Mrs. E. F. White, Jr., Mrs. Kenneth Caldwell, Mrs. W. F. Goodson, and Mrs. Charles Porter are spending today in Charlotte.

L. O. Cline, A. H. Litaker and R. D. Goodman spent Wednesday in Charlotte, where they attended a sale of cattle and a dinner given to dairymen.

George Evans, County Agent of Mocksville, was a visitor in Concord Wednesday.

William Morris is spending the day in Charlotte, where he has gone to purchase some cattle for his dairy farm.

Miss Christine Steinpfler and Mrs. Catherine Heylum, of Williamsport, Pa., arrived in Concord this afternoon to spend several days at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Wadsworth. They are stopping here en route to Florida.

CABARRUS MEN ATTEND CATTLE SALE WEDNESDAY
Representative of Department of Agriculture Speaks at Dinner in Evening.

L. O. Cline, A. H. Litaker and R. D. Goodman, all of Cabarrus County, attended the North Carolina State Jersey Cattle Club sale at the Garibaldi Farm near Charlotte Wednesday and also attended the dinner given at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday evening.

The dinner, according to Mr. Goodman, was attended by over seventy-five men interested in the dairy business. The principal speaker of the evening was F. S. Graves, of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Mr. Graves' speech dealt largely, it was said, with an account of the results of investigation and breeding which is being done at the Government Experiment Station at Beltsville, Md. Mr. Graves declared that intensive studies were being made in regard to close breeding of animals of known high production and of their ability to transmit this high production to their offspring.

The dairymen at the dinner decided to match the $125 which the state is giving as Calf Club prizes by giving an additional $125 which will be offered next year.

Here's a Whole Novel Packed in a Few Lines.
Harry Vaughan of the Guide Book Co., Signal, has given the following reason for continuous use of the Sunday School Lesson in his printed service:
"A few years ago a swearing, cursing, raw-boned old woman came in my shop and said she did not get her Signal. I handed her another copy and she remarked that I probably would be surprised to know just why she wanted that paper."
"Folks here in Guide Book think I am a very wicked woman. I was raised in a swearing family and swear by force of habit. I can't help it. (She was the daughter of a river boat captain.) I don't go to church because the church folks would be shocked beyond measure to see me walking down the aisle in church. But I study the Sunday school lesson every Sunday. Your school lesson every Sunday and the lesson in the paper is the only lesson help I have. I take it and my mother's old Bible and study it the same as the holy folks who go to church."
"The old lady is dead now, but there may be others like her and I see that the S. S. lesson is in the ready print service every week."

Mrs. D. L. Potts Dead at Home Here.
Mrs. D. L. Potts died this morning at 1:45 at the home of her husband, 22 McGill street. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.
Surviving her are the following: Mr. D. L. Potts, her bereaved husband, and several children: Mrs. S. E. Berry, of Winston-Salem; Mrs. W. R. McGinnis, Gastonia; Mrs. C. D. Setzer, Lincolnton; Mrs. E. E. Kendrick, Rosemary, N. C.; John Potts and J. Robin Potts and Miss Lucy Potts, all of Concord.

Mrs. Potts was 71 years of age, and was a devoted wife, a lovely mother, a charming Christian character, and a faithful member of McGill Street Baptist Church.

Good Road From Salisbury to Charlotte via Mooresville.
Mooresville Interprise.
While the national highway is torn up between Salisbury and China Grove, hundreds of tourists are traveling through Mooresville, coming over the Mill Bridge road. There is only a small stretch of about eight miles between Salisbury and Charlotte on this road that is not hard-surfaced, and that lies between Mill Bridge and the Iredell county line. This highway, however, is in good shape and would save travelers between Charlotte and Salisbury much inconvenience. Salisbury should route tourists and others over the Mill Bridge route.

To Have Hare and Hound Race.
The boys of the city will engage in a hare and hound race Saturday morning. Hares are scheduled to start from the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock and will be given an hour before the hounds start after them. Arrows are to be placed along the route of travel for the hounds to follow. A number of the boys are expected to be in the race.

