TWENTY BIRTHS AND NINE DEATHS REPORTED HERE

Only three colored babies reported for October—four children died during month.

Twenty births and nine deaths were reported to W. M. Sherrill, registrar of vital statistics for Concord, during October, according to a report sent to the Bureau of Vital Statistics at Raleigh by Mr. Sherrill.

Of the twenty births reported to Mr. Sherrill, only eleven occurred in October, the others occurring in previous months. In this connection it was pointed out that only four physicians reported for the month.

Only three colored children were born in Concord during October, according to the report, and two of these were illegitimate. The birth of one illegitimate white child was reported during the month.

Five white and four colored persons died in the city during October, the records for deaths being complete, and of the total deaths four were of male persons.

Heart disease continues to take more lives in Concord than any other one malady, three of the nine deaths reported in October being caused by heart ailment.

During the first sixteen years of the Eastern intercollegiate cross-country competition Cornell won the team championship fourteen times.

As is customary, Coach Younger is putting out all varieties of sob stuff about the strength of Hampden-Sydney and the weakness of his team. All of which is being taken locally with the usual exclamation: "applause!"

Duke and the Demon Deacons will not prove as great a drawing card as it has some years, chiefly because of the weakness of the Methodist team. Duke has had a disastrous season and is not even given an outside chance to win. It is our guess, nevertheless, that Duke will give a better battle than is at present expected of her.

With the Guilford-Lynchburg bout, it is a little hard to make a prophesy since both are so weak. The chances are that Lynchburg will be able to win from the Quakers by a small score.

Lenoir-Rhyne should have no trouble in disposing of the baby college of the state when she takes on High Point, although High Point has given Guilford and some of the prep schools of the state quite a little trouble. By the way things are pointings at present, Lenoir should win the small college title of the state.

FLAT WHEEL ERA COMES TO AN END IN CONCORD

City Employees Remove Overhead Wires.—Residents Recall the Past Trolley Glory Days.

Concord's business section was short of one of its chief glories Thursday.

The street car overhead wires, which for a period of over ten years had conveyed "juice" to the speeding trolleys below, were removed by city employees, thus bringing definitely to an end what might be termed as the "flat wheel era."

Many people were present at the demise of the wires and watched with interest the operations. Particularly was this true at the square where both men and women stood with eyes and mouths open while the employees of the water and light department climbed the poles and proceeded to clip with their giant cutters.

The proceedings were an unqualified success and, although many of these present had suggestions to offer, none went so far as to follow up their advice with action and give a demonstration from the top of the pole.

It is considered particularly unfortunate that persons who, in the past, boasted to visiting relatives and friends of the remarkable street car service in Concord, who pointed out that the city had four real trolley cars, will have to look for a new line of chatter with which to make an impression.

Rumors have it that many of the boosters will change their tack to a series of exclamations over the excellence of the Kerr street jitney.

As the wires were being removed, older residents began to reminisce over the days of yore when the street cars first started in Concord. When the line was built, the city was all puffed up over herself, for she was having the first storage battery street cars in the country. Edison, himself, was to come down to watch them in action.

Edison didn't come, due to previous engagements, and the cars didn't work so well.

Later the storage battery car was abandoned and in its place the regular trolleys were installed. This added to the maize of overhead wires which obstructed the view of the heavens.

In time, the new cars, strangely enough, all developed flat wheels, which was bad not only for the persons riding, joggling them up and down as though on horseback, but was quite a strain on the ears.

When the jitneys began operating, the cars found it almost impossible to make both ends meet and so recently all service was discontinued and the dismantling was begun.

Forest Hill Stewards Meet.

The stewards of Forest Hill Methodist Episcopal Church held their first regular monthly meeting of the year Thursday night, November 5th, with 100 per cent attendance.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the doors of the ladies' parlor were thrown open, displaying a magnificent set of tables, decorated with beautiful chrysanthemums, and covered with a generous layout of silver and dishes, which were heaped with food. The board was ushered in and given a dinner by Rev. T. F. Higgins, returned pastor, with Mrs. Higgins as hostess.

After the meal the stewards retired to their meeting room and business. The following officers were elected to serve the coming year:

- W. R. Odell, chairman, W. R. Murr, secretary, and J. J. Goldston, treasurer.

With the return of Brother Higgins, we feel that the prevailing spirit of the church as a whole is very good and we all are looking forward to a bigger and better year than Forest Hill has ever known.
