

SECOND PERIOD OF CAMPAIGN CLOSES SATURDAY NIGHT

The Honors Thus Far Are About Evenly Divided Between Candidates.—Straining Every Nerve.

WATCH OUT FOR FALSE STORIES

Don't Let Any One Discourage You by Rumors That Are More Ingenious Than Accurate.

With honors thus far about evenly divided, candidates in the Tribune-Times prize campaign are preparing with feverish haste and intensity to make their final stand for victory in the five days before 12 o'clock this coming Saturday night—the close of the second period of election.

Surging forward at the rate of several thousand votes a clip, all of the leading candidates are passing through the final days at top speed—straining every nerve in their final efforts for supremacy.

Action Grows FASTER.
More general and concerted action should take place during the next few days than at any other time since the contest began and with the race narrowing down each of the favorites are more determined than ever to be declared winners of final honors.

Interest in the competition is running high and strong. And it has not been confined alone to this locality, but has reached out into there are hundreds, yes thousands of eager watching friends who are waiting the final outcome with intense interest.

False Stories.
It is no doubt natural, with such intense interest being shown in the great race that some would attempt to discourage others by circulating rumors more ingenious than accurate.

One hears tales that are so highly embellished with frills, so utterly incredible that their utterance is readily apparent. These exaggerations are stories but no one but those who attempt to circulate them. The REAL contestants are those who are too busy either to listen or to be bluff by these would-be bluffers.

So on the basis of personal honor the competition is being waged earnestly, shedding lustre on this inspiring sight in the civil pride manifesting itself. This mighty factor is the bulwark behind the various candidates; it is going to let some one else walk off with the most desirable prize when a little concerted effort will "bring it home."

With but five more days in which to turn in subscriptions and secure "second period" votes, this race is steadily being brought to a close and the end may now be said to be in sight.

Twelve o'clock next Saturday night is positively your last chance to enter subscriptions and secure "second period" votes. Make every day, yes every hour, count while the time counts most.

Very Close Race.
The entire race is so close that any one of the candidates can forge to the front and clinch the coveted honors while the present vote schedule is in force. Indeed the outcome of the whole battle depends almost entirely upon what each individual contestant accomplishes during the next few days.

Some hard work and real hustling will undoubtedly be seen this week. And is it any wonder? Some of the hustlers are going to win the big cash awards. Isn't that sufficient compensation for the very best hustling almost "night and day" that one can make for so short a period of time?

The fair continued through Saturday, in the hope of making up for lost time during the rain, but again Saturday prospective fair visitors were discouraged by rain.

New York, Oct. 26.—(P)—Publication of the government crop report was preceded by nervous and irregular fluctuations in the cotton market here today. There also were reports of bad weather in the belt.

Veteran Hunter Turns Joke on Companions

Kinston, Oct. 25.—Luck helped a veteran deer hunter to foil practical jokers in a chase in an eastern Carolina swamp, according to an account given by Eugene Wood, widely known local sportsman. The old-timer was an unwelcome member of a party of hunters. He had killed more than 100 deer in this day, but was no longer able to keep up with the crowd, Wood said. He was assigned a place at the edge of the swamp and the chase started. The veteran fired two shots at a buck headed toward the spot here he was concealed. He "missed." The shot had been fired by the deer, which he was pursuing. The deer, pursued by a number of hounds, crashed into a clump of brush and its antlers became hopelessly entangled. The aged hunter cut his throat with a pocket knife and proudly exhibited the kill when the rest of the party came up. It was the only deer tagged by the outfit.

CAROLINA KIWANIS DISTRICT CONVENTION

One of the Special Features Will Be a Golf Tournament.
Raleigh, Oct. 25.—(P)—One of the features which it is expected will contribute to the success of the Carolina Kwanis district convention at the Pinehurst on November 5th and 6th is a golf tournament which has been arranged for. Kwanians from both North and South Carolina will gather at this winter resort for those days for their annual convention.

Dr. M. B. Gibson, of Raleigh, has been appointed chairman of the golf committee for the district convention, and he announced that his committee has made arrangements for the tournament, which will be played on the Pinehurst golf courses on the afternoon of Thursday, November 5th.

Every Kiwanian of the two Carolinas has been invited by the committee to participate for the individual prizes and the club furnishing as many as four players, says Dr. Gibson, may compete for a trophy that will be awarded. It is the plan of the committee to stage a tournament in future, the winner of the trophy to hold it for a year, the trophy to pass at the next convention to the winning club at that convention.

Already, says Dr. Gibson, eight or ten clubs have pledged a team for the tournament and more are expected to enter before the date of the convention. In urging Kiwanians to enter the tournament, Dr. Gibson has stated that it will be mainly a handicap tournament and there will be a place for the good and the poor golfer. In fact, he has stated, the idea of getting the Kiwanians closer together is considered by the committee of equal importance with the actual golfing displayed at the event.

W. B. COLE TO BE SUED FOR KILLING ORMOND

Rev. A. L. Ormond Preparing to Bring Civil Damage Suit for the Death of His Son.
Nashville, Oct. 25.—Rev. A. L. Ormond, Methodist minister of this place, will bring suit for damages against W. B. Cole, of Rockingham, for the killing of his son, W. W. Ormond, according to The Nashville Graphic local newspaper.

The suit will be brought in Wake county and will be brought by the local minister in his capacity as administrator of his son whom Cole shot to death early in August, being later acquired by a Union county jury.

Just when the summons will be issued against Cole has not been determined, but it is quite probable that this will be done immediately upon Cole's return from a distant state where, it is stated, Cole has gone to recuperate. There has been no intimation of the amount of damages that will be asked by Rev. Mr. Ormond, and this question will probably be determined when there is a conference of the attorneys who are to represent him in the contest against Cole. During the past week Mr. Ormond has been busily engaged perfecting his array of legal counsel, who are to press the suit against the slayer of young Ormond.

The Graphic learns, it states, from a most reliable source that Douglas and Douglass, of Raleigh; Larry L. Moore, of New Bern; W. R. Jones, of Rockingham, and Harold D. Cooley, of Nashville, have been retained as counsel for Mr. Ormond, and possibly others may be added to the array.

NON-STANDARD TEACHERS

In a Few Years Only Graduates Will Be Teachers in Our Public Schools.
Raleigh, Oct. 26.—(P)—In three more years there will be no teachers in North Carolina's public schools who have educational qualifications of less than graduation from a standard high school, if the present rate of decrease in the number of these so-called non-standard teachers employed in the public schools continues during the next three years at the same rate maintained during the past five years.

This is shown by figures compiled in the office of the State superintendent of public instruction, and published in the current issue of State School Facts, a department publication, just issued. The figures show a phenomenal rapid decrease in the number of teachers in the public schools of less education than graduation from a standard high school. The decrease in the city schools, it is shown, is more rapid than in the rural communities, but there is a big decrease in both types of schools.

In 1919-20 there were 5,348 non-standard rural white teachers and 320 non-standard city white teachers. In comparison, during the past school year the number had decreased to 1,633 rural and 67 city non-standard white teachers. The percentage of decrease in figures by State School Facts was 69 in the rural schools and 79 in the city schools.

In the negro schools there has likewise been a decrease, though not so rapid as in the white schools. The percentage of decrease in the negro rural schools during the past year is shown to have been 14.7, and in the negro city schools 50 per cent.

At the present rate, says the publication, there will be non-standard white teachers in the city schools in two years; in the rural schools, in three years; in the negro city schools in four years; and in the negro rural schools it is estimated that, at the present rate of decrease, it will take 20 years to eliminate the non-standard teachers.