DR. W. S. RANKIN IS HEARD BY ROTARIANS

Delivered One of Most Interesting and Most Instructive Speeches in History of Local Club.
Members of Concord's Rotary Club met at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday in their regular weekly meeting.
Immediately upon the conclusion of the business session of the meeting President Odell called upon Dr. W. S. Rankin, a trustee of the Duke foundation, who was a guest of Dick Rankin, to talk to the club on any subject that he might choose, suggesting however, that inasmuch as Concord was very much interested in securing a hospital and the Rotary Club had taken steps looking to interesting the Duke Foundation in the city's needs, that he could in all probability give the Club some valuable information and suggestions looking to the procurement of a suitable institution for our community.

Dr. Rankin delivered one of the most interesting and instructive addresses that has been heard by the club since its organization. He pointed out that sickness and suffering are essential to the development of human character—that it's purpose is that the works of God might be manifest, and in ridding the world of sickness and suffering human character was developed. He lauded J. B. Duke and said that in leaving his large fortune for the relief of suffering humanity he did a great thing—that coming generations would call him blessed. He urged that we should develop a philanthropic impulse in our religion and to this end our churches could greatly assist in securing a hospital for Concord. He said that if we really wanted a hospital we could get it—it being simply a question of how bad we wanted. He explained the terms under which the Duke Foundation would lend its aid in the establishment of a hospital, pointing out that it had been estimated that the cost of hospital maintenance is $3.00 per bed and that the foundation will give $1.00 per bed for every two dollars raised by the community. He said that at the beginning, it would seem that a hospital with one bed per thousand population would be sufficient. He made many other suggestions that should assist the local committees in interesting the Duke Foundation in local needs.

Rotarians Guy Phillips, of Salisbury, and John H. Cole of Lexington, very guests at the meeting of Shipp Webb, Dr. S. W. Rankin was the guest of F. C. Niblock and Rotarian Burton Ely, of Morristown, N. J., was the guest of the club.

CITY TO FURNISH WATER TO TRAINING SCHOOL

School Heretofore Has Been Supplied From Deep Wells.
At a meeting of the Water and Light Board Wednesday evening, it was decided to furnish water to the Jackson Training School for domestic purposes.
Up to the present time, the Training School has been dependent on water from several deep water wells. During last summer's drought, the wells failed to furnish sufficient water for the use of the school and a pipe line had to be laid to Coddle Creek.
Pipe lines for the new source of water will be laid at once and as soon as these are put down, the Training School will start using city water.
Although no action has been taken in the matter, it is thought likely that residents between the city and the Training School will be able to tap this line if it is found that there is any surplus water to be sold.
At the meeting were C. H. Barrier, C. A. Isehour, A. F. Goodman and J. O. Moore, members of the board.

TRAINMEN WOULD HAVE WAR-TIME WAGE RATE

Proposed Increase in Pay Would Mean $25,000,000 Additional in Annual Salary.
Chicago, Nov. 4.—Proposals centering on restoration of war-time wage levels were approved late today by the western joint association of General Chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors.
The increase contemplated in such a proposal would involve more than $25,000,000 a year when applied to more than 200,000 men in yard and train service.

This action is believed to be the first in a re-opening by the transportation brotherhoods and other national railroad organizations of their campaign of 1923 and 1924 which sought an increase of 12 per cent. and culminated in an increase of about five.

The association has been in session two days. Tomorrow will elect officers and a conference committee. On November 10th its conclusions will be reported by the grand officers to the southern association in a similar meeting at Washington and November 17th, the eastern association will deliberate at Cleveland. If necessary the officers and conference committee will be called upon to appear at the southern and eastern meetings.
Brotherhood officers indicated that the proposals in their final form, as agreed upon by representatives of the three associations, might go to the managers within 30 days. Until that time they declined to divulge details as formulated by the western group.

The pneumatic tire, which is now used on every type of vehicle from a perambulator to a mammoth motor coach, had a very humble origin, for it was suggested to the inventor by the sight of a length of rubber garden hose tied around the wheel of a wheelbarrow.

The Japanese are very superstitious in regard to lucky and unlucky numbers. Certain numbers are deemed so unlucky that no telephone subscriber would accept them, so they are usually taken by government offices, schools, public stations, and other public institutions.

