DAUGHTERS END SPLENDID MEET; DURHAM IN 1926

Kings' Daughters Adjourn Two-Day Session Friday—Host of Training School.

The Kings' Daughters will meet next year in Durham, this was decided in one of the last sessions of the convention which was held in this city yesterday and Thursday. The final session Friday night was given over largely to the exhibition of some of the work being done by the organization through the means of pictures. These pictures accurately displayed some of the fine things being accomplished by these good women.

The afternoon of Friday was marked by the reception given the delegates at the Jackson Training School at Concord. The delegates went to the ground of the institution as special guests of the management and the boys set up and carried through a fine program. There was a barbecue, music by a boys' band and a general program into which the boys threw themselves. Many very nice and complimentary things were said of the school and especially of the boys themselves and their gentlemanly conduct.

The delegates expressed themselves as being more than pleased with their visit to this city. The adjournment last night found the majority of the delegates remaining to the closing hours and after the gavel of the president had fallen there were numerous groups in conference over the coming year's work. The meeting was a very good one in every particular and delegates were very free to say that much of the success is due to Mrs. J. P. Cook, the untiring president and re-elected for another term. Mrs. Cook had given the organization a year of close and intelligent attention and the result was quite manifest, and delegates were loud in their praise.

Salisbury enjoyed the meeting thoroughly and the circles of the city did everything possible to make it a success. Most of the visiting delegates left the city last night following the final adjournment.

A novel closing is seen on this winter coat effectively trimmed with seal. Instead of the old reverse, we find a single one takes its diagonal course across front and allows for a smart close as well as a decoration.

CHANGES MADE IN THE DRESS DESIGN CONTEST

Lack of Space For Dressing Rooms Makes It Necessary Not to Have Costumes Modeled.

Because of a lack of space in the Fair Buildings available for use as dressing rooms, changes have been made in the plans for the dress design contest. It was announced today by Miss Mattie Lee Cooley, Home Demonstration Agent.

It had been planned to have each woman who designed and made a dress to model the gown, thus adding to the interest in the show. When it became apparent that there was no space for use as dressing rooms, it was necessary to do away with the modeling of the dresses.

A special exhibit will be made for the costumes entered and in order that time may be had for arranging them, Miss Cooley asks that all women who are presenting them, have their entries in not later than 10 o'clock Thursday, October 15th, the day of the contest. Judging will be made immediately after that time.

Prizes offered by the three banks of the city are $3 for the best dress in each of the three classes and $2 for the costume next meritorious.

The three classes are: house dresses, of gingham, chambray or percale; street dresses, of any suitable material but of semi-tailored design; and afternoon dresses, of any suitable material. The contest is open to women over 18 years of age.

Miss Cooley asks that all entries have on their dress a slip of paper with the following information: name, address, age, height, weight, color of eyes, hair and skin.

Only Four States Do Not Tax Gasoline

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Nine state legislatures, since the first of the present year, have enacted legislation taxing gasoline in their respective states, so that on July 1st, only four states in the union had no tax on gasoline.

This was revealed by figures made public by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. On January 1st, there were thirteen states in the union which did not tax gasoline, but nine of these, since that time, have imposed a gasoline tax.

States having no gasoline tax on July 1st were Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York.

North Carolina, the report shows, is one of two states in which the tax is as much as four cents. Arkansas is the other state imposing a four-cent tax. One state—South Carolina—collects a five-cent tax.

CHATS With Your Gas Man

GRANDMA SPEAKS. "I hear much complaint from the young housewives of today about long hours in the kitchen, arduous household duties, hot weather work and the like," comments an elderly woman.

"I wonder what these young girls would say if they had coal buckets and wood bins to fill, ashes to carry out, lamp wicks to trim and washing to do, over a sizzling coal stove. It seems to me they are surfeited with conveniences but utterly lacking in their sense of appreciation."

Grandma is correct. We are literally surrounded by the most marvelous conveniences known to mankind. Yet how easy it is to think lightly of them or even forget them. Sometimes it takes the older generation to bring us to our senses. A description of domestic duties fifty years ago generally makes one thankful for the blessings of today.
