The negro told the sheriff that he saw the young lady passing along the street selling flowers, but had no more relation with her than other passers-by. White men, according to newspaper advices, declare that Mansel was working for them two miles away from the scene of the attack at the time it is said to have occurred.

Kerr Street Baptist Revival

If you have not been attending the revival meeting at Kerr Street Baptist Church you have been missing a great blessing. There was a large congregation to greet the singers and preacher again Monday night, and the Power of God was there to save sinners. The very atmosphere was filled with the power of God.

Mr. Fry sang a solo entitled "The Golden Bells." Mr. Payne, the evangelist preached a great sermon from Genesis 32:29. He blessed him there. He said in part:

The main thing that you and I need this night is a blessing from God. The disciples asked Jesus if He would restore the Kingdom to Israel at this time, and Jesus told them that they should receive power when the Holy Ghost had come upon them. What we need today is not greater numbers nor more money, but every sinner needs the Holy Spirit to come into his life.

First, What was Jacob's blessing? Jacob was forgiven of a great wrong. Jacob stole his brother's birthright, and Jacob went in and tried to deceive his father by changing his voice. But he could not receive his father, nor can we deceive God. The greatest blessing that you and I could get tonight is a conscience void of offense toward God and man.

Second, What was the place? It was a place of humble confession. Many people don't want to confess their sins. If we confess our sins God is faithful to forgive us of all our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

Third, Then this was a place of great trial. Listen! Jacob wrestled all night, and some tonight would be blessed if they would wrestle with God. This was an hour of deep need with Jacob.

Fourth, Is there such a place for us to be blessed? Yes, there is a place where we can get a blessing if we are willing to pay the price. So many are not willing to pay the price that their stubborn will keeps them from God. Oh that you might break that will. Jesus said that whosoever will let him come.

Seventh, Come and help us pray for sinners.

A. T. GAIN, Pastor.

Guernsey is often called "England's Glass Island," because of the immense quantity of glass used there in the cultivation of the tomato.

MOTHER CANNOT MARK HER CHILD

Her Activities and What She Sees Have No Effect on the Infant.

Press Service of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association. Many mothers will tell you that they not only can't do. They will cite all kinds of examples, telling you how this one saw an accident and the blood formed a wingshaped pool. When the child was born the next day, it had a birthmark—a red stain just like blood and its shape was that of a butterfly. "It was due to the sight which the mother had witnessed."

Well—it was not! Birthmarks are little tumors made up of blood vessels and they are produced by a defective development of the circulatory system. The excitement the mother may have felt had nothing to do with the matter.

Some mothers say that they are quite sure that because they spent hours at the piano before the baby was born the child was a musician. Others read poetry in the hope that they will make their offspring poets.

Many go to the art galleries to study the paintings in the hope that they will have children famed artists.

Why is it that some mothers who do all these things have common-place children who have no ear for music, no love for poetry, and are bored by art? And why is it that the son of a woman who, by some unfortunate turn in affairs has to scrub floors for a living and has to keep up the work until shortly before the baby arrives, does not have a mop-complex but may be singularly gifted as a sculptor?

Let me tell you something. The moment the two germative cells united, a new life began and its characteristics were all there at that moment. They may be characteristics dominantly of the mother's or they may be those of the father; certainly they will be a mixture of qualities which came down from all the ancestors of both parents. A child may be more like his great-great-grandmother than like either. No matter. He will have inherent talents at the moment of conception and if he is not a member of a family with talent or previously active talent, all the hours spent at the piano will not make him a musician.

What a terrible race of monsters we should have in the world if maternal emotions, aroused by the sights and accidents of the day, or if her activities could "mark" the unborn, helps infant! That it is impossible for a mother to "mark" a child, we should be thankful.

MARRIED WOMAN DECLARES LOYALTY FOR HER LOVER

Weeps When Man She Ran Away With is Carried Off to Roads For Abduction.