MORE PRAISE IS SUNG TO STATE'S HIGHWAYS

Tourist's After Skidding All Over Old Dominion, Find Welcome Relief at State Line.
Raleigh, Nov. 3.—Automobilists who followed Frank Spruill, Jr., through Virginia mud into North Carolina, down to Greensboro, where Spruill took the Raleigh road and they made the long trip through the state to Rock Hill, then Florida, gave North Carolina superlative glory. Mr. Spruill said this morning when he hiked for Rocky Mount.

The travelers had been through Roanoke, where they stuck in the mud and Mr. Spruill overtook them. They dragged and skidded over the mountains, these tourists from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Maryland, New York, New Jersey and Delaware. Mr. Spruill headed the process. They wrapped their balloons in chains and pulled slowly toward the state line. Once across it, they struck North Carolina.

"Citizens of the world," Mr. Spruill said grandiloquently, "this is North Carolina. God bless her. Take off your chains and godown the pike. I am leaving here."
They reinovied their anti-sliders and struck a North Carolina gait. In a brief drive they were in North Carolina. All the way they yelled for North Carolina. Mr. Spruill said they acted as boys who had broken prison. And when they struck Greensboro they were on their first 100 miles with another 100 of hard surface.

The Rocky Mount man and Nash county lover whose representative doubts not that this bevy of first raters will go off and give North Carolina a million dollars worth of notoriety. The baseball star of the University in the olden days appeared to be anxious to get back to the general assembly where he can vote for a few more millions with which to build a few more hundreds of hard surfaced miles.

City Charters Show "Absurd Idiotry" Says Editor of McClure's.
"Government of city, county and state is the only business in which the people of the United States fail," says S. S. McClure in an article upon the "Government of the United States" in the November McClure's. "With our unparalleled genius for organization we should have the finest government in the world. But it is the only business in the country which is carried on in absolute disregard of the teachings of universal human experience."

"The bulk of the city charters consist of absurd and unworkable provisions; there is more downright idioty and absurdity in this collection than can be found elsewhere in the whole realm of print."
"People may say it is not the form of government that counts; but the men who administer it."
The writer says that this statement assumes there are several systems of government possible. There can be only two. First the system under which the people elect only a board of directors; second, the system whereby the people directly elected executives, experts and judges. History affords no example of a government that administers exact justice, that affords adequate protection to life and property, which has departed in any way from the first system. All corporations the world over and all civilized nations except the United States and the Latin-American republics, employ the committee method.

S. A. Lowrance Dies at Mooresville Home.
Mooresville, Nov. 3.—S. A. Lowrance, a native of Rowan county, but for 45 years a resident of Mooresville, died at his home on West Center avenue Saturday night at 11 o'clock, aged 79 years the first day of June last. He was one of the pioneer builders of the city and for 35 years was a member of the firm of Templeton, Williams and company, millers and ginners. At one time he was a merchant and farmer, a director of the Mooresville Cotton Mills and the First National Bank, Mooresville Telephone company and minor industries. He served valiantly through the War Between the States.

Recently he gave to the city property and cash to the amount of $20,000 for the purpose of building a hospital which is now under course of construction and which bears his name.

He was noted for his many gifts to the church and for other philanthropic deeds, and was a deacon in the First Presbyterian church for many years. While a resident of Clearwater, he was made an elder.

Two Footproof Cells in New Charlotte Jail

Charlotte, Nov. 3.—When they put you in the brand new hogsgow at the city police building you're there for keeps. You can write that in your hatband and remember it when temptation lurks in your path-way, says the Charlotte Observer.
"Bad men won't have a show, once they get lodged behind the bars in the new jail. If a prisoner, who is considered a real, dangerous desperado, gets in the clutches of the law, the police will give him sleeping quarters in one of two special cells that look just like all the rest, but which are different. Oh, so different."
These two cells are guaranteed to be "fool proof." That, in fact, is what they are called—"fool proof." Chief Ferguson says "you can't saw out 'em, and you can't get out of 'em any other way. When you get in there, you are in there to stay."
The city jail ought to be much more attractive to prisoners in other ways, however, than the old jail. It is spotlessly clean, and Chief Ferguson and his officers have promised to keep it that way. The bunks are comfortable and the cells are rooms.

New Mystery Shaal.
Mariners were astounded to learn of a new uncharted shoal, just south-east of Cape Hatteras, shown in this map. It was reported by the American steamer West Helene, when she made soundings in a fog. This change is the most important ever known along the Atlantic coast.
