Education for Success. Mrs. W. N. Butt, in The Progressive Farmer.

I heard a splendid talk the other day. It was to several hundred boys and girls, attending the farmer's short course at Baton Rouge, by the superintendent of education for Louisiana.

"You may think it is not worth while to get an education but if you do, oh, how sorry you'll be some day when you find yourself out-distanced by a dozen ways all through life, others promoted where you might have been, others able to succeed where you achieve only mediocrity.

"I am going to give you a few suggestions about some subjects to which you might well give consideration. Despire them not today for tomorrow they will open to you many a door of opportunity.

"Speak correctly. It places you with those whom you meet.

"Spell correctly. It places you with those at distance.

"Be thorough. The habit will help in everything you undertake as long as you live.

"Study arithmetic. It helps to give you a nimble brain, aside from business reason.

"Learn history. It broadens you. It gives you an understanding of what you, your state and your nation are, that you do not get otherwise.

"Above all," he said impressively, "all this learning is worth while only when founded on character."

Cabarrus County Cases in the Federal Court at Charlotte

Fines aggregating nearly $4,000 and jail sentences totaling three years and a month were administered yesterday to 30-odd defendants by Judge E. Yates Webb, presiding over the fall term of federal court for the western district of North Carolina being held this week in Charlotte. Half of the cases handled yesterday came from Cabarrus county, and D. F. Widenhouse, prohibition agent in that county, was the chief witness in most of them.

The years shed by defendants and pleas by attorneys in behalf of the children of these at the bar of justice have little weight in altering the course of the law as shown by the firm position taken by Judge Webb, who reminded them that they should have thought on these matters before. Another plea that didn't get very far yesterday was "You honor, this is the first offense and we pray that the court be light or let the defendant go," to which the court would reply, "If every man were excused because it was his first violation the state would be flooded with liquor."

Heavy Fines Imposed. Horace Cook, of Cabarrus county, charged with violation of the national prohibition law, was fined $1,000. This case came up at the April term of court, when the defendant pleaded guilty and prayer for judgment was continued. Cook's bond was fixed at $5,000. When called yesterday Judge Webb imposed a $1,000 fine and imprisonment of six months. The jail sentence, however, was suspended.

Didn't Tarry. Harvey Linker, a young white man of Cabarrus county, was sentenced to five months in jail for selling whiskey. Linker had pleaded not guilty, but the jury brought in a verdict to the contrary. Shortly after he was sentenced he disappeared from the court room, and up to last evening had not been heard from. It was alleged that Linker sold a pint of whiskey to a federal agent. He is described as a rather good looking young man about 26 years of age and well dressed.

Taking Chances. Judge Webb remarked after hearing a number of men plead not guilty and having juries return verdicts declaring them guilty, that he knew many guilty parties pleaded innocence just to take a chance with a jury. He reminded them that it was a "slim" chance and that it would be much better for them to make a clean breast of it from the first.

Innocence Abroad. Forest Black, a colored man, told the court he was not at home when officers discovered a still in his home in Cabarrus county, and that when his children upon his return told him that the gentlemen had found some barrels of "swat" at his apartment, that he was at a loss to account for its presence in his shack.

Black is alleged to have come to Charlotte and worked under an assumed name. He explained to the court that Forest was only a nickname and that his real name was Samuel Alexander Black. It was under this alias that he was recognized in Mecklenburg county and arrested. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and Judge Webb administered a sentence of three months.

Business at Home. A prohibition officer testified that he called at the home of Annie Sizemore "in cognito" and asked for some whiskey. The woman, he stated, stepped into another room and returned, accompanied by another woman, who pulled out a pint bottle from her bosom, and that he paid the Sizemore woman $2.50 for it.

Mrs. Sizemore went conspicuously when she took the stand and her attorney told of her great bereavement caused by her husband running away with another woman to California. The Sizemore woman told the court that she did not believe that she was doing wrong but the court thought otherwise and gave a jail sentence of three months.

Nose For Liquor. Luther Barbee, a young white man of Cabarrus county, was fined $200 for transporting whiskey. Agent Widenhouse testified that early in May he had a car in which Luther and Dick Barbee were riding and searched for whiskey. He did not find any. When the car had left, however, he smelled booze and careful combing of the ground revealed a half gallon jug with the top broken off, from which the contents had escaped. Another jar was found with a half gallon. Attorneys for the defense endeavored to show that Luther Barbee in court was not the Barbee that should be tried, that he had gotten mixed up with a Louis Barbee, who did have a bad reputation, according to officers. The dry agent held firm that the man facing court was the man in the car when the liquor was found.

Judge Webb imposed a sentence of $300. The attorneys considered this rather steep, whereupon the court replied that he dare say the young man involved had made at least $2,000 stilling whiskey.

ROTARY MEETING

"Accident Prevention" Talk Made Before Rotarians at Weekly Meeting Held Yesterday.

A. F. Hartsell was chairman of the program committee at the weekly meeting of the Concord Rotary Club yesterday, and he introduced to the members as the meeting speaker Mr. Matthews, representative of the Carolina Motor Club, who is spending a week here in the interest of "Accident Prevention" campaign being conducted by his club.

Statistics showing the number of accidents occurring each week, with special reference to North Carolina, were quoted by Mr. Matthews, and the speaker suggested that these accidents can best be prevented by educating the people.

For that reason, the speaker pointed out the Carolina Motor Club has sent a number of representatives to cities throughout the state, the speaker talking to school children. Mr. Matthews during the week has spoken in several local schools, pointing out to the students the need of greater care in avoiding accidents.

The average youth never knows what he wants until it's too late to get it.