Lexington, Sept. 21.—Mary Reid Earnhardt, wife of S. R. Earnhardt, of this city, and mother of a nine-year-old girl, went in jail this morning when Dock Hall, who deserted his wife and children in Thomasville four months ago and went with her to Roanoke, Va., was taken to the county roads to serve two years for abandonment.

She declared her love for the Thomasville man and refused to return to her own people in the county.

Mrs. Earnhardt was held as a material witness here last week after Hall had been bound to superior court on an abduction charge. Relatives and friends offered to provide bail, plead with her to accept freedom, but she declared she preferred to stay in jail near her lover, asserting she was guilty of as much wrong as he.

Railroads and Bus Lines

Philadelphia Record.

The interesting statement presented to the public service commission yesterday by the Reading Company, in which announcement is made of its proposed plan to place busses on the highways to meet existing competition from irresponsible sources, introduces a phase of transportation not familiar hitherto in Pennsylvania, but which has reached an acute stage in some states, especially those of New England. Those acquainted with the anthracite region, where the Reading has a large number of small feeders, which have proved of great value in the development of that territory, will sympathize with it in its declaration that passenger service on these has been seriously affected by the competition of privately-owned busses that it is no longer profitable, and that if the company is to continue to serve the public this can be better done by operating busses of its own on the highways than by running empty trains.

Reference is made in the company's statement to contemplated bus lines connecting Pottsville, Lykens, Tanawana and Mahanoy Plains, where there is a large mining population, and where bus service has already proved very popular. It is difficult to see how any reasonable objection can be made to such a suggestion if the company is to be expected to continue in operation as a passenger carrier. Certainly it can not be forced to run trains that already heavy losers. Either the field must be surrendered entirely to private competitors, or the company must be allowed to adopt a form of transportation that will enable it to give a cheaper service, with fair prospects of profit.

The situation that exists in the Schuylkill region is not comparable, of course, to that in Philadelphia territory, where a heavy commuting population places its chief reliance upon trains. But even here the new competition has been felt, especially in summer, in a way that cuts sharply into the company's revenue. The step proposed by the Reading seems the only logical and sensible one. Other railroads must be allowed to meet new situations as they arise, or they must be relieved from some of the obligations now placed upon them.

The stones making up the royal palaces of Persia, built 2,600 years ago, were cemented together with pitch taken from the same oil seepages which centuries later led to modern oil companies to drill their first wells.

Murder Mystery

W. C. Parris, of New Holland, Ga., has started police officials by saying that five years ago he saw two women killed and their bodies dismembered along the Chattahoochee river near Atlanta. He says the murders were committed by two men and two women and that he withheld the story on account of threats against his life.

Mrs. Ruth Johnson (above), of Jefferson, Ga., partly corroborates Parris' story. He is shown helping police and state convicts dig for the bodies.

COLD WEATHER MAKES CHICAGOANS SHIVER

Sudden Drop in Temperature Puts Middle West in Heavy Clothing.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—A sudden fall in temperature brought heavier clothing into prominence throughout the middle west today as the sun passed through the autumnal equinox. From a peak of 91 Saturday afternoon, the mercury descended to 54 at 6 o'clock this morning in Chicago and at mid-afternoon it had climbed back to 61, in feeble protest against sudden change.

The fall was general in the mid-western state, ending suddenly the brief torrid spell in which the late vacationists basked Friday and Saturday.

Further disturbances in meteorological conditions were apparent through the northwest from the aurora borealis or "northern lights" and a high barometric pressure area enclosing the upper Great Lakes.

Cotton Goods Markets

New York, Sept. 21.—Little activity developed in the cotton goods market today with demand centering upon quick deliveries rather than anticipations. Primary factors described the situation as in every way normal, with frequent difficulty encountered in keeping up with demand. Buying interest was shown in fancy shirtings for spring deliveries, the first development of this kind. Raw silk declined five cents a pound here and 20 yen at Yokohama due to lack of demand. The woolen goods trade awaited the American Woolen company's opening of spring women's wear fabrics Wednesday.
