NEGRO PAPER MAKES APPEAL TO THE SOUTH

Impassioned Plea For Justice Called Forth by Mississippi Lyrching. Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Commenting on the recent burning at the stake of J. P. Ivy in Union County, Mississippi, the Weekly Times, a Negro newspaper published in this city, addresses to the people of the South an impassioned plea for protection and justice.

want punishment meted out by law, the courts. We appeal to the best blood of the South for protection and justice. We appeal to the thousands of white ministers for condemnation of such acts. We appeal to the Governor and all officers of the law for punishment of the guilty. We appeal to every agency for making sentiment, that the ends of justice may be served; and that right quick.

"We do not condone crime," says the editorial. "We want to see every criminal punished to the limit of the law, regardless of color; but we do

LOCAL MENTION

Smith Peacock resumed his work at the Times-Tribune office today after being confined to his home with an infected foot for several days.

The Duke drum corps from Charlotte will be present at the K. of P. meeting here tonight and all Pythians in the city are urged to attend the meeting.

Frank Mund, city building and electrical inspector, reports that during September he issued 21 building permits for work aggregating $31,000, and 20 electrical permits.

The County Council of the Home Demonstration Clubs will meet at the home demonstration office Saturday in a very important meeting in which all members are urged to be present.

The Roberta and Rocky River public schools will open Monday for the 1925-26 term, it was reported this morning at the office of J. B. Robertson, superintendent of county schools. The school buildings are being cleaned and otherwise put in order for the opening.

J. L. Beaver and George B. King has sold to J. H. Briggs for $2750 property in Fairview, according to a deed filed Thursday. Another deed records the sale of property in No. 4 township by John F. Barnhardt and Mrs. M. S. Winecoff to Dallas Crinshaw, for $700.

A meeting of the Fred Y. McConnell post of the American Legion will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Beginning with the meeting tonight the post will meet twice a month during the winter, the first and third Friday nights in each month being chosen as meeting dates.

Fully 400 rooms will be needed to care for visitors here during fair week and persons having rooms for rent at that time are asked to notify Dr. T. N. Spencer. Up to date about 125 rooms have been listed and Dr. Spencer hopes to have the additional 275 by Monday of fair week.

Four defendants are to be tried in court here this afternoon. One is charged with assault with a deadly weapon, two with having liquor in their homes and having liquor for sale and another with transporting liquor. The latter case will be tried before a jury at the request of the defendant.

Dr. T. N. Spencer, secretary of the Cabarrus County Fair Association, was a visitor at the Greensboro Fair Thursday. The fair there is a very creditable one, Dr. Spencer reports, but the attendance was very light, especially in view of the fact that Thursday is usually the biggest day with the Greensboro fair.

There were additional signs of rain here Thursday and again this morning. While a sprinkle fell here Thursday about noon the clouds soon broke up and Thursday night was exceptionally clear. Many farmers hope the rain will not come until cotton is picked while others want rain so they can prepare their ground.

Two football games in the state tomorrow will be of much interest. State and Duke meet at Durham and Wake Forest and Davidson meet at Charlotte. State and Wake Forest have the edge in pre-game dope but Davidson and Duke are expected to furnish real opposition. The game in Charlotte is certain to draw many Concord fans.

Local fair officials were interested in the story from Shelby to the effect that Grace Direct, Penny Brothers' mare which established a new track record here, had been taken to Shelby in the hope that the record can be smashed there. The track there was described as "the fastest in the South." Fair officials are confident the Shelby track is slower than the one here and they do not believe Grace Direct can lower her record on that track.

C. N. Fields, city tax collector, expects to have his tax receipts ready about October 10th. He and B. E. Harris, city clerk and treasurer, have been working on the books for several weeks and they expect to complete work on them about two weeks earlier than usual. While Mr. Fields expects his collections to be light this month, as they usually are in October, he will have the books ready for those who want to pay and get the taxes out of the way.

After a spirited contest against a field of half a dozen opposing candidates, John D. Nolan of Rochester, N. Y., has been re-elected president of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union.

