The North Carolina Sanatorium

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—A booklet of which only one copy is still at the institution tells of the founding and the early days of the North Carolina Sanatorium, says Miss Suedue E. Pyatt, of the Extension Department of the institution. The booklet is entitled: "The North Carolina Sanatorium for the Treatment of Tuberculosis and the Lewis Training School for Nurses, Montrose, Cumberland County, North Carolina."

building. It was heated by a fireplace and lighted with kerosene lamps. Today the old building, remodeled, steam heated, and electric lighted, stands some distance away from the present main building and is used as a cottage for women patients who are able to be out of bed.

Burlington Negro Tells Weird Tale of Rattles and Seminole Indians. Burlington, Oct. 28.—Standing at the corner of West Davis and Worth streets this morning a negro who may be known as "Slim," "Skycrocker," "Foots" or "Bones," was surrounded by a group of negro men, their ears perked, and each with his mouth wide open, listening to why—"I sho' is don't let Florida."

GEN. CARR CARRIED LARGE INSURANCE

Payment of His Policies Greatest in This State in 1924. Greensboro, Oct. 28.—Heaviest payment of insurance policies in North Carolina in 1924 was on account of the death of General Julian S. Carr, of Durham, former commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, the current issue of The Insurance Press reveals. The total paid by insurance companies for the death of General Carr was $113,368.

N. C. KIWANISANS ARE HELPING CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Co-Operating in Accordance With Guarantee of Kiwanis International. Winston-Salem Journal. Children of Salisbury who have been forced through poverty to remain in a crippled condition are taking advantage of the opportunity for treatment at the expense of the Kiwanis Club of that city with the result that a number of crippled children who have in the past been unable, either through parental prejudice to hospitals or through the lack of necessary funds, to procure proper medical attention are now completely cured and are standing on both feet for the first time in their lives.

about the work we were trying to do and offered to help either by the loan or gift of the money necessary to take care of treatment for any crippled child. Also we offered to accompany any child to Gastonia and make all the arrangements. "Then after the people were pretty well informed we thought we would tackle the hardest case first and went after the man who was going to shoot. Well, we got him; his little boy was entirely cured and the rest has been easy.

YOUNG MAN DROPS OUT OF NIGHT AT CHARLOTTE

Iredell County Youth, Son of a Prominent Family, Subject of a Search Over Several States. Harmony, Oct. 28.—Dr. R. Glenn Grose, who has been conducting a search for his missing 17-year-old brother, Gilbert, since Saturday morning, returned to his home here last night without finding any trace of the missing lad. Dr. Grose had made a quick trip of investigation to Jacksonville, Fla., and other cities south of here, where Gilbert Grose had been reported to have gone after leaving suddenly at midnight Friday.