Two of Mysterious Ormond Letters Placed in Record

Rockingham, Oct. 1.—Two of the mysterious letters claimed to have been a main cause of W. B. Cole's shooting Bill Ormond to death here August 15 became public here today at the trial when the defense introduced them through the agency of Elizabeth Cole, the manufacturer's daughter, who Bill Ormond's former sweetheart, who proved Ormond's handwriting.

The letters came in after a hard battle between the opposing lawyers. More letters, it was announced, are to be introduced as opportunity comes.

The first letter introduced was identified by Miss Cole and read to the jury. It was written to her soon after the strangling in October a year ago. It follows:

Letter to Miss Cole. "Dear Libbut:—I am sorry you misunderstood me saying I was the only one could make you happy or insinuate that you would be happy with me. I did not mean that at all—I haven't ability to make you happy, but I can make you otherwise. So when you hand out those 'I don't love you' and about the plans being 'a thing of the past' you did not enlighten me any. I have known that since the first of August, and I see now why you did not ever want me to talk to your daddy, and what you told me the last time we parted was only a bluff to keep me from going to him then. You have been telling him one thing and me another, and bluffing me since October 5th. I wish I could interpret things like people that had good minds at the right time.

"Why haven't I the right to tell you one thing and do another? I could not see any scheme other than the one played against me, which was very evident from several viewpoints and at all places.

"And you want things to stay as they are—it's fine as long as you have the upper hand, but when the time comes from me to put my cards on the table, you want to beg off—I think just about as much of you now as you do of me. You don't care a snap for my feelings or anything else—so why shouldn't I have a say-so, as you have had yours? Yes, it's something driving me as it was you—isn't that fair also?

"I do not blame you for not loving me any more. I regret having such a horrible temper, but why is it so you can answer that absolutely—and I hope that will be the next thing that goes out of my life.

"I can say sincerely that I do not love you, either; am glad I found you out before it was too late.

"Sincerely, "BILL ORMOND." "Watch my smoke." The next letter was written to W. B. Cole from Ormond, written at a time which caused the letter to reach the Cole home on the celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Cole, last February 14, according to the daughter's testimony. The letter follows:

Letter to Cole. "Dear Mr. Cole: "You have received two letters from me. One was as nice as I knew how to write, and no attention was paid to it. The other was written with no hard feelings. I simply tried to let you know the relation that had existed between your daughter and myself. Realizing as I do just her position I think it nothing but right and just to her and your family for me to clear my skirts as a man, by making this my last effort to inform you of our relations and leave the matter with you. I am honest in coming to you, and all my statements are true from my heart, I will feel better knowing that I have been honest with you.

"There is no hatred or malice at all on my part toward you or any of the family, but when I see Libbut's future and your home at stake it does not make me mad when you all treat me with contempt, but I have a feeling of pity knowing what might happen if the facts were uncovered, it is for your family I am writing this. I haven't any hard feelings toward you for this, but still you do not realize what you have done to her. I am only pleading for her sake. What would she feel like marrying some one after we have had relations as man and wife for over a year? She would be miserable all her life as she is now. I know she is putting up a bold front, but down in her heart she does not know what to do, and you need not be surprised at what she might do.

"It is for your sake that I am giving the facts in the case. If we had not done what we have through devoted love for each other, I would have dropped the matter when she told me, but I think enough of the family to save it from exposure.

"In your estimation I know what you think of me but it was not all together my fault. 'Bill, I love you enough to do anything and we are going to get married soon.' 'Do you think I would do this if I did not love you Bill.' As I see it we have committed no sin except to society.

"You did not show her the first letter I wrote you. I doubt if you had the heart to heart talk with her. I would be glad to know that the weight on her heart was lifted. You have no idea what she is going through with, trying to please you.

"It is very evident to me during my last visit to town that the whole family hated me. Still at the same time I felt sorry for them, they not knowing the facts.

"I hope you take this in the same spirit in which it is written.

"Sincerely, "W. W. ORMOND."
